No BVD Epidemic, But Concern Prevails

BVD Update, Cattle Restraint, Milk System Management At Housing Expo

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — "There does not appear at this time to be an epidemic ripping through this area, but we need to be aware," said Dr. Lynn Sammons, veterinarian from Willow Creek Animal Hospital, Reading.

Sammons provided the latest information about bovine viral diarrhea (BVD) in the region on Tuesday during the 1994 Animal Housing Expo.

Visitors crowded the room at the Lebanon Fairgrounds to hear about the causes and treatment of BVD, which has created a lot of worry for dairy farmers throughout the region.

The disease is carried by and attacks cows, but also can be carried by sheep, goats, and white-tailed deer. Symptoms of this strain of the virus cause dairy cattle to get an extremely high fever (from 107 to 110 degrees), bloody diarrhea, running mouth and nose, milk drop, off feed, abortions, and death within 14-44 hours, according to the veterinarian.

The virus, which can be found through a titer test in about 90 percent of cows in Pennsylvania, according to Sammons, only becomes active if there are susceptible animals.

Although the disease was first identified about 50 years ago in an outbreak in New York state (caused by BVD Type 1 virus), according to Sammons, a vaccine kept it under control.

About eight years ago, according to Sammons, the disease reappeared in an outbreak in some areas of Pennsylvania and New York State. Reports have verified that herds in Ontario, Canada were infected in early 1993 with BVD. What made it difficult to detect, according to Sammons, is that the virus does not show up in blood

Pennsylvania Dairies Of Distinction Announced

KINGSTON (Luzern Co.) — The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program announced Pennsylvania winners of the 1994 Dairy of Distinction award this week. Thirty-three farms in Pennsylvania have been selected as new recipients of this honored award.

The Dairy of Distinction program has been operating in Pennsylvania since 1986. Including this year's winners, a total of 555 Pennsylvania dairy farms have been recognized through this program.

The program was established in New York State in 1983, and has since spread to Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The program was developed to recognize farms which maintain a high quality farm appearance.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. The winning farms receive attrac-

Cooperatives Council Honors Several At Institute

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — The theme for the 1994 Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) Institute held at Shippensburg University was "Cooperatives: Made From the Best People On Earth."

Quite a few of those people came away with awards and other honors during the banquet that was the highlight of the institute.

For starters, there was Daniel Atkins of Lebanon County, who won the spot as the first-year scholar in the Walter Loy Quiz.

The second-year scholar winner for the quiz was Colleen Mowery of Jefferson County.

The boy winner for the Jay Irwin Leadership Award was Tony Miller of Lancaster County. The

Bradford Farm-City Day Draws 700 Visitors

HORNBROOK (Bradford County) — "Fascinating," was how Joe Adams of Hornbrook described his visit to Bradford County Farm City Day.

And, judging from the crowd's reaction, many other visitors were fascinated as well.

Hosted by the Wanck families on Son-Cada Farm, this year's Farm City Day drew about 700 people, that's more than twice as many as the group hosted last year, according to the Wancks.

Son-Cada Farms has been in the Wanck family since 1893. Currently Merle and his wife, Peg and their children, Julia, Amy and Erin, farm with his brother, Les and his wife, Kathy and their children, Lisa, Jason, Jacob and Eric.

The farm boasts 150 head of Holsteins, half of which are registered.

"It was a goal of my grandparents to have a registered herd, said Amy Wanck. "They weren't able to do it in their lifetime, so my parents and uncle are carrying on the tradition. Our goal is to have an all registered herd.

They also own 300 acres on which they raise 90 acres of corn and 160 acres of alfalfa for hay and haylage.

While at the farm, visitors had the chance to see sheep shearing demonstrations, take a wagon ride to see field demonstrations, get a first hand glimpse of goats being milked and touch young farm animals, including a pig, two calves, and hens.

They would also take a tour of the Wancks'barn where various veterinarian and herd management tools were on display, and talk with numerous exhibitors.

One popular stop was the food area where free coupons could be cashed in for milkshakes and everyone could sample some of the Pennsylvania Beef Council's Teriyaki Stir-Fry hot off the grill.

The Kiwanis Club sold desserts and a chicken barbecue with all the trimmings was also available for sale.

Information leaflets on the costs of farming, the resources necessary to successfully operate a farm as well as dairy product and beef information and recipes was handed out also.

For Ebony Thompson of Washington D.C. area, who was visiting friends in the area, the best parts included the milkshakes and the hay ride and the sheep shearing demonstration.

For others, the best part of their visit to the farm was actually seeing animals up close. Kittens were also one of the favorites mentioned.

Organizers of the event agreed that many of their goals were met

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Holstein Association held a social/field day Thursday at the farm of Steve and Heidi Hershey near Elizabethtown. In the morning, John Bomgardner, Lebanon County dairy farmer, served as the official judge of three classes to be placed for prizes by the attendees.

In the women's division, Jesslyn Oberholtzer was first; Alma Wenger was second; Susan Howard placed third.

For the men, Paul Zimmerman was first; Darrell Ranck was second; Gerald Risser was third.

In the youth class, Wilford Martin was first; Jason Wivell, was second; Justin Wivell was third.

After a nice chicken barbeque lunch, the program included several reports. State director John Howard reported that at the national convention last week, the associ-

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, July 13, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds slowed which was generally noted as typical of mid-week activity. Offerings were adequate to short with 3.5 and 4 pound sizes in tightest supply. Live supplies were moderate; weights varied, but were generally light to desirable. Hot, humid weather returned, and several processors expected weights would trend lighter again. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 56 to 66 cents. Trade sentiment was steady to fully steady. Boneless skinless breasts were in tight supply. Leg quarters were in heaviest balance. Other items were generally adequate.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, July 13, 1994

NATIONAL EGG - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged to higher in the Northeast and Midwest, unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand was mixed across the full range and was mostly moderate to fairly good, best where featured, into food service channels, auate to instances fully adequate yet held with confidence. Breaking stock supplies were adequate to barely adequate for the moderate demand, and prices continued to increase. Live hen offerings were at least adequate for the light to moderate demand under a generally steady trade sentiment.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, July 13, 1994

Trucklot buying interest was generally reported as typical for a Wednesday. Boneless breasts were in the tightest position and some processors struggled to keep up with demand. Bone-in breasts moved into a better position and for the most part were adequate for current needs. Wings continued to clear well. Dark meat items were difficult to move and were readily available. There was a difference of opinion on thighs. There was an overall cautiousness that enveloped most of the market.

WHEN IT'S HOT...

your layers will still be comfortable if you have the Big Dutchman Slot-Aire Layer Cage System.

Extremely hot temperatures during the week of June 13 caused many layer flocks to have high mortality and less eggs.

Not at the IRWIN MARTIN Farm
in Newmanstown, PA

The superior design of the Big Dutchman Slot-Aire System kept this flock well ahead of the "Breeder Standard" - even during hot weather.
ONLY Big Dutchman has Slot-Aire.

At 42 weeks, this Dekalb Delta flock of 45,581 birds produced more eggs with less feed than average flocks. This adds up to more profits over the life of the flock.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, Okla.
Wednesday, July 13, 1994

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY: Compared to last week: Feeder cattle and calves opened firm to $2.00 higher, however by early afternoon steers over 850 lbs. and heifers over 700 lbs. $2.00-$4.00 higher than last week. Trade very active. Demand excellent with very good participation and support from combelt buyers. Quality of the supply average to attractive (this better than normal in mid-summer but dry conditions and improved prices bringing several cattle to town that have been resisting low markets). Weigh-ups gaunt to full, mostly average to full. Flesh condition generally attractive in the light to medium range, modest end fleshy. Grazing cattle supply includes good percentage of calf weight yearlings. Slaughter cows and bulls steady to $1.00 higher. Receipts this week 12,775; last week 2,310; last year 12,754. Supply consisted of 79 percent yearlings and few calves over 600 lbs.; 18 percent calves and yearlings under 600 lbs.; 3 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

Feeder Steers: Medium and Large Frame 1: 400-450 lbs. (429 lbs.) $90.50-$99.75 ($96.02); 450-500 lbs. (478 lbs.) $87.00-$90.00 ($88.51); 500-550 lbs. (523 lbs.) $83.00-$91.00 ($87.41); 550-600 lbs. (571 lbs.) $80.50-$89.00 ($84.77); 600-650 lbs. (633 lbs.) $78.00-$84.00 ($81.68); 650-700 lbs. (679 lbs.) $78.00-$82.75 ($80.71); 700-750 lbs. (725 lbs.) $78.00-$81.25 ($79.14); 750-800 lbs. The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

MARDON ME, PADAM . . .

Will posterity recall your accomplishments" Or, as in the case of Reverend William Archibald Spooner, an accidental slip of the tongue! Spooner was warden of New College, Oxford University, from 1903-1924 One day he was announcing the hymn "Conquering Kings Their Titles Take" but instead said, "Kinquering Kongs Their Titles Take," and in one "swell foop" the spoonerism was born Oxford students wasted no time producing their own examples and attributing them to the warden Luckily, Spooner had a sense of humor and even added more of his own misspoken expressions to the growing collection, which includes It's kistomary to cuss the bride, half-warmed fish, and blushing crow

No one is exempt from talking nonsense; the mistake is to do it solemnly. — Michel Eyquem de Montaigne

TIP OF THE WEEK

Apply a paste of cornstarch and water to grease spots on silk. Allow to dry and brush off.

EARTHWISE

One way to reduce your use of packaging and save resources is to replenish at-home products with large, economy-size refills But it doesn't have to be labeled "refill" in order to be used that way A large glass jar of honey will replenish your plastic honey bear two or three times Squeezable ketchup bottles are difficult to recycle because they're made of layers of different kinds of plastic Each time you refill the plastic bottle from a larger glass bottle you're helping the Earth

SHRIMP SALAD

2 cups cleaned, cooked shrimp
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups diced celery
1/3 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup chili sauce
lettuce
2 hard-boiled eggs

Combine all ingredients except lettuce and eggs, and chill well Serve on beds of lettuce garnished with sliced hard-boiled eggs

Makes 4 servings

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Cloudy and mild, turning warm, showers, heavy rain west, cooler then warming

SOUTHEAST: Rainy and cool, turning sunny and warm, few showers coast then rainy and milder

MIDWEST: Clear and warm, rainy and cool north, cool with thunderstorms, clearing and milder

NORTHWEST: Rainy and cool, sunny and warm mountains, clearing, turning sunny and hot

SOUTHWEST: Clear and cool, very hot desert, thundershowers mountains, then cooling desert, warm California

WHEAT PRICES WERE MIXED, WEDNESDAY, WITH SLIGHT DECLINES NOTED IN HARD AND SOFT RED WINTER WHEAT PRICES DUE TO HARVEST PRESSURE AND GOOD CROP CONDITIONS. SOFT WHITE WHEAT PRICES JUMPED HIGHER ON IMPROVED EXPORT DEMAND. CORN AND SOY- BEAN PRICES FINISHED SLIGHTLY HIGHER ON IMPROVED EXPORT INTERESTS AND A DE- CLINE IN THE U.S. DOLLAR. WHEAT MIXED. CORN 1 TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM 2 TO 4 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 1 TO 2 CENTS HIGHER. WINTER WHEAT PRICES FELL UNDER HARVEST PRESSURE AND GOOD CROP YIELDS. FAVORABLE HARVEST WEATHER CONTINUED AS SOFT RED WINTER WHEAT HARVEST IS NEAR COMPLETION AND QUALITY YIELDS ARE BEING REPORTED. GOOD EXPORT DEMAND THIS WEEK LIMITED DECLINES AND INDICATIONS RUSSIA IS SEEKING U.S. WHEAT FLOUR, ADDED SUPPORT. A WEAKER U.S. DOLLAR AND FIRMER EXPORT DEMAND BOOSTED CORN AND SOYBEAN PRICES. STRONGER PRICES WERE LIMITED, HOWEVER, AS FAVORABLE GROWING CONDITIONS CONTINUE IN MIDWEST AREAS.

OPINION

Hard To Tell Fact, Fiction

Opponents of agriculture find many ways to educate the public to their way of thinking. Some of these ways are very subtle. Sometimes false scientific information is given, or emotional appeals are presented.

The big journalistic productions like the "60 Minutes" Alar scare probably do the most damage. But have you noticed how some television sitcoms have interesting ways to incorporate negative farm ideas into their dramas? Negative references to hamburgers and beautiful fur coats that turn into blood at the fashion review have been part of recent TV fare.

Now we have a motion picture ready to appear across the country that will make dairy farmers see red or worse. Previews of "I Love Trouble" indicate the story is about two newspaper reporters trying to scoop each other. The story they are after is about a pharmaceutical company that markets a hormone called LDF and enables dairy cattle to begin producing milk by nine months of age. Trouble is, the milk will cause cancer to consumers who drink it.

What can we say? Fiction writers have their license. But we admit, this story is a little too close to the BST controversary to be comfortable.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Manage Beef Under Drought Conditions

Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, offers the following advice for cow-calf operators experiencing drought conditions.

First, early wean the calf crop. The nutritional needs of the beef cow herd may be reduced and feed resources may be more effectively used by early weaning the calf crop during drought conditions. For most spring calving cows, peak milk production has passed and these cows have produced 90 percent of all the milk they will provide to the calf.

The annual nutritional requirements of the herd are at their lowest immediately after breeding and lactation. Thus, less feed will be needed for the cows.

To replace the milk for the calf, feed a grain mix (one half to one percent of the calf's body weight) of 60 percent corn, 30 percent oats, and 10 percent soybean meal with enough molasses to prevent sorting of the grain, plus a good quality hay or pasture.

Second, to optimize pasture use, the cattle must be rotated. Given the opportunity, cattle will eat the best grass first and save the rest till latter. By rotating pastures, the cattle will tend to use more of the total forage available, particularly in short-term grazing cells of a day in length.

Finally, when feed resources are short, a cow that is wintered without a chance of having a calf next year is a economic drain on the beef enterprise. Have a veterinarian palpate the cow and cull those cows that are not pregnant.

To Manage Alfalfa Hay Fields

We have been blessed with a lot of good haymaking weather this spring. As a result, a lot of excellent quality hay and haylage has been made and stored.

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, notes the alfalfa was cut at a young, nutritious stage, in the prebud and bud stage of maturity.

To protect the vigor and life of these early cut alfalfa stands, let the second cutting come into bloom. Removing the second cutting too soon could weaken or kill the stand. Shirk also recommends testing the forage to determine its quality. You will then be able to use the alfalfa the most effectively in the ration.

Excellent quality forages are a valuable asset, especially during tight economic times. Do not waste high quality forages on cattle that do not need them. Chances are, these forages will be very high in protein, high in energy, and low in fiber. In fact, you may have to add additional, good quality fiber to the ration.

To Evaluate Your Management

Dr. David Kohl, Virginia Tech, gave some very good advice at the Animal Housing Expo this week.

How good of a cost control manager are you? With today's declining egg, pork and milk prices, cost control becomes very important. Your goal should be $1 or more revenue generated for every $0.65 of expenses.

Look for ways to reduce costs. Some of these are repair before buying new, paying bills on time or in cash, shop around and check bills for errors in math, items not received, correct price, etc.

Do not work too many hours. A part-time farmer with another full-time job should work no more than 1,000 hours per year on the farm. A full-time farmer should not work more than 3,000 hours per year on the farm. If you work more than these hours, you will lose one or more of the following: your health, your family, or your job or farm.

Good farm managers are now developing strategies on how to handle a 3 percent rise in interest rates, a 10 percent decline in revenue, and a 5 percent increase in costs. Some ways this will be achieved is by having an increase in productivity per production unit, holding family living costs in line, limiting debt, and avoiding killer toys (expensive hobbies).

Now is the time to start controlling costs and work at being the most efficient producer possible.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE "C-WORD"

THE "C-WORD"
July 17, 1994

Background Scripture:
Exodus 19:1 thru 20:17
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 5:2-20

My grandson, James Paul Harrison, was baptized today. For lots of peopple baptism is just a name-giving ritual with religious trappings. For others it is a ritual that is essential for the child's being part of the church. I have known people who believed that, if a child died before baptism, he or she would be denied salvation. Still other Christians believe that baptism is only valid for adults who have made their decision for Christ.

It is not my purpose to get into a controversy over the meaning of baptism; I respect the various different views on this subject. But, regardless of the theology of baptism, there is a common thread that runs through all or most baptisms. It is the dreaded "C-word," commitment (you remember that word, don't you?). Not that the word itself appears in the rituals, but that commitment is what baptism is all about — and lots of other things beside.

James was committed to the Lord until such time as he can personally confirm that commitment. Our daughter and her husband made commitments to bring James up in the knowledge of God and the life of the church. So did the godparents. The rest of us — family and friends — also committed ourselves to provide as we can for James' spiritual welfare and the church through its priest made a similar commitment.

A PIECE OF PAPER

It seems that there are lots of couples today who do not seek baptism for their children because they are reluctant to make the commitments it requires. This reluctance also undermines the institution of marriage. People who live together "without benefit of clergy" sometimes tell me their living-together relationship gives them everything that marriage can offer, but without being "tied-down to a contract," as one man put it. "We don't miss out on anything," he assured me.

The whole question of marriage vs. non-marriage relationships is too big and broad to tackle in the space of this column. But I am convinced that usually the one thing most likely to be missing in a relationship without marriage is commitment. "I don't want to feel that I have to do this," said one person, "I'd rather do it because I want to." Another person told me that she wanted a "relationship," not a piece of paper.

Yes, it would be nice if everything we need to do would be done because we wanted to do it. But there are times when we need to do what we may not feel like doing. (If I had done only those things that I really wanted to do, there would have been a lot more people let down. There are times when we need to act, not because we are magnanimously motivated, but because we know we have made a commitment.

MORE THAN FEELING?

I think the reason people have problems with the "C-word" is because they also misunderstand the "L-word." Lots of people assume that love is essentially a feeling. When we feel a certain way, we will act a certain way. We will do good things when we feel a certain way, we will act a certain way. We will do good things when we feel like doing them and we will do evil things when we feel like being evil. But that isn't what love is all about; it also encompasses what we do when we may not necessarily feel loving. When we respond to loving feelings, that is a lower level of love than when we respond despite the lack of living feelings.

You can have love without a piece of paper but you cannot really have love without commitment. And that is the basis of the relationship that God proposed between himself and his people. Each would commit to the other: "Now therefore, if you will obey my voice, and keep my covenant, you shall be my own possession among all people" (19:5).

The world — and us — needs to rediscover the "C-word."

THE CLASSIFIED LIVESTOCK SECTION HAS BEASTLY SELECTIONS!

Breathe Clean, Cool Powered Air

Combined respiratory, head, eye and face protection creates a personal mini-environment of clean air for you to work. You can do more work in less time because you take fewer breaks. By increasing productivity you increase profit - not to mention comfort!

Use it for:
- Ragweed and other pollens in field mowing
- Making hay - especially round bales
- Combining
- Handling poultry
- Cleaning chicken houses

Similar products available to protect you in your orchard spraying and to control odor problems.

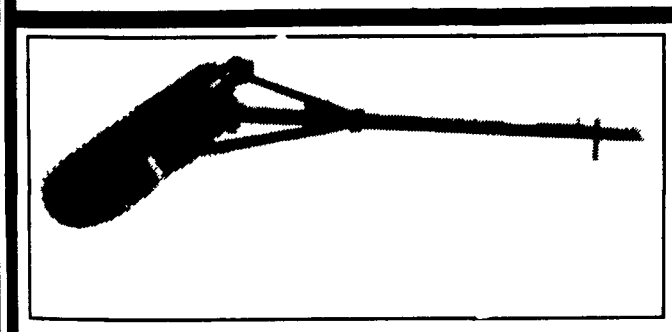
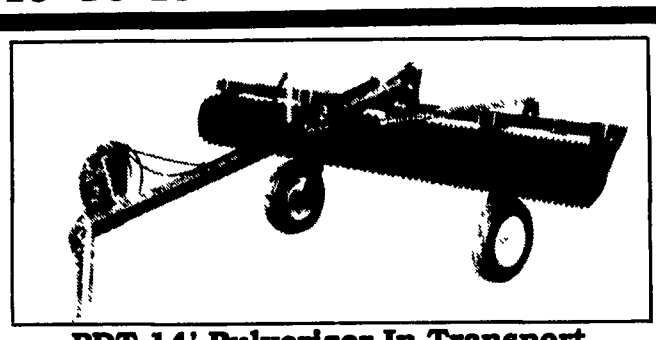
SINGLE GANG PULVERIZERS
10' TO 16' WIDTHS



P-Series Pull Type Pulverizers
Brillion Pulverizers crush clods and firm the soil for better contact between seeds and soil.



PDT 14' Pulverizer In Transport Position
This concept of transport is new to the industry. Machine weight is rotated over the tires for transport which considerably reduces the drawbar hitch weight.

Both model pulverizers offer choice of 20" ductile iron wheel (which carries a 5-year limited warranty), 20" notched rollers, 20" crowfoot, 18" smooth, 16" notched or 15" smooth wheels with sprockets.

Fair Happenings

Tioga County Fair

Family fun and free entertainment are the bill of fare all week long at the Tioga County Fair on Monday, August 8 through Saturday, August 13. Several new attractions to this year's fair are a petting zoo and Cousin Huey. The petting zoo will offer kids young and young at heart the opportunity to see and feed many of this area's farm animals.

Cousin Huey will bring you lots of laughter and fun as he takes you back to the days of strolling salesmen, traveling from town to town distributing their goods. Although his truck is full of fruits, vegetables and products reminiscent of days gone by, the only things Cousin Huey will be selling are stories, jokes, and plenty of entertainment. So whether you want to just stand and watch Cousin Huey as he travels the fairgrounds, or if you want to tell a joke or hear one, don't miss this week-long entertainer!

Hedge's Amusements, Sunset Ice Cream, and the Tioga County Fair are sponsoring free musical entertainment all week-long in the carnival area. Starting the week off on Tuesday night at 7:30, 8:30 and 10 p.m. will be Voyager, a rock band that has appeared in several schools in the fair area.

New Life will be appearing on Wednesday night with two shows, the first at 7 p.m. and then again at 8:30 p.m. This family group delivers a variety of musical styles with an emphasis on southern gospel and Christian country music.

On Thursday, August 10, Johnny Jolin rides into town to stir up some good ol' fashioned fun. If you like to move to the music, this country band will get your feet stompin' to the country hits of the '90s. He'll throw in a couple of his own just for fun, too. Johnny Jolin will be appearing at 7:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m. and 10 p.m.

An entertainer, new to the Tioga County Fair, will be performing on Friday night. Sharon Goodling brings a country style all her own as she steps on the stage in the carnival area. Her dynamic voice is sure to make her shows at 7:30, 8:30, and 10 p.m. a big hit with fairgoers.

Last, but certainly not least, is the performance of Just Us for Saturday night's shows. This '50s and '60s song and comedy group has appeared recently at the Youth Center Building at a benefit for the Laurel Festival as well as at last year's Fair. Just Us is a five-part Harmony band who will be singing and performing the best of the Beach Boys, the Four Seasons, Mammas and Pappas, and more.

Game Booths Wanted!

Local community service organizations, home and school groups, and other nonprofit organizations are invited to participate in the Montgomery County 4-H Fair by setting up a game booth during the 4-H Fair. The 4-H Fair is scheduled for August 11-13 at the 4-H Center, located on Route 113 near Skippack.

The 4-H Fair is family-oriented, noncommercial, and attended by close to 5,000 people during the three days.

4-H would like to offer community groups the opportunity to make money for their organization and, at the same time, add additional entertainment for families at the fair. All that is asked is that the group make a small donation to the 4-H program, which helps to offset the cost of running the 4-H Fair.

Organizations may charge a nominal fee to play their game and keep the profits. The game must be family-oriented (no betting), award small prizes for winners, and must be pre-approved by the 4-H staff. No individual entrepreneurs may participate.

All of the game booths will be outdoors and you must provide your own table, chairs, and any other needed equipment. Groups are welcome to put up a sign to advertise their organization and the name of the game.

Electricity will not be available, but there will be adequate lighting in the evening. The hours for game booth operation are Thursday, 7 p.m.-9 p.m.; Friday, 11 a.m.-9 p.m.; and Saturday, 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m. You may set up for all or part of the time.

If you are interested in participating, contact Helaine Brown, 4-H agent, at (610) 489-4315, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Zerby Receives Leadership Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Henry Zerby, a senior majoring in dairy and animal science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, has received the 1994 Ag Student Council Leadership Award.

Zerby, the son of Nevin and Isabel Zerby of Beavertown, has participated in many activities and events in the collegte. He has served as president and secretary of the Ag Student Council, as vice president of the Block and Bridle Club, and as a member of the Poultry Science Club and Coaly Society.

The Ag Student Council Leadership Award recognizes students with exceptional leadership abilities. Zerby was selected from among 15 finalists to receive the award, which was presented at the April 12 meeting of the Ag Student Council on the University Park Campus.

"I plan to remain involved in the college and motivate friends and classmates to take advantages of the opportunities available to them," Zerby said. "I believe actions speak louder than words and I hope to provide an example for many to follow."

"Mr. Zerby is an outgoing, highly motivated person who sets lofty goals and then achieves them through determination and hard work," said Keith Bryan, instructor in animal science and senior co-adviser to the Penn State Block and Bridle Club.

Zerby has served as student representative to the College Futures Committee, the Undergraduate Program Committee, the Faculty Senate, and the Academic Assembly. He also successfully competed on the livestock, poultry and meats judging teams and was a member of Penn State's national championship beef quiz bowl team.

He has received the American Society of Animal Science Scholarship Award for three consecutive years.

in having a Farm-City event.

"We wanted to inform people that farmers are good neighbors and good stewards of the soil as well as inform the people of the tillage and harvest practices on the farm," explained Les about the tours of the fields. It's also important for the farmers to recognize that some of the mandates and regulations that we sometimes look over our shoulder at are really beneficial for the environment and for the farmer's financial picture."

Les also noted that there seemed to be a lot of young families and kids who were more interested in a hay ride than a lot of technical information.

"We had sort of static demonstrations to show what each machine did in a field. We had both harvest equipment for both dry hay and haylage out there. We also had specialists in crop management and land management. Each tour had a farmer who explained the use of the machinery and tillage tools and concepts. Some of the things that the farmers would mention was the cost of the equipment so the people would realize the cost of the investments involved."

Amy Wanck noted that "there were more children from town than there were last year. There were more families and little children who wanted to go on a hay ride and pet the animals."

Merle added, "I think we had a somewhat different crowd than last year, last year the crowd was mainly farm people."

All family members pitched in to help make this event a success. Merle estimates that it took the family the better part of four days to get the final details finished and ready for the crowd.

"We were very pleased with the turnout and appreciate the efforts of the exhibitors and the volunteers. They made this event possible and it wouldn't have happened without them."

In addition to being the host family for Farm City Day, the Wanck families also host kindergarten kids from area school districts each year, further spreading the news about farming.

This fall, a committee will select the stie for next year's event.

The event was organized by the Bradford County Farm-City Council and the Bradford Sullivan Farm Bureau.

Participants and sponsors included Agway, Dairyland Sales and Service, Ferrario Dodge, SPE, Incorporated - John Deere, Shaffer's Feed, Sire Power, Warner Case-IH, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Dairylea Cooperative, Eastern Milk Producers, Kiwanis Club of Towanda-Wysox, Northeastern Farm Credit, Towanda Rotary Club, Howard Visscher, Auctioneer, Milky Way Dairy, and Pennsylvania DHIA.

Other participants in the event included the Bradford County Conservation District, Bradford County Dairy Promotion Program, Bradford County FFA, Bradford County Farmer's Union, Bradford County Forest Landowner's Association, Eastern Laboratory, Northern Tier Solid Waste Authority, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pomona Grange and the Soil Conservation Service.

Farm Bureau President To National Committee

ALBANY, N.Y. — American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) President Dean Kleckner has appointed New York Farm Bureau President Charles Wille to a Farm Program Task Force that will guide Farm Bureau through its policy development process toward Congressional enactment of 1995 farm program legislation.

The task force consists of nine members of the AFBF board of directors. They will be assisted by state Farm Bureau staff and AFBF public policy and governmental relations staff.

When asked about the appointment, NYFB President Wille said, "I am very honored to have been appointed to this important task force by President Kleckner. The work we need to do is very important for the future of agriculture in this country. My involvement with this task force assures New York farmers that their voices will be heard as Farm Bureau members develop their national lobbying policy for the 1995 Farm Bill."

AFBF President Kleckner charged the new task force with pulling together all the ideas that have emerged in Farm Bureaus across the country with the objective of enhancing the policy development process this fall. He remarked, "We need to consider all the options available. The next farm bill will have to comply with budget, environmental and trade agreement pressures. Agriculture is a favorite target of budget-cutters, but their aim is misdirected in light of the size of farm spending compared to total government outlays."

The policy development process would establish Farm Bureau policy at the AFBF annual meeting in January 1995. If the five-year Farm Bill legislation follows previous patterns, legislative activity will accelerate in early 1995 and new farm program legislation would be signed in December.

Effects Of Early Weaning On Feedlot Performance

John W. Comerford
Assoc. Prof. Dairy & Animal Swine Penn State

A research study from Oklahoma State University (Gill et al.) has shown the effects of early weaning on feedlot performance. In this trial, calves were weaned:

- at 3 1/2 months and shipped directly to the feedlot;
- at seven months and shipped to the feedlot; or
- wintered in drylot and then allowed to graze native range for 122 days before entering the feedlot.

Slaughter ages were 13.1, 14.5, and 20.7 months of age for early weaned, normally weaned, and backgrounded steers, respectively. All steers were slaughtered at about .5 in rib fat.

The purpose of the study was to examine how early-weaned calves may differ from their conventionally-weaned counterparts during a finishing phase. There are times when early weaning may be a beneficial practice for the cow-calf producer, particularly when drought or other conditions prevent cow herd from receiving adequate nutrition during late lactation.

The results of the Oklahoma study are shown in the table below. The early-weaned calves had a lower average daily gain, were lighter at slaughter, and were fatter than the other groups. The authors indicate that it was harder to visually determine fat thickness in these cattle. However, with all other costs considered, the early-weaned calves may have been more profitable because of the time when they were marketed. This group was marketed in April, which is historically a seasonal high point in fed-cattle price. The backgrounded steers were marketed in summer and fall.

A glaring omission from the data is the health of the steers. One of the major problems with feeding young calves is the higher morbidity and mortality rates generally found when feeding calves compared to yearlings. At Penn State, we plan to examine this issue in a fall trial where we will early wean calves, but leave them on pasture for two months before moving them to the feedlot. This will allow us to determine if the stresses of weaning can be overcome with two additional months on pasture, and how the early weaned calves for production and health early in the feedlot phase. Coupling these results with the Oklahoma study should give a clearer picture of how to handle the early-weaned calf.

Treatment	ADG (lb/day)	Slaughter weight (lb)	Fat thickness (in)	Profit per head ($)
Early weaned	2.93	1154	.61	143.11
Normal weaned	3.22	1178	.56	60.73
Backgrounded	3.02	1222	.51	-20.48

Economics Of Supplemental Feeding Of Beef Cattle

Steve Ford
Asst. Prof. of Agricultural Economics Penn State

Thanks to the state's large food processing industry, Pennsylvania livestock producers can choose from a wide variety of supplemental feeds, such as bakery waste, livestock byproducts, food waste, and feed-grain byproducts. In addition, many supplemental feeds are transported like commodity feeds, and are available to Pennsylvania livestock producers. Brewers and distillers grains, wheat bran, cottonseed, and whole grains are readily available from feed suppliers.

Livestock producers need to make informed economic decisions when purchasing any feed. The primary consideration for any producer should be how to get the most gain for the least cost. Consequently, feed purchase decisions should be based both on animal nutritional requirements and the cost of meeting those requirements.

What does the feed cost?

Livestock producers are interested in purchasing feed with nutritional value. Of course, nutritional value varies from feed to feed, even from load to load for the same type of feed. Variation in nutritional value is due partly to the quality of different feeds, with respect to a specific nutritional component (e.g., protein). Other variation comes from the different moisture content in feeds. Producers should purchase feed based on dry matter content. Otherwise they are buying high-priced water.

For example, two loads of corn are available at $100 and $105 per ton. The load selling for $100 has a dry matter content of 80 percent, and the other tests at 90 percent dry matter. If we price the corn based on dry matter content, the load at 80 percent dry matter costs $125 per ton of dry matter ($100 divided by .80). The other load costs $116.67 per ton of dry matter ($105 divided by .90). The more expensive corn turns out to be cheaper of the two when priced on the actual feed value per ton.

Producers should purchase individual nutrients in the same way — buying per pound of nutrient, not per pound of product. For example, if a livestock producer is interested in buying a protein source, the feed alternatives should be compared based on the price of protein in each feed. Suppose there are two protein feed alternatives, one at 20 percent protein and one at 35 percent on a dry matter basis. Both feeds contain 90 percent dry matter. The feed with the lower protein content is selling for $180 per ton, while the other sells for $220 per ton. Which feed is the better deal? Both contain 1,800 pounds of dry matter per ton of feed (2000 pounds x .9). The first feed contains 360 pounds of protein (1800 pounds x .2) or $0.50 per pound of protein ($180 divided by 360 pounds). The second feed contains 630 pounds of protein (1800 pounds x .35) or $0.35 per pound of protein ($220 divided by 630 pounds). Once again, the more expensive feed has turned out to be a better buy.

Although both of the above examples indicate that the more expensive feed is a better buy, that is not always the case. Livestock producers should evaluate all alternatives themselves. They also should remember that many feeds have other nutritional components in addition to protein. For example, price differences must also consider energy, vitamin, and mineral differences, as well as toxicity levels and palatability.

The costs of storage also should be included in supplemental feeding cost estimates. These include not only the cost of the storage structure, but also storage losses, handling, and feed losses. A 3 to 7 percent storage loss is common on livestock farms, although that will vary somewhat depending on the type of feed. Handling costs also will vary across feeds and farms. In general, bagged feeds will be more expensive than the same feeds sold in bulk, but the additional cost of bagging may or may not offset the costs of handling and storing bulk feeds, depending on the farm situation. The use of some supplemental feeds may require on-farm grinding and mixing. Costs for equipment and labor can be substantial. Finally, feeding losses will also vary across feeds. Palatability and feeding systems will determine the extent of feeding loss. Again, a 2 to 8 percent feeding loss is not uncommon. When all the storage and feeding losses are accounted for, the actual cost of the feed fed to cattle may increase 10 percent or more.

What supplemental feeds are economical?

The best buys for supplemental feeds vary with a number of factors. First, supplemental feeding

Bill Tucker, Monsanto marketing manager, center, provides information on a new premix for this conventionally tilled corn plot at the BACS Research Farm. About 150 BACS customers were on hand for the first research farm field day on Wednesday.

Farm Tour Looks At Herbicides, Varieties

SPRINGVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — On Wednesday, nearly 150 Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Inc. (BACS) customers attended the first annual public field day and tour at the BACS Research Farm at the Hibshman Homestead.

The purpose of the field day, according to Mike Brubaker, BACS president, was to showcase new products and to tour the other research plots, including variety trials (corn grain, corn silage, double-cropped soybeans, and alfalfa), replicated pesticide trials, and a fertility trial.

In conjunction with the BACS research tour was Monsanto's Sneak Preview Plot Tour, designed to show growers and dealers what Monsanto products are currently on the market.

Jeff Vance, market manager for Monsanto, said the trials allow farmers to see how the products work on an actual basis and to gather information on how to use those products.

A portion of the Monsanto tour was to provide information to farmers on a new premix available for crops in 1995.

Fretz Appointed Ag College Dean

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Dr. Thomas A. Fretz, associate dean and director of the Iowa Agriculture and Home Economics Experiment Station at Iowa State University, has been named dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Maryland at College Park.

Fretz, 51, succeeds Dr. Craig S. Oliver, who has served as interim dean since October 1993. Fretz, who has held positions in research, teaching and extension at institutions in Ohio, Georgia, Virginia and Iowa, will assume his responsibilities on or before October 1.

"Tom Fretz has had a remarkable and distinguished career in all facets of agriculture," said Dr. William E. Kirwan, president of the University of Maryland at College Park. "His experience and his vision for the role of agriculture in the 21st century are essential to the continued growth and success of not only the college, but also the State of Maryland's agricultural industry and economy.

"The university and, in fact, the agricultural community of this state, also owe a great debt of gratitude to Craig Oliver for his tireless work on behalf of the college during this crucial interim period," he said.

A 1964 horticulture graduate of the University of Maryland at College Park, the Buffalo, N.Y. native said he is eager to get started.

"I really look forward to jooining the faculty and administration of the University of Maryland at College Park and I am excited about some of the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead for the College of Agriculture, Cooperative Extension Service and the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station," he said. "I think these are unique times ahead of us — times that will allow the college to develop and blossom during the next few years as we look to the 21st century."

Fretz said he intends to focus on the critical issues facing agriculture, including sustainability of the land; natural resources of the state; water quality issues; and continued growth and expansion of Maryland's number one industry — agriculture.

"I think there are also opportunities for the college to continue to develop, grow, and provide support in areas of the basic biolocial sciences, which are really the fundamental backbone for many of the things we do in agriculture," he said. "I also feel very strongly that we need to continue to focus on issues related to rural development, through extension, research and teaching, to see how new technologies affect the rural parts of the population."

Additionally, he wants to focus on the "value-adding" industries of the state, such as food processing, nursery, landscaping, and turf industries.

"I look forward to providing the leadership that will allow Maryland to have a truiy unique and outstanding college of agriculture," Fretz said. "This is a wonderful opportunity — one in which I look forward to participating along with the leadership in the college, the university and the state."

Fretz gained his bachelor's degree in horticulture from the University of Maryland at College Park in 1964. He gained his master's degree in horticulture and his Ph.D. in plant science from the University of Delaware in 1966 and 1970.

Fretz's current responsibility is the administration, coordination, and management of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station. He has been associate dean and director since August 1989. Previously, he was interim director of international development in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Virginia Tech where he was responsible for the management of programs in Haiti, Mali, Senegal, and Zambia.

Prior to that, he spent eight years as professor and head of the department of horticulture at Virginia Tech. He as also held past appointments in horticulture departments at Kansas State University, The Ohio State University, and the University of Georgia.

Grain Producers Slate Annual Meeting

EDGEWATER, Md. — The annual meeting of the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA), a traditional mid-summer break for farmers, ag leaders, ag educators and agribusiness representatives, will be held Thursday, July 28, at the Queen Anne's County 4-H Park near Centreville.

The event has become increasingly popular through the years with farmers from across the state who are able to combine a high-interest educational and informational program with a feast of steamed crabs and barbecued pork and chicken.

The gates of the 4-H park, on Route 18 midway between Centreville and Queenstown, will open at 11 a.m. for registration and the trade show. MGPA members are admitted free. There is a $10 charge for non-members.

The program will run from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the fairground's new air conditioned building. Highlights will include a panel discussion, entitled "Mandatory nutrient management plans — Who decides the farmer's fate?" and an announcement of plans to sell ethanol at Maryland service stations.

Guest speakers will include Maryland State Comptroller Louis Goldstein and Marty Anndreas, vice president of Archer Daniels Midland, the nation's leading processor of agricultural commodities.

During a brief business session, the Maryland grain producers will elect nine directors, name their "Man of the Year," and hear reports form John "Jock" Luthy, MGPA president, and Edward Stanfield, who is president of the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board. The board administrates the state's all-grain checkoff program.

For more information, call the MGPA office at (410) 956-5771.

National Holstein Assn. Changes Name

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

SEATTLE, Wa.—The 109th national Holstein convention held in the Westin Hotel last week ran quite smoothly this year, according to James Yanizyn, manager of public relations. All those running for office on the board and those running for re-election ran unopposed. And delegates voted to change the name of the national association from Holstein Friesian Association of America to Holstein U.S.A., Inc.

John Selz of Wisconsin was re-elected president, and John Cope from Pennsylvania was re-elected vice president. Ron Wood from Pennsylvania was seated on the board, replacing Tom Kelly, who finished an eight-year term.

The national Holstein sale had an average of $9,115 that included a $50,000 top price for the first choice Jed male from McHart Kismet-ET, a 2E-91 Bova with PTA plus 117P. Universal Genetics, Alberta, Canada, purchased the consignment from Clover Mist Farms, Inc., Manitowoc, WI.

The second high price came on a VG Southwind consigned by Lylehaven, East Montpelier, VT. Harley Marr, New Brunswick, Canada, purchased her for $47,000.

Prior to the sale, 1,500 people enjoyed a 4th of July salmon barbecue picnic on the beautifully landscaped Carnation grounds and gardens. Tours of Carnation Milk Farms were also on the agenda.

Both the senior and the junior dairy bowl teams from Pennsylvania placed second to New England teams in a contest that was described as one of the strongest in years. The senior division had 15, and the junior division had 16 teams.

The first place senior team from New England included: Dan Barnes, Jeremy Michand, Jen Belter and Betsy Briggs. Their junior team members are: Sarah Belter, Karl Hartshorn and Kate and Vivian Briggs.

The Pennsylvania senior team from Lebanon County are Steve Bollinger, Karen Lentz, Jeff Hostetter, and Jen Beshore. The junior team from Berks County are: Melissa Wenley, Erica Davis and Michael and Jennifer Neiman.

Six national distinguished junior members were honored at the awards luncheon during the national junior convention. They are: Chris Booth, Cuba City, Wisconsin; Betsy Briggs, Turner, Maine; Renee Nugent, Lowell, Michigan; Jason Pullis, Richfield Springs, New York; Thad Sturgeon, Fombell, Pensylvania and Matt Syme, South Windsor, Connecticut.

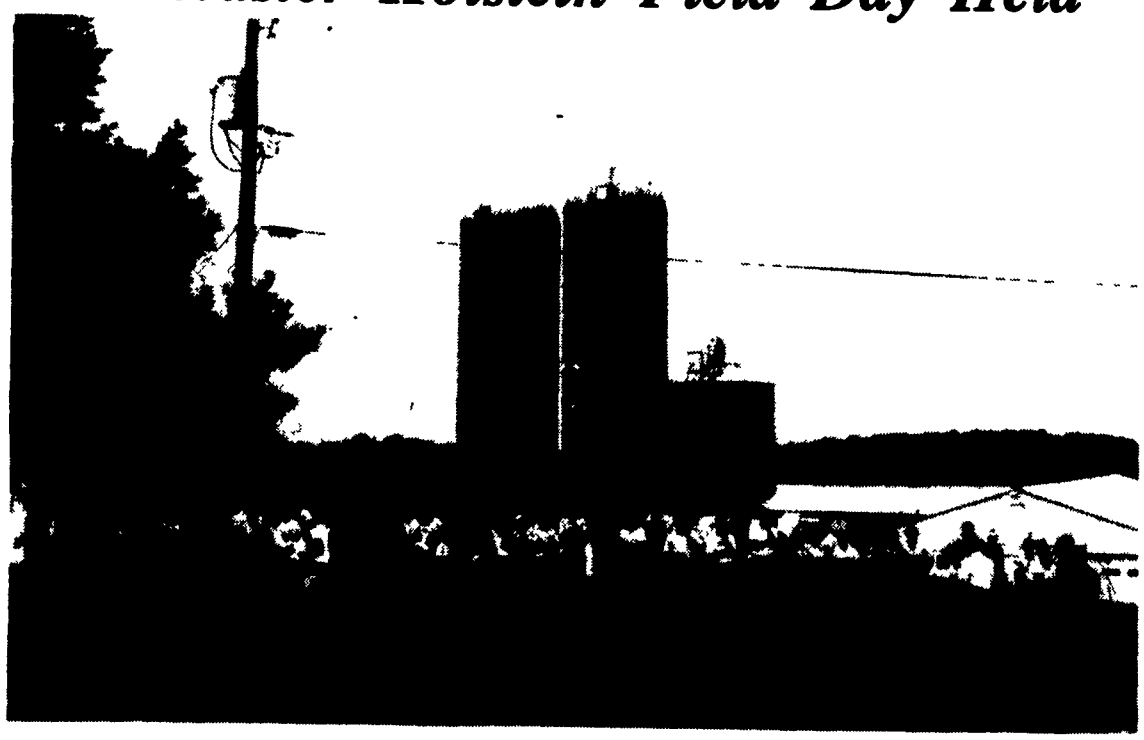
Steve Kerr, executive secretary, recounted the accomplishments of the association for the year. Kerr said they continue to focus on the basic mission to provide products and services to those in the dairy industry who need management information for better breeding and marketing of Holstein cattle. These core services include identification, type evaluation, management information and genetics marketing.

"We have begun to diversify how we package and deliver those products and services to ensure that they meet your particular needs," Kerr said. "As our recent marketing slogan for the new classification participation options noted, 'one size doesn't fit all.'"

"We continue our strategy to reduce our costs in order to remain competitive, and we continue to re-engineer our processes and technologies to deliver more timely, customer-friendly products."

Next year, the national Holstein convention will be held in Pittsburgh, and plans are already being formed by members of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. If you have questions, you may call Bill Nichol or Ken Raney at the state office. Phone: (814) 234-0364.

Lancaster Holstein Field Day Held



The members of the Lancaster County Holstein Association hear how John Bomgardner placed the classes at the field day Thursday.

ation's name was changed to Holstein U.S.A, Inc., and membership fees were raised from $10 to $25. He said if members register only four calves, they will make up the difference. And this way the association can continue to keep registration fees low.

Ken Raney, Pennsylvania Holstein Assn., said they have an order for short bred heifers to be ready to ship overseas this fall. The requirements are within reach of most dairy farmers, and if you have heifers for sale, you should contact the state office.

"We are in the cattle moving business," Raney said. "We also have orders from local breeders, or if you have heifers to sell, call us."

Rane Betts from Profiles said the national convention that will be held in Pittsburgh next year is an opportunity for Pennsylvania breeders to meet people from many other parts of the nation. And it's an opportunity to promote your herd to these people. She recommended that dairy farmers get involved in this opportunity and plan to attend at least part of the convention.

Heifer Becomes Premier Champion At Somerset Beef Show

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — For the first time, a premier champion was named at the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show at the county fairgrounds here.

Facing off for it were the grand champion steer, exhibited by Nick DeChristofora, Niles, Ohio, and the grand champion heifer, exhibited by Andy Campbell, Eaton, Ohio. Judge Jim Dill, Tennessee chose Campbell's heifer.

Campbell, 19, from Breble County, Ohio, has come to the Somerset Beef Jackpot Show for the last three years. He said, "It's a great opportunity and it pays well. It's also neat to get out of Ohio," he laughed.

With trophies for his heifers and steers accruing at a lively pace, Campbell said the heifer also won the 1994 Pennsylvania Beef Expo earlier this spring at Harrisburg. She was born in Somerset County and purchased from Ralph Kincaid Farms, Rockwood.

"You have to know how to breed the right kind of heifer to the right kind of bull to get good calves," said Campbell, who picks his own steers by shopping around with his only sister, Christy.

He said other important factors in having top notch show animals are rinsing them, keeping them in front of the fans, and taking them to shows to give them experience.

His family — dad, John, mother, Beth and sister — raise corn and soybeans on their 500-acre farm.

DeChristofaro's grand champion steer, by winning at Somerset County, landed his third grand champion title this season. Urbanized DeChristofaro, aged 15, isn't complaining.

In fact, he said, "I wouldn't mind doing it again."

He lives with his mother Mariann DeChristofaro and says he's been showing since he was age 8. He's in 4-H and also shows lambs.

"It's kind of hard because I live in the middle of the city. I keep my animals at my grandfathers."

Mom happily adds that Nick is an honor student at Niles McKinley High School where he will be a sophomore.

The reserve grand champion steer was shown by exhibitor Casey High, 16, from Lititz. Earlier, his was also the grand champion at a Fayette County show. He's the son of Larry and Mae High.

A member of the Red Rose Baby Beef 4-H club, High said he's been showing animals for nine years. The family lives on a small farm, he said, but their livelihood comes from a car dealership where High often helps his dad.

He'll be a sophomore in the fall at the Warwick High School and has one older sibling.

The Somerset County exhibitor champion was Jerry Ferko, 17 from Central City, and the reserve county exhibitor champion was Kevin Stahl, 20, from Somerset.

Their parents are John J. and Nina Ferko and Robert and Doris Stahl.

Jennifer Callihan exhibited the county club calf sale champion and Erin Livengood exhibited the reserve champion.

The Somerset County Jackpot Show is sponsored by the Somerset County Beef Producers and Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. This year's event saw 21 heifers and some 66 steers from Ohio, New Jersey, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania, model their muscle and dimension for Judge Dill.

He was impressed with the power and uniformity he saw repeated in almost every class. "I get to judge 20 to 30 of these shows a year and it's seldom I see a show with the quality of these steers," he said. "This has been a tremendous show and that's a compliment to the breeders and the exhibitors," he added.

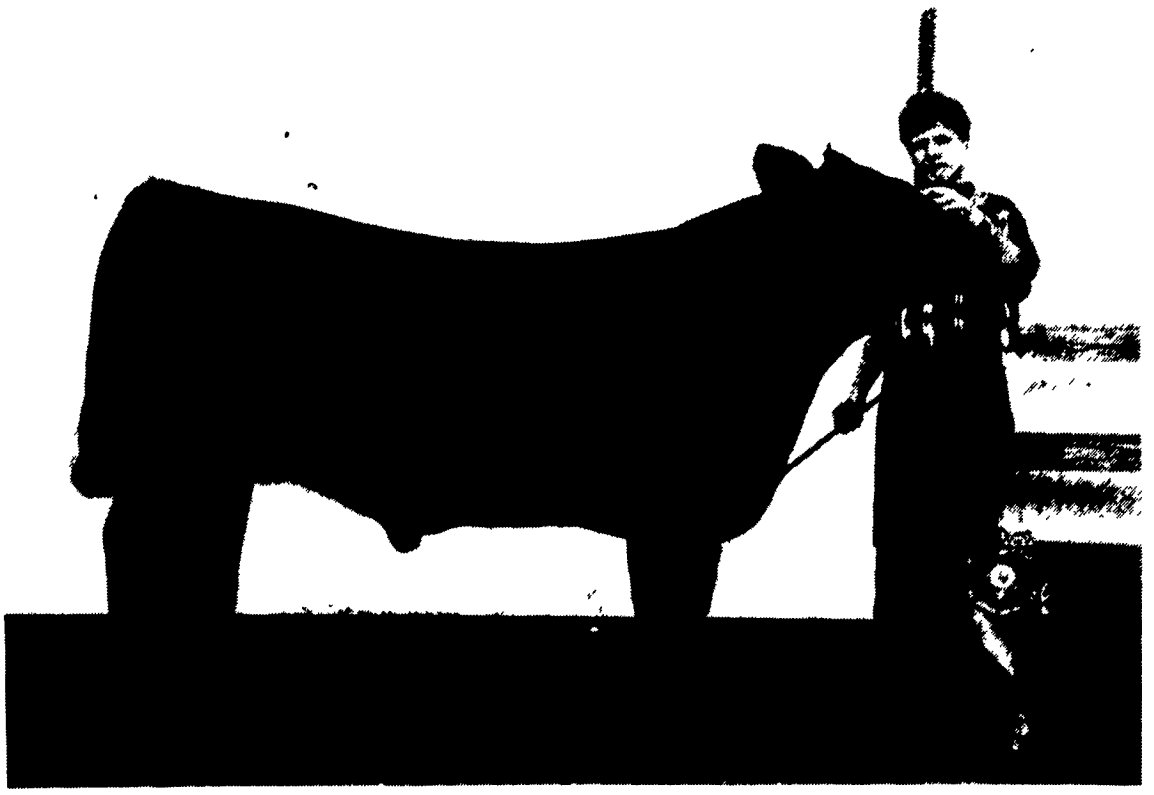
HEIFERS

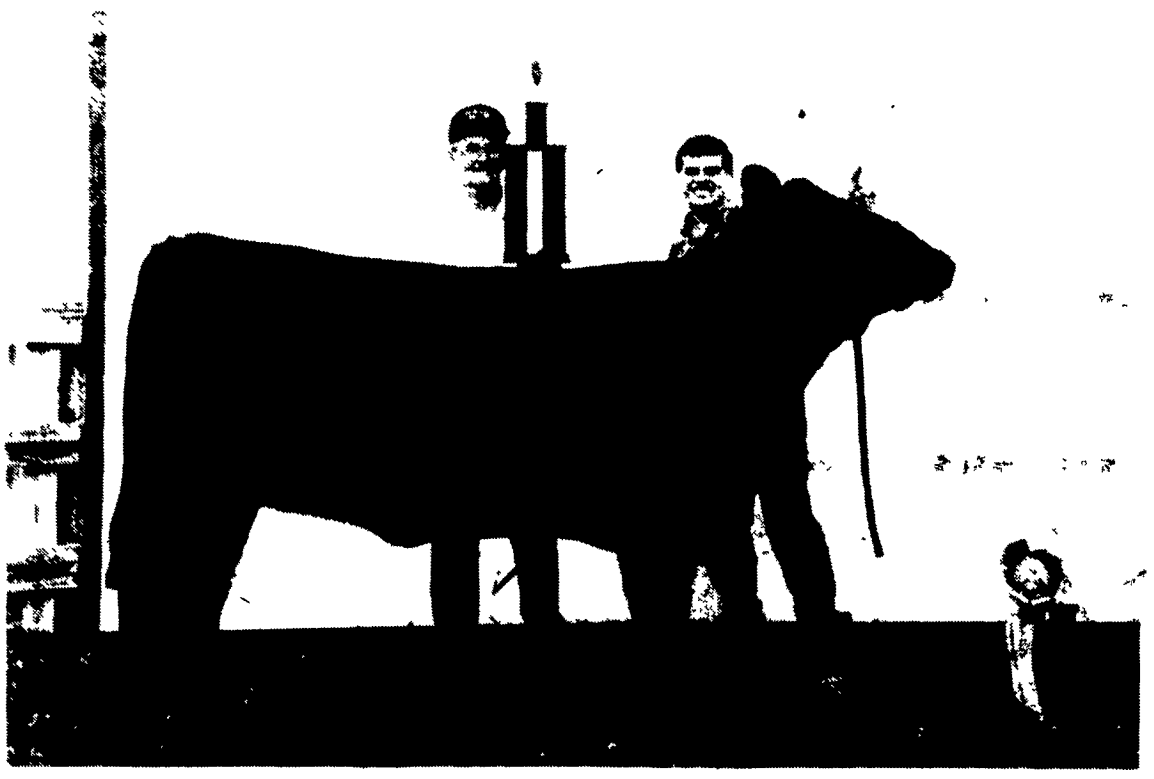
Class 1: 1. Scott Mullinex, 2. Jerry Ferko, 3. Jason Knotts.
Class 2: 1. Jerry Ferko, 2. David Stickley, 3. Chadwick Alt.
Class 3: 1. Andy Campbell, 2. Bree Taggart, 3. Tim Bishop.
Class 4: 1. Bree Taggart, 2. Michelle Stickley, 3. David Lafferty.
Grand champion: Andy Campbell
Reserve: Bree Taggart.
County grand and reserve champion: Jerry Ferko.

STEERS

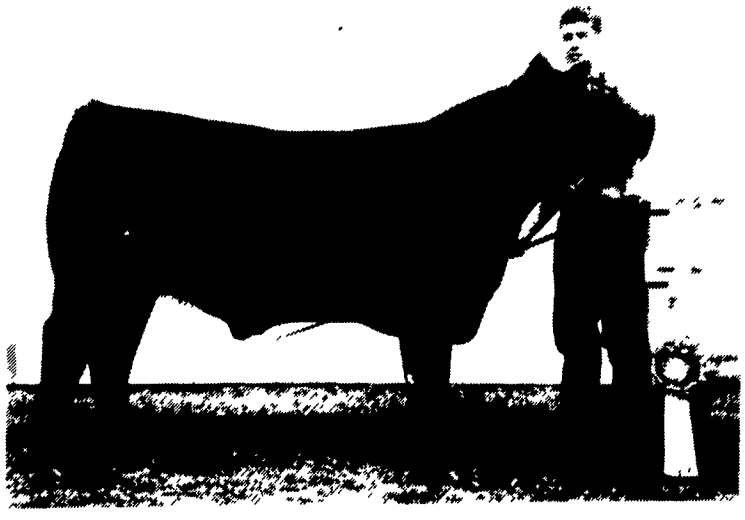
Class 1: 1 Danny Miller, 2 Blaze Cambruzzi, 3. Michelle Guindon
Class 2: 1. Eric Berkheimer, 2 Sara Campbell, 3. Kevin Campbell
Class 3: 1. David Lafferty, 2. Nick Faber, 3 Susie Shipley.
Div. champion: Eric Berkheimer.
Reserve: Sara Campbell
Class 4: 1. Andy Campbell, 2. Michelle Griffith, 3 Chadwick Alt
Class 5: 1. Jerry Ferko, 2 Robert Faber, 3 Eric Berkheimer
Class 6: 1. Casey High, 2 Alicia Bodnar, 3 Angela Livengood
Div. champion: Casey High
Reserve: Alicia Bodnar
Class 7: 1. Justin Fuls, 2 Ryan Luellen, 3. Jeanette Hildreth
Class 8: 1. Nick DeChristofaro, 2 Ryan Luellen, 3. R. Lee Sines.
Class 9: 1. Andy Campbell, 2. Scott Mullinex, 3. Heather Fuls.
Div. champion: Nick DeChristofaro
Reserve: Justin Fuls
Class 10: 1 Jennifer Callihan, 2 Stacy Hildreth, 3 Tim Bishop
Class 11: 1 Bret Fogle, 2 Chadwick Alt, 3 David Stickley
Class 12: 1. Kevin Stahl, 2 Erin Livengood, 3 Michelle Stickley



Nick DeChristofaro, 15, Niles, Ohio had the grand champion steer at the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show, held at the county fairgrounds in Meyersdale. He's having a good year showing despite the fact that he lives in the middle of a city and keeps his animals at his grandfather's place in the country.



The premier champion of the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show held in Meyersdale was shown by Andy Campbell, 19, Eaton, Ohio. He purchased the heifer from Ralph Kincaid, Rockwood, who holds the trophy in the center. This was the first time a premier show champion was named in Somerset's Beef Jackpot Show.



Casey High, Lititz had the reserve grand champion steer last Sunday at the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show, held in Meyersdale. He's 16 and belongs to the Red Rose Baby Beef 4-H Club.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING JULY 10

GOOD WEEK FOR FIELDWORK: There were 5 days suitable for fieldwork. Scattered showers and thunderstorms occurred during most days of the week. There was widespread thunderstorm activity on Wednesday with high winds and heavy rains causing some crop damage. The average temperature for the state was above normal for the 18th week in a row. Soil moisture was rated short by 26 percent of our respondents, adequate by 57 percent, and surplus by 17 percent. Soil moisture conditions reflected the localized nature of the thunderstorms. Some farmers had surplus soil moisture while others in the same county had short soil moisture conditions. This was especially evident in the central regions. Activities included harvesting small grains, making hay, spraying corn, spreading fertilizer, hauling manure, and caring for livestock.

CROPS: Barley and wheat harvest continued. A few farmers started harvesting oats. Corn growth was spurred by the precipitation received last week. The corn height averaged 39 inches across the Commonwealth compared to the 5-year average of 30 inches. The precipitation also helped hay growth in most areas. Leaf hoppers were starting to show up on some hay fields.

LIVESTOCK: Many pastures were helped by the precipitation this past week but conditions statewide were generally poor to fair. Livestock were also suffering from the hot conditions.

Milk IT DOES A BODY GOOD.

Coalition: More Needs To Be Done To Teach Kids Farm Safety

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — One farmer recalled a barn party in which a boy slid across the floor into a plywood hay hole cover. The plywood slid aside and the boy plummeted head first to his death.

Shari Burgus, director of program services for Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, Earlham, Iowa, spoke at the Lancaster County Coalition of Safe Kids meeting on Monday night. Burgus provided various examples of ways in which the local chapter can implement a range of educational activities, including day camps, with information on how to teach kids safety on the farm. One of those items she handed out was a booklet, "Teaming Up: A Farm Safety Walkabout For Kids," written in collaboration with the Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Iowa and the University of Iowa.

A nurse recalled treating a 13-year-old who survived a fall through a similar hole, but endured a long hospital stay from traumatic head injuries.

A 4-year-old girl was riding on a wagon when she fell off, breaking vertebrae in her neck, nearly killing her.

The list goes on.

Four years of age "is probably one of the most dangerous ages for children on the farm," said Shari Burgus, director of program services for Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, Earlham, Iowa. Burgus was invited to speak to the Lancaster County Coalition of Safe Kids meeting on Monday night.

Although four years of age is statistically the most dangerous in terms of death and severe injury for children (because of their curiosity), the age of 14 can be just as deadly. This is true because adolescents are given more responsibility and often aren't supervised. They're still learning the ways of the farm.

Burgus told the group of 35 farmers, health professions, educators, medical technicians, and others at the meeting that 14-year-olds often feel "invincible.

"They are doing more activities on the farm," she said.

Burgus spoke about some of the things that a group such as the Lancaster coalition can do to help promote safety. One such idea is a "safety camp" that can review aspects of safety for children in the farm community — including Plain farms.

Linda Reburn, a registered nurse in the trauma unit at Lancaster General, said that it is often difficult to teach youngsters in the Amish community. "It's not that (the parents) are neglecting the children," she said. "I just don't think that they have the proper knowledge to present to them."

Often, older children at a young age are beset with the responsibility to watch younger children on the farm. "You can't expect the 6- or 7-year-old (child) to watch the 2-year-old — that's how many of these (accidents) happen. It shouldn't be that way."

Also, according to Reburn, one year she helped treat seven patients kicked by a mule. One involved a 4-year-old. One 7-year-old died as a result of being kicked.

Farming, a dangerous occupation by all statisitics, in general has the highest rates of death and severe injuries leading to disability, said Dr. Butch Wieland, Lancaster General Hospital staff and chairman of the farm safety committee. Every year, 300 farm children die in ag-related accidents in the U.S., and 5,000 are severely injured, often leading to permanant disability. In a Penn State study conducted from 1985-1989, of 73 ag-related accidents, 14 fatalities were under the age of 20.

Most accidents (54.6 percent) are the result of tractors overturning, with extra riders.

The coalition and other groups strongly oppose extra riders on tractors, because few, if any, tractors are made to support more than one operator.

Other accidents involve harvesting machinery and related hazards inherent to farming.

Burgus provided various examples of ways in which the local chapter can implement a range of educational activities, including day camps, with information on how to teach kids safety on the farm.

One of those items she handed out was a booklet, "Teaming Up: A Farm Safety Walkabout For Kids," written in collaboration with the Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Iowa and the University of Iowa.

She told the group that the activities worked very, very well and got a good response.

William Sheehan, Lancaster postmaster and chairman of the local coalition, said that about 8,000 kids a year in this country die from injuries. The goal of the coalition is to prevent those injuries.

"If you would stop and think about it, if this were a disease, we would be fighting an epidemic," he said. "And the cure is right here in this room. It (involves) responsible adults who take the time to see what we can do to save our kids."

"Education is key," said Burgus. "Anything we can do even to prevent one injury is worth it."

Rotational Grazing At Field Day

OXFORD (Chester Co.) — On July 19, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Lindenhof Farm on Route 472 in Oxford near southern Lancaster County will host a field day to showcase their long-term grazing system.

Millie, Widmann and Axel Linde own and operate the 70-cow Guernsey dairy farm. The Linde's have used rotational grazing for more than 40 years and the herd is second in the state for pounds of milk production in the Guernsey breed.

They have also developed an extensive and unique watering system for their cattle and have recently expanded their dairy facility.

The Lindenhof Field Day is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

For further information, contact Leon Ressler at Lancaster County Cooperative Extension, (717) 394-6851.

Lunch will be available to purchase on site.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — These data are calculated using information pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from about one-fourth of the herds across the state.

Pasture Session Set

BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — Penn State's multi-county extension unit in the central Susquehanna Valley area has scheduled the next set of pasture discussion group meetings for dairy and livestock producers.

The pasture discussion group meetings are for people interested in improving or intensifying their grazing management. The meetings are held on area farms utilizing intensive grazing programs. Discussion centers on grazing management strategies, successes, and problems.

The next dairy pasture session will be on Friday, July 22 from 10 a.m. to noon at the farm of Mark Mapes near New Berlin in Union County. The Mapes' use a combination of grazing and conventional feeding technology. Cows graze permanent pasture and regrowth on hay fields. Cows are also fed a TMR. The farm is just west of New Berlin on Rt. 304.

The next livestock pasture session will be on Wednesday, August 3 from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. at the DeHart farm near Milton. This is a beef and sheep operation with 100 head of cattle and 600 ewes. The pasture program consists of intensively managed permanent pasture and annual crops such as turnips, peas, and triticale grown for pasture and storage forage. From Rt. 147 take Rt. 642 east a short distance and turn left onto Mexico Road and follow for ½ mile. The farm has a black fence and a stone entrance.

For more information, call Dave Hartman at the Columbia County Extension Office, (717) 784-6660.

Northeast DHIA Members Win Quality Awards

ITHACA, N.Y. — Among the approximate 4,500 Northeast Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) members who are measuring the quality of milk produced on their farm with the DHIA Somatic Cell Count Report, 715 have won Outstanding Quality Milk Awards based on 1993 records.

The DHIA Somatic Cell Count Report is a valuabale monthly monitor of individual, group average and herd average somatic cell counts. Somatic cells are white blood cells and milk secreting cells normally found in milk. The major factors contributing to high somatic cell count milk are clinical and sub-clinical udder infections. Low somatic cell count milk comes from healthy udders and a clean, well-maintained environment.

Northeast DHIA's Quality Milk Award winners care about producing quality, low somatic cell count milk. They know that high somatic cell count milk is generally off-flavored, has a decreased shelf life and a decreased yield of cultured milk products. They also know that high somatic cell counts cost money, as increased somatic cell levels correspond to permanent, significant losses in milk production.

Constant monitoring of barn and pasture cleanliness, working condition cleanliness and cleanliness of milking equipment, milking technique, and udder infection is necessary to achieve the low level of somatic cell count recognized by the DHIA Quality Milk Award.

The Northeast DHIA congratulates all Quality milk winners.

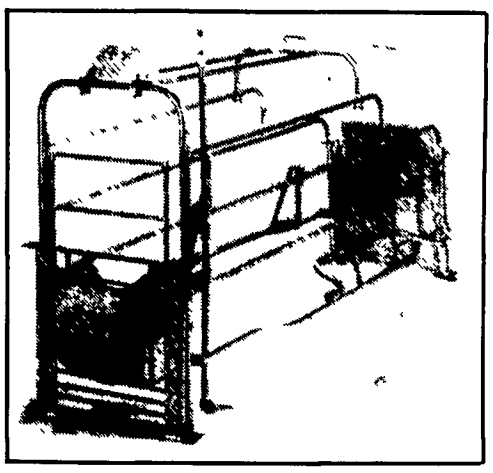
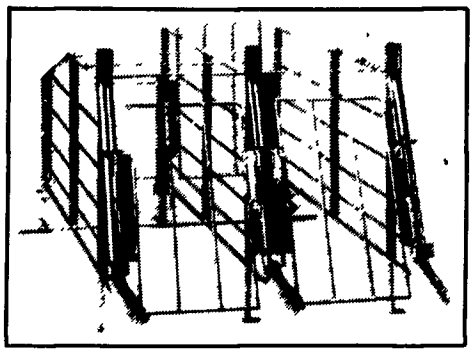
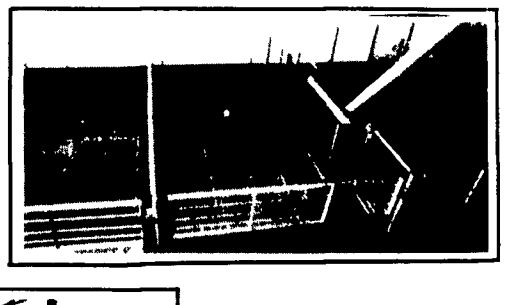
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"
Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay one, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity flip-rail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.





CONFINEMENT STALL
Developed recently in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x 86")

NURSERY PENNING
Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel verticals on penning eliminates corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING
Optional stainless steel verticals and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

tests of dead cattle.

What has caused a great deal of concern is how difficult it has become to treat BVD Type 2 virus. While the Type 1 virus caused diarrhea and some abortions, the mutated Type 2 virus, present in the current outbreak, is far more serious and deadly.

"It's something we hadn't seen before," Sammons told the group.

For dairy farmers, treatment must begin immediately. Two shots of the "killed" Type 1 vaccine are required.

"With two shots of Type 1 (vaccine), you get enough antibodies to surround the Type 2 (virus) and prevent it from killing the cow," said Sammons. "If you only give (the cow) one shot, and Type 2 gets in there, the body doesn't recognize it as BVD in time to make antibodies."

Sammons indicated that no live vaccine has been approved for Type 2 BVD, but that several companies are working on it.

For infected herds, Sammons said bringing new animals in from sales has quickly led to the spread of the disease. The disease is spread from animal nose-to-nose. Although it is possible that people can spread the virus to the animals, the person would practically have to be covered by cow mucus and saliva and then place another cow's nose into it.

Reinemann indicated that a common problem for cleaning systems is often too short of a cycling time. Also, the capacity of the milk pump is often the controlling factor on the formation and consistency of the slug. Here, he checks data on slug formation in the pipeline.

The virus "won't float through the wind with the AI technician or milk inspectors or whatever," he said.

But Sammons emphasized the importance of good biosecurity and keeping visitors to a limit on farms.

The extent of the outbreak has kept the state and federal agencies from declaring the BVD outbreak an "epidemic." According to the veterinarian, "If we can get more than 70 percent of the cows vaccinated twice in a given area, there will not likely be an outbreak, because the virus just doesn't find enough new cows to keep spreading."

Sammons indicated that veal calf operations are at risk. "The veal industry is indeed experiencing some BVD problems right now," he said. "But nobody ever seems to know anything about veal calves when you ask them."

Horses and mules are not at risk of contacting BVD.

Sammons said his company uses a viral isolation blood test, with samples sent to Cornell, to detect both types of BVD. The cost is about $5 per animal.

Initially, the recent outbreak affected 15 herds of cattle in Mercer and Crawford counties. One herd in Lancaster (two cows) are suspected of having acute and pathogenic BVD, according to a release last week from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry. The release urged veterinary practitioners to help prevent further spread of the disease by urging clients to upgrade the BVD immune status of their herds by the vaccination program and by discouraging the movement of sick or exposed animals.

Here, Reinemann uses a vacuum pressure meter to gauge the formation of a milk system cleaning "slug" at the Animal Housing Expo.

The release indicated that clients should be advised to add to their herds only BVD-vaccinated animals from vaccinated herds that have been free of clinical signs of BVD for at least 30 days.

Right now, the state's position on county fairs and shows will require the vaccination program, two shots of the killed vaccine and the second shot given at least two weeks before the fair, said Sammons. All animals should be examined when the come off the truck.

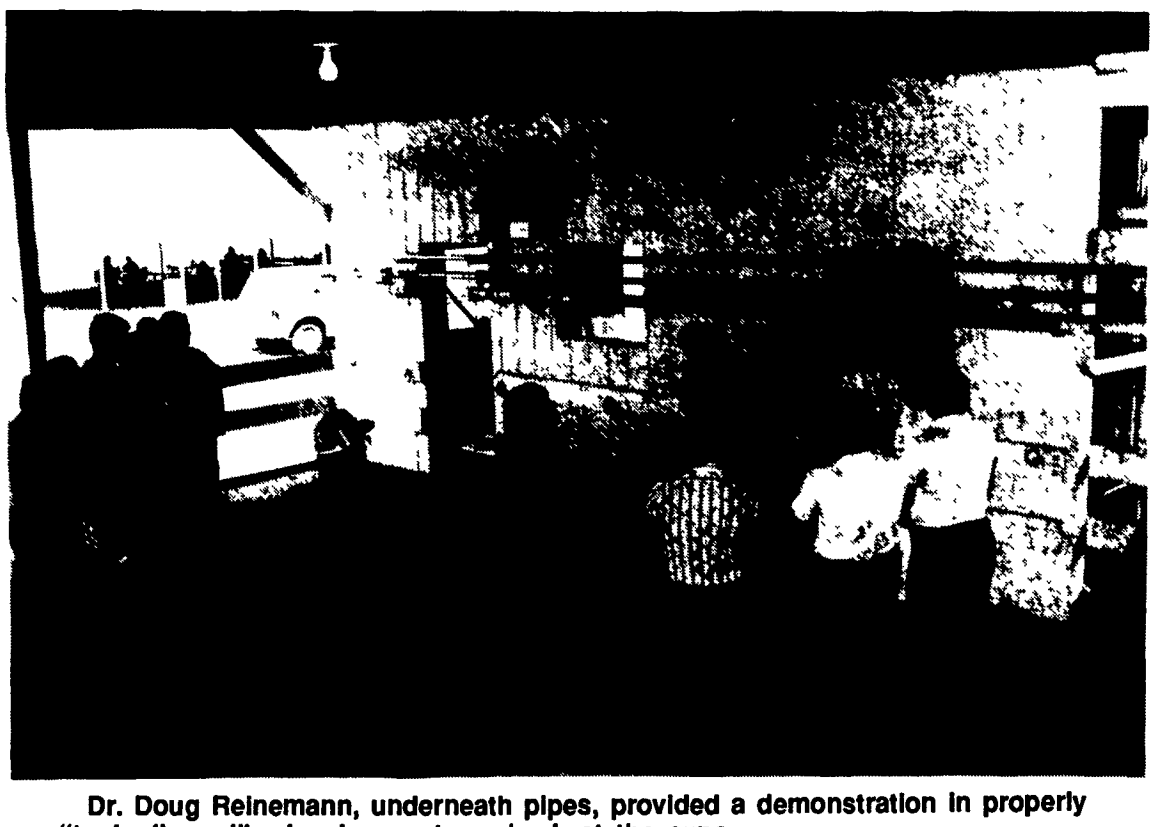
"They're not recommending these fairs be cancelled, that the All American or any of these shows be cancelled at this time," he said.

Butler County recently decided to cancel its show and Clarion County has restricted its cattle show participation to entries from county residents, according to a story that appeared in last week's Lancaster Farming.

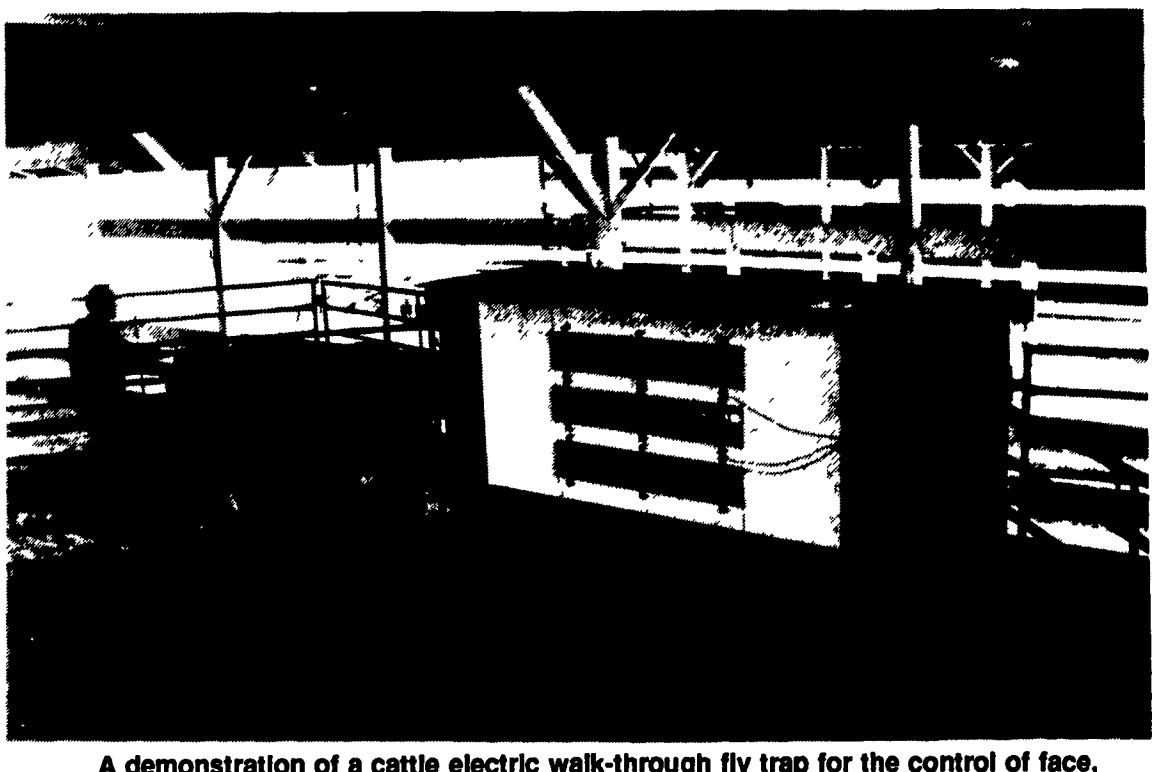
Sammons said that there was only one confirmed herd in the western Pennsylvania outbreak. He indicated that four more herds are strongly suspected, an additional four are possible, and there is one other single cow — that's the extent of the outbreak as of Tuesday.

"In western Pennsylvania, they had a herd that lost 51 out of 67 cows to this disease," said

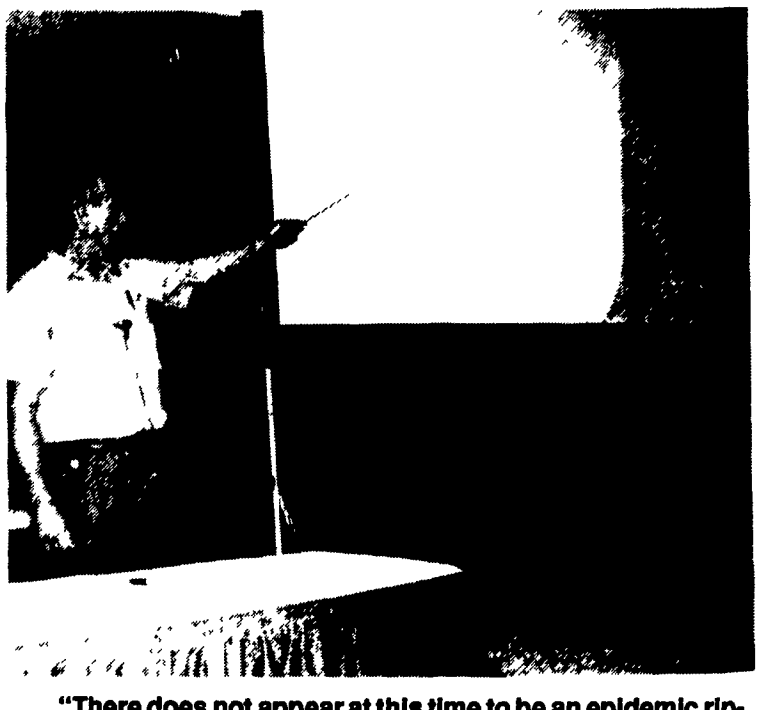
(Turn to Page A33)



Dr. Doug Reinemann, underneath pipes, provided a demonstration in properly "tuning" a milk cleaning system check at the expo.



A demonstration of a cattle electric walk-through fly trap for the control of face, stable, and horn flies was provided by Bob Bassler, manager, Clarksville facility, University of Maryland, far left. The walk-through facility brushes off flies, which are then terminated on sideline electrical arc wires.



"There does not appear at this time to be an epidemic ripping through this area, but we need to be aware," said Dr. Lynn Sammons, veterinarian from Willow Creek Animal Hospital, Reading. Sammons provided the latest information about bovine viral diarrhea (BVD) in the region on Tuesday during the 1994 Animal Housing Expo.

BVD Update, Cattle Restraint

Sammons.

But there might be cattle affected because of recent sales. Sammons said about a month ago, there was a sale in eastern Lancaster County that sold 700 head of dairy cattle. The cattle went from Maine to Florida. The next day, two cows in the herd associated with that barn broke and 14 hours later were dead from Type 2 BVD.

Those with closed herds, with a good vaccination programs and good biosecurity, shouldn't have to worry about contracting BVD. "A closed herd is till a very good way to go," said Sammons. Those who purchase animals from outside have to take extra animal health precautions.

What concerns veterinarians throughout the state, in addition to BVD, are other problems that producers shouldn't neglect in their herds. Shipping fever remains a problem, as does IBR and lepto.

"If I were a farmer in this area, I'd certainly have my cows vaccinated," he said.

Cattle Treatment Facilities

Sammons detailed some of the recent research conducted at Penn State and other universities on restraint and treatment facilities for dairy animals.

For many producers, it is often difficult to try to round up and steady animals for treatment. Self-locking headgates in all the heifer pens is the current recommendation, based on studies that showed how difficult it often is to chase animals around pens to get them in a position to administer to their health care needs.

"These gates work real well if the animal catches itself," said Sammons. "They don't work very good if you're chasing an animal in to them, unfortunately."

Some other findings:

- Animals on pasture also require headgate facilities. A corner of the pasture should be used to catch the animal for treatment. Also, reserving an area of the pasture to locate a headgate goes a long way in saving time and energy.
- A self-locking headgate system in the holding area of the freestall barn is one way to check each animal being added to the herd. This helps keep the cows healthy and clean when the veterinarian is ready to work on them. "If we can do prevention, that is by far the biggest way to go," he said.
- For calving pens, instead of individual group pens, which take a lot of time and work to maneuver animals into and out of, research has indicated that group pens can be used to monitor three or four pregnant cows at a time, working with those that need the most attention.
- A new device called a "floating downed cow" system literally floats a cow that has, for instance, a broken leg, in a tank of water to make it easier to treat her.

Afterward, Sammons provided a demonstrations of some of the currently available modern cattle handling and restraint systems.

Milking System Management

Dairy producers face certain challenges when trying to clean out a milking pipeline.

Often, it doesn't get cleaned properly. That can be blamed on circulation failure in one form or another, according to Dr. Doug Reinemann, assistant professor of ag engineering, University of Wisconsin.

Reinemann said that for pipelines, a variety of factors can influence good cleanout. They include air bleeds, improper vacuum, improper injection time, and others that prevent the inner pipe from getting clean.

The key is to get a good-sized cleaning "slug" of water through the system, and testing the entire system for proper slug form and velocity.

Many times, too much vacuum pressure can destroy the slug, and areas of the pipe don't get clean. Or, if pressure is not timed properly or inadequate, often parts of the slug "wave out," not allowing upper portions of the interior pipe from becoming clean.

"It's not the air, but the water that cleans," Reinemann said. "The moral of the story is that you can have too much air. In a three-inch modern system, almost always, there is too much air. You need to control air velocity."

There are ways, such as using vacuum measurement devices, to actually "look" at the slug. At the start of cleaning, the slug can be monitored to see how it is from start all the way to the receiver end.

A common problem for cleaning systems is often too short of a cycling time. Also, the capacity of the milk pump is often the controlling factor on the formation and consistency of the slug.

System design also has to be carefully looked at. A way of cleaning a simple straight line milkline system will differ from double Y or milking parlor lines. For proper cleaning, minimize the use of elbows and other parts of the line and provide a more perfect balance.

According to Reinemann, for those who design piplines, the key factors include increasing slope near receiver, work with slope to minimize length of run, and minimize fittings and obstructions.

Reinemann provided a demonstration in properly "tuning" a milk cleaning system check at the expo.

Other demonstrations included information on baited fly traps by Dr. Charles Pitts, Penn State, and a demonstration of a cattle electric walk-through fly trap for the control of face, stable, and horn flies by Bob Bassler, manager, Clarksville facility, University of Maryland. The walk-through facility brushes off flies, which are then terminated on sideline electrical arc wires.

Other speakers included Dr. Howard Person, Michigan State University, on building design for rodent and bird control, and tools for financial planning, provided by Dr. David Kohl, Virginia Tech and Gary Snider, Farm Credit of W. New York.

Tours to Hershey Brothers Dairy and Farmer Boy Ag were also conducted.

Ag Scholars Program Attracts The Best

NEWARK, Del. — Agriculture is the nation's largest industry. Its future depends on bright and highly motivated men and women, so attracting the best students is an important goal of the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences.

To help meet this goal, the Agricultural Science Scholars Program was founded in 1986 under the direction of the former dean, Dr. Donald Crossan.

In the mid-1980s the Agriculture Committee of the board of trustees of the university requested $1 million from the Delaware Legislature to fund an agricultural scholarship endowment program.

"The legislators understood the significance of that request to Delaware," said associate dean of instruction, R. Dean Shippy. "They granted the request with the stipulation that we get matching funds."

Led by the efforts and enthusiasm of board member John Burris of Burris Food Distributors in Milford, Del., and then university secretary Arno Loessner, the college raised an even greater amount from agribusiness firms, alumni and other individual donors. The first award was given in 1986.

"The scholars program allows us to actively seek out talented young people who are committed to receiving a quality education in preparation for a successful future in agriculture and related disciplines," said Shippy.

The scholarships are awarded to graduating high school students. To be eligible, applicants must be accepted by the university and plan to major in an area of agriculture. They must graduate in top 20 percent of their high school class and score at least 1050 on the SAT. In addition to outstanding scholastic records, they must also complete faculty interviews and an essay competition. Scholarships are renewable fot four years of study within the college.

Each year the college receives 60 to 80 applications, which are reviewed by a selection committee composed of faculty, chairs, deans, and financial administrators. About 30 semifinalists are invited to attend a full-day session on the campus. Activities include an essay competition, interviews, and a tour. Students are being evaluated the entire day.

The 1993 scholarship recipient Christie Quietmeyer, a preveterinary medicine major, said "I admit I was a bit nervous. But I remember thinking I only had one day to show everyone that I deserved a scholarship, so I had to be at my best.

It is difficult to assess the direct impact of the program, but Shippy believes it helps to attract high-ability students. Word is spreading throughout the high schools that agriculture is getting some of the best. Quietmeyer, a graduate of John Dickinson High School in Wilmington, Del., said she was aware of the program since three former recipients were from her school.

Food science major Jill Miller, one of last year's winners, said, "Winning an Agricultural Scholars Award certainly influenced my decision to come to the University of Delaware! And the day on campus helped, too. I didn't get the kind of information from the other colleges where I'd been accepted."

Shippy said, "We're building a strong pool of potential leaders. Students in this program help our image. They're the tops academically and they're well-rounded contributors."

Get the CHARGE Advantage for...

- ALFALFA
- POTATOES
- TOBACCO
- VEGETABLE CROPS

The CHARGE Advantage

CHARGE Liquid Plant Food is a scientifically balanced NPK liquid foliar nutrient, rich in phosphate and containing humus for increased uptake of nutrients.

The 3 Elements of CHARGE + an Added Benefit

✓NITROGEN to promote fast growth and abundant foliage
✓PHOSPHATE to encourage seed and root development
✓POTASH which is essential for sugar and starch formation and to increase size and quality of fruit plus HUMUS, the added benefit for increased nutrient uptake

ALFALFA

Independent research and growers alike have attested to the benefits of CHARGE in increasing the yield on alfalfa. Growers who use CHARGE on their alfalfa have come to expect significant increases in protein level and decreases in Acid Detergent Fiber. CHARGE has been shown to make a difference in the healthy growth of alfalfa, especially during stressful conditions from weather and pests. CHARGE should be applied at 2 to 4 qts. per acre after dormancy and after each cutting when the crop shows 5 to 6 inches of growth. Get the CHARGE advantage!

POTATOES

Optimum time for applying CHARGE is at tuber initiation, followed by applications at mid and late season. Late applications should be combined with NUTRA-K Liquid Potassium to achieve bulking and increase specific gravity before harvest. CHARGE users have achieved bonus payments for potato crops with more potatoes in the desired premium size and for increased weight and yield. Apply 2 to 3 qts. of CHARGE per acre when plants are 4 to 6 inches high. Get the CHARGE advantage!

winner of the award for girls was Kathy Duncan, representing Erie/Crawford County.

The scholars who were chosen by ADC to go to NICE, which will be held in Washington, D.C., this year, included second-year scholars Michael Gross of Blue Mountain, Rachel Moyer, representing Bucks/Montgomery County, and Diane Myers, representing Cumberland/Perry County.

The first-year scholars who were chosen by ADC to go to NICE are Anne Fulcomer and Timothy Stone, who are both from south central.

Five first-year scholars were chosen by PCC to be sponsored to go to NICE. They are Melissa Bicksler of Blue Mountain, Cleveland Morris and Jonathan Sterner, who represent Bucks/Montgomery County, Timothy Sul, representing Erie/Crawford County, and Joshua Troxell of Lancaster County.

Three second-year scholars will be sponsored by PCC to go to NICE also. They are Kathy Duncan representing Erie/Crawford County, Darla Herr, Lebanon/Dauphin County, and Tony Miller of Lancaster.

The alternates selected by PCC to go to NICE are first-year scholars Meghan Leary of Blaze/Star and Lloyd Bier, Cumberland/Perry County, and second-year scholars Laura Hogenmiller of South Central and Brett Lentz of Lebanon/Dauphin Countyl.

Those who attended the institute at the university also were told of a change at the top of PCC.

Don Robinson is leaving as PCC youth director, the job that he has held since 1988. Robinson, who was on the regional council for 25 years, earned a reputation as an outstanding educator who led by example, gave the institute continued life, and strengthened the second-year program.

Robinson is being replaced by Nina Redding, a native of Adams County, who still lives there with her husband, Russell.

Redding has a master's degree in home economics with a specialty in education and administration and is active in several professional organizations, where she has held various leadership positions.

She also has many long-time links with PCC.

Redding was a first-year scholar with PCC in 1977 and attended NICE that year in Texas. She came back on the scholar staff in 1988, and she served on the adult staff from 1983 to 1991.

Another event that involved adults at the institute came when Vicky Lantz, an adult resource leader from Cumberland County was chosen to receive the Hal Doran Award.

Atlantic Dairy cooperative scholarship winners who will be attending NICE are, left-right, Timothy Stone, Diane Myers, Rachel Moyer, Anne Fulcomer, and Michael Gross.

The Walter Loy Quiz winners were Daniel Atkins, Lebanon/Dauphin; and Colleen Mowery, Jefferson County.

First-year PCC Scholarship winners who will attend NICE are Joshua Troxell, Cleveland Morris, Timothy Sul, Jonathan Sterner, and Melissa Bicksler.

The Hal Doran Award was presented to Vicki Lantz as the outstanding adult resource leader.

Second-year PCC scholarship winners who will attend the national conference are, left-right, Kathy Duncan, Tony Miller, and Darla Herr.

Tree Seedlings For Seat Belt Use

YORK (York Co.) — Motorists observed wearing seat belts were rewarded with free evergreen tree seedlings at nine interstate welcome centers along interstate highways in Pennsylvania recently.

The unique seat belt incentive program, which ran from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., was jointly sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Police, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT), and the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association.

State Police officers positioned themselves at PennDOT Welcome Center entrance ramps and observed motorists who were wearing seat belts. Vouchers were presented to motorists who were wearing seat belts. The vouchers were then redeemable for a Christmas tree seedling inside the welcome center.

The Christmas Tree Growers Association donated approximately 8,000 seedlings for the program.

"The evidence is clear and irrefutable," said Deputy State Police Commissioner Robert C. Hickes at a news conference at a welcome center near York. "Seat belts save lives. Federal studies have concluded that seat belt use reduces the possibility of highway death and injury by half."

State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff said the incentive program not only helped reinforce the important message on seat belt use, but also showcased Pennsylvania's Christmas tree growing industry.

"Pennsylvania is a home to 42 million Christmas trees growing on 44,000 acres," Wolff said. "The state's tree industry provides 10,000 jobs and brings in about $25 million annually in revenue. Pennsylvania is the fifth largest producer of Christmas trees in the nation."

William R. Moyer, state deputy secretary for Highway Administration, said PennDOT was "pleased to use the welcome centers as an opportunity to highlight the importance of seat belt use and to encourage motorists to drive safely in Pennsylvania."

Others attending the news conference here were Peter Abraczinskas, President of the Christmas Tree Growers Association, and Queen Evergreen Lori Irvin of Homer City, Indiana County.

Evergreen tree seedlings were handed out at the following welcome centers: I-70 in Fulton County, I-76 in Fulton County (Sideling Hill), I-78 in Northampton County, I-79 in Crawford County, I-80 in Mercer County, I-81 in Franklin County, I-81 in Susquehanna County, I-83 in York County, and I-95 in Delaware County.

Limousin Enthusiasts Ready For Junior Show

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — The 1994 National Junior Limousin Show and Congress is rapidly approaching as Limousin juniors and breed enthusiasts prepare for activities July 18-23 in Jackson, Miss.

A host of activities is planned for everyone during the week, beginning with the ever successful and always educational North American Limousin Junior Association Leadership Conference. The theme of "Creative Problem Solving" will challenge and teach participants of all ages.

What's more, history will be made as show judges are provided with EPD information for the first time ever in addition to the standard performance data. Complementing the national heifer show will be the bred-and-owned show, with prizes sponsored by the Breeder's Cup committee, and a steer show.

Cattle are not required to compete at the show and congress. Juniors can choose events ranging from public speaking and extemporaneous speaking to sales talks and quiz bowls. Points for each contest are added together for the top honors in the Limousin Sweepstakes.

Activities for the whole family, in addition to the competitions, will include tours of the Mississippi Ag Museum, balloon rides, a "Welcome to Mississippi" dinner with Mary Ann Mobley Collins, and a Limousin beef cook-off sponsored by the Limouselles.

For more information on the show and congress or the Limousin breed, contact the North American Limousin Foundation at (303) 220-1693.

Dairylea Opens New Southern Division Office

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — As part of an effort to better serve Dairylea's growing milk marketing and insurance businesses in Pennsylvania, the cooperative has opened a Southern Division office in Towanda, Pa.

The office, located at the juncture of Routes 6 and 220, now serves as the center of operations for the new Southern Division. Created at the beginning of the year, the Southern Division includes the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Southern New York membership areas.

Dairylea's new and expanded milk sales in the Pennsylvania region have warranted a major increase in the cooperative's presence in that area.

"Pennsylvania is a highly important milk producing and processing region — vital to the Northeast dairy industry," said Rick Smith, chief executive officer for the cooperative.

"In a little more than a year, Dairylea has increased its milk sales in Pennsylvania by an astonishing 120 percent! As a result, we are focusing on the opportunities to expand our membership in the region, as well as enhance services to our members and customers."

Additionally, the Towanda office provides logistical and other support, as needed, for insurance and financial operations, and other corporate dealings.

In particular, the Southern Division operation is assisting Agri-Service Agencies — Dairylea Cooperative's wholly owned insurance subsidiary — in promoting the new Agri-Service Farm Safety Group in Pennsylvania, which allows farmers to purchase worker's compensation insurance at substantial savings.

Thad Woodward, Dairylea's general manager of the Southern Division, is based at the Towanda office and will oversee its operation. Donna Kerrick, a recent addition to the Dairylea team, will staff the office.

Initially, business hours for the Towanda office will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday through Friday. The office telephone number is (717) 265-4521.

Dairylea, a Syracuse-based dairy cooperative with approximately 2,300 member farms throughout the Northeast, markets approximately 3.1 billion pounds of milk annually. Dairylea participates and is invested in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

For information on membership in Dairylea, call 1-800-654-8838.

The new office of Dairylea was opened to serve growing milk marketing efforts in Pennsylvania.

Premiums Paid For Quality

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Paying additional premiums for the production of high quality milk has become somewhat of a norm in the dairy industry.

At Dairylea Cooperative, milk quality is a top priority — yet the approach it takes is a little different. Not only does Dairylea offer its members a lucrative premium program for quality milk, it goes one step further by bringing well-trained resource people to its members' farms to assist them in pursuit of quality milk production.

In some cases, producing quality milk is like solving a puzzle. All the pieces must fit together in just the right way.

When Erick and Dixie Coolidge, of Wellsboro, decided to concentrate on earning additional income through Dairylea's quality premium program, they drew upon the expertise of their Cooperative's quality control personnel.

"Our goal was to enhance our bottom line, but we had to become educated about new ways of doing things. Dairy farmers have to be educated about improved milking practices and quality control measures, and I commend Dairylea for working to increase member awareness in this area," Erick said.

Knowing that help was just a phone call away, he contacted Bob Manning, Dairylea manager of field quality control, and Anne Czymmek, Dairylea area supervisor, for some personal assistance on their Dairy of Distinction farm.

Although the Coolidges had used approved practices and management tools on their 150-cow farm, the quality premium requirements had been just beyond their grasp. They figured that one or two changes needed to be made on their dairy operation, Le-Ma-Re Farm, to finally earn the quality premium.

They have made seven changes since beginning this endeavor.

"The Coolidges were committed to doing everything necessary to qualify for the quality premium program," said Manning. "They worked hard and smart to achieve their goal."

The first change on the Coolidge farm resulted from a Public Health Rating. Although the farm scored 96, the inspector found a small amount of residue inside the receiver jar. The Coolidges and their employees tried several methods to eliminate the residue, but nothing worked.

Manning, determined to find an answer to this problem, arrived on a Saturday with various chemical solutions. "I appreciate the way Bob handled my situation," Erick said. "He really works with members." Ultimately, the milking equipment company was called in to test the residue in the receiver jar and the Coolidges' water supply to determine what course of action was needed. The company now periodically monitors the water supply for any changes. Eliminating the residue in the receiver jar helped lower the bacteria count.

Second, the pipeline filter mechanism was changed. After pulling the filter over a 24-inch steel spring, a tapered gasket is fitted over the open end. The gasket narrows the diameter of the filter, which slows down the speed, and therefore the force, of the milk flowing through the filter. Rather than forcing small particles through the filter, the slower speed allows the filter to remove smaller particles from the milk.

Third, a routine check of the vacuum pump and system showed inadequate vacuum for proper cow milk-out. "We were finding that some quarters didn't milk out properly," Erick said. So, a more powerful vacuum pump was installed on the milking system, which has helped increase milk production through better cow milk-out.

Fourth, responding to Manning's recommendation, they discovered that changing inflations every six weeks aids in complete milk-out and leads to better udder health. Manning pointed out that the rubber of the inflation is designed for a specific number of milkings. Overuse of the inflations causes the rubber to become porous, leading to incomplete milk-out. When this happens, the cows are more likely to develop mastitis.

In addition, the harshness and frequency of cleaning acids, sanitizers and hot water break down rubber inflations, which causes the inflations to crack and develop porous areas in which bacteria can grow. Complete cleaning of the inflations becomes impossible because of these porous areas. Plus, the pulsating process and the number of milkings affect the lifetime and durability of inflations.

Fifth, Manning suggested that the Coolidges change their bedding materials, because sawdust bedding, their original choice, wasn't keeping the cows clean. "I really like the appearance of sawdust, and dry sawdust is great," said Erick. "But, we were unable to keep the sawdust dry, which caused high somatic cell counts (SCCs). We've switched to hay bedding from round bales, which is more cumbersome to maneuver, but it has been worth the effort." The SCCs decreased after they moved to hay bedding.

Sixth, the Coolidges selected the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association's (DHIA's) SCC results option, in addition to their basic tests for milk weight and butterfat. Pennsylvania DHIA offers a package of recordkeeping options that farmers can receive for a nominal fee. With the SCC option, Pennsylvania DHIA provides monthly records that include: the SCC range for each animal; the amount of lost income per animal, per day and per month due to SCC levels; and the frequency of high SCCs over the cow's lactation. "These reports indicate the high SCC contributors in the herd, which we have found useful for culling purposes," he said.

Seventh, at the urging of Manning and Czymmek, they switched their milking preparation techniques. Before, they used a bucket of hot water and a towel. Now, they only use individual towels and include pre- and post-dipping.

Erick admits this change was the most difficult. No one, including himself, liked it at first, because it changed a traditional depends on the nutritional needs of the cattle and the primary forage being fed. If the cattle are being fed high-quality forage, the nutritional needs to be met by the supplemental feeds will be lower than if the forage is of poorer quality. The cost of the ration being fed will vary with changes in relative prices among all feed alternatives, including the forages. In fact, if there is a choice of forages, the poorer quality forage may be the least cost, depending on the prices of supplemental feeds. Consequently, it is important for livestock producers to work with a nutritionist to best determine the nutritional content of on-farm forages and the least-cost ration to be fed, given the current market prices for alternative feeds.

Supplemental feeds do offer an opportunity to reduce feed costs. Based on December prices, for example, least-cost ration analysis indicates that a producer could have substituted waste bread and wet brewers grain for dry shelled corn in a ration with alfalfa and saved $0.15 per animal (1,150 pound cow) per day. Fifteen cents per day doesn't sound like much, but for 50 cows for a year it totals $2,738, or almost $55 per animal.

Arabian Horse Show Set For Quentin

QUENTIN (Lebanon Co.) — The Pennsylvania Arabian Horse Association this week announced that the Eastern Arabian Horse Show and East Coast Championships will celebrate its 35th year in 1994 at the Quentin Riding Club August 5, 6 and 7.

The Eastern Show/East Coast Championship helps THE FOUR DIAMONDS FUND of the Hershey Medical Center of the Pennsylvania State University as its charity. THE FOUR DIAMONDS FUND will benefit from a raffle, silent art auction program sales and donations.

With no admission charge and free parking everyone can attend. The show begins at 8 a.m. each morning and features almost every show discipline. Classes include English, Stock Horse, Western, Hunter, Jumper, Dressage, Driving, Halter and the popular Mounted Native Costume. There will be over 600 horses from 23 states and two Canadian Provinces.

For the run of the show there will be a large bazaar and faire area with over 30 exhibitors displaying clothing, jewelry, signs, woodworking, art, plenty of food and much much more. The bazaar will be open every day, all day.

The Quentin Riding Club is located on Route 72 just 3 miles south of Lebanon. It is easily accessible from the Pennsylvania Turnpike, Interstates 22, 78, 81 and 83 and state routes 322 and 422.

milking routine. Plus, these labor intensive techniques added two to three minutes per cow per milking.

The Coolidges and their employees are similar to most people when faced with change. Changes and related costs are hard to justify when the results aren't immediate. "Bob Manning, Anne Czymmek and Dairylea are very supportive, though. They encourage their farmers to make more money by making these milking and cleaning changes," said Erick.

Erick said he and Dixie buy in bulk to save money on some of these items. The more expensive items are paid for in the long run by the resulting increased milk production and milk quality, he explained.

Thanks to the new preparation techniques and the other changes the Coolidges have made, their bacteria level is down and the herd has had less mastitis — which means better milk quality. In January 1994, they received Dairylea's quality premium for the first time. As an added bonus, less mastitis also means healthier cows and therefore, increased production. In fact, the Coolidges' herd average increased 3,000 pounds since they began instituting these changes in their operation.

"We are pleased that Dairylea, our Cooperative, became our 'partner' in this quest to earn quality premiums," said Erick. "Working with member-farmers to improve their productivity and profitability is what Dairylea's all about."

Dairylea, a Syracuse-based dairy cooperative with more than 2,300 member farms throughout the Northeast, markets approximately 3.1 billion pounds of milk annually. Dairylea participates and is invested in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio. For information on membership in Dairylea, call 1-800-654-8838.

Potter Throws Herself Into Her Work

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

EAST BERLIN (Adams Co.) — Becky Mummert is an expert craftsperson who really throws herself into her work.

A potter of both redware and cobalt stoneware, Becky is known throughout the area for her beautiful, handcrafted pieces, from mugs, pitchers, platters and dinnerware to special-make items commemorating local historical happenings.

And it all begins with Becky "throwing" a lump of damp clay onto her potter's wheel and using the very most basic of tools — her fingers — to shape the revolving lump into a piece of raw pottery. Having crafted thousands of pieces over the last 20 years, she forms the clay effortlessly, styling the finished, graceful shape in a matter of a mere minute or two.

"I've don this for so long, I can almost do it with my eyes closed," quips this friendly, outgoing potter, working in a new shop she built just a year ago. But learning to properly "throw" a piece may take a novice a few months, especially perfecting the centering and learning how to avoid poking a finger through the soft clay sides during shaping.

While her thrown pieces begin in the same manner, the two types of pottery Becky crafts are distinctly different.

"Redware and cobalt stoneware are about as different in process and product as you can get," notes Becky. The two types of pottery are created from different clays, use different glazes and decorating techniques, and are fired in the kiln to different intensities of heat.

Always interested in art as a child, Becky followed high school with studies at the Maryland Institute of Art. When her husband was completing his music degree at Indiana University, she became friends with students in the ceramics, or pottery, department. The couple then moved to Louisiana, where he taught at the Northeast Louisiana University and she began pursuing her pottery interest with classes.

"Those classes really 'took' with me," she recalls, looking back on the family's property along the Conewago Creek, where she grew up, and where the Mummerts have made their home since 1980. While she did make some pieces from the "homegrown" clay, the processing of the raw material of pottery is a tedious and time-consuming effort.

"Clay is made of rock particles that have broken down over thousands of years. It moves around underground. For a potter to use it, you must get out all the sticks and the stones, melt it down and seive it to remove all foreign particles. Then it has to be aged," she explains. Purchasing her raw clay from a local supplier is much more efficient with her busy schedule.

Aging of clay may be done in as little as a few weeks or for years; sometimes Becky incorporates vinegar into her clay mixes to hasten the process. According to Becky, Japanese potters bury clay to age for intended use decades later by their grandchildren.

From the mixing of the clays to the covering with the final glazes, potters constantly use chemistry processes. Becky mixes as many as five types of clays to get just the right color and consistency she wants to produce a certain kind of finished redware or stoneware. And since each batch of even the same clay may vary slightly in shade, the finished pieces often have subtle differences in coloration.

Redware is so called because of the reddish-brown finished color of the pottery, due to concentrations of iron in the raw clay used to form it. After the piece has been shaped by hand or formed through rolling or molds, ornamentation is applied while the clay is still wet.

Decoration may be applied with a watered-down form of clay, called "slip." Some decorations are dribbled, freehand, onto the clay, poured out of a "slipcup." More intricate designs, drawings and words are formed by "sgraffito," which means "scratch through." A coating of the thin clay slip is applied over the wet piece and the ornamentation scratched through the slip coating. All of Becky's artwork decorations are done freehand.

The Redware turkey platter Becky Mummert displays is a favorite of her son's. In the background are some of her other redware pieces.

After the first, or bisque firing, in the kiln, the redware piece turns a terra-cotta color, the familiar bridk-red shade of clay flowerpots. After a coat of glaze is applied, a second and hotter firing in the kiln yields the finished, shiny product of a darker, reddish brown.

By comparison, cobalt stoneware turns pink after the first, light, firing in the kiln, necessary to set the clay firm enough to handle. Decorations are then applied to the fragile pieces, using a liquid cobalt, followed with an application of glaze. A second firing, to temperatures reaching nearly 2,400 degrees, renders the stoneware extremely durable and hard.

Redware is especially popular for accent and decorator pieces and in traditional, period settings. Cobalt stoneware, because of its durability and functionality, is often purchased for more everyday tableware use and for bakeware.

"It's dishwasher proof and also washes very easily by hand; my husband can attest to that," grins Becky. During her busiest times of area craft-show schedules, he often lends a hand with customers at her sales booth.

The Pennsylvania Dutch traditions and heritage of the area have heavily influenced Becky Mummert's work. Many of her redware designs are reproductions, and numerous historical museum shops sell her pottery. Recently a friend visited a Philadelphia museum and related to Becky that some of the pottery originals she saw "looked just like yours." Her work has gone to many of the states and is often sought by customers as gifts to send to friends in foreign countries.

Only rarely does she find time to make special items for herself or her family. But a special request from a friend some ten years ago led her to create a whimsical item, popular among gardeners, called a "toadhouse." Becky's design resembles an upside-down clay flowerpot, with a small entrance and a stylized toad shape on top. The houses are designed to be placed in gardens and entice toads, which catch many insects, to make their home among the plants.

With the building of her shop last year a short distance from their house, Becky was able to move her equipment, supplies and inventory out of rooms of their home and into an area with more adequate space and a display room. She recently added a second kiln as well. When the kilns are in use, Becky rarely ventures too far away so she can monitor their progress and the heat levels generated. Even after a full day of several hours in the shop, evenings often find her back there, shaping handles for mugs and pitchers, unloading kilns, packing orders.

"I ate, slept,and drank this for years," Becky says of the long hours she has regularly spent in meeting private customer and craft show sales. With their two children through college and her shop now a reality, she is reducing some of her sales commitments enough to spend more time enjoying golfing.

Craft-show seasons are generally in the spring and again in the fall before the holidays. On July 23, Becky will take part in the third Annual Terre Hill Day in Lancaster County, an arts and crafts show of juried work. One of her largest shows is the local Colonial Days in East Berlin, and she regularly takes part in the York Country Crossroads Folk Art and Craft Show at the York Fairgrounds, scheduled for November 19 and 20.

For more information, Becky Mummert may be reached by telephone at (717) 259-9620.

Every piece of pottery, both redware and cobalt stoneware, goes through two firings in Becky's kilns.

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

There's something about summer harvest of fruits and vegetables that brings out the wonderful creative urge to "put foods by," or "put up some foods," as the old-fashioned expressions go.

The exciting produce available today, including new and exotic fare from around the world, is further incentrive to preserve, can and freeze. Stirring up a batch or two of conserves, relishes and sauces is fun, a welcome change-of-pace from everyday meal preparation. In fact, it's an art form for those who like to cook the way quilting is for those who like to sew.

Along with the satisfaction and pride that come from making your own pickles and relishes, you reap the rewards of having something very special to serve friends and family in other less bountiful seasons.

And certainly not to be overlooked is that homemade preserves make thoughtful gifts for the holidays, for hosts or hostesses, teachers gifts and for other occasions. Dressing up the containers with ribbons, calico or lace, attaching original labels and packaging the jars in baskets makes them picture-pretty and even more of a treat to receive.

And while you're making preserves or relishes, etc., why not make several extra jars and enter them in your local county or state fair. Fair entries must meet all the criteror or guidelines for a top quality product such as using the boiling-water-bath method of processing, using a two piece lid and screwband and also use the standard canning jars which are available in pints and half pints. Request a premium book from your local fair and carefully read entry information and eligibility requirements.

Here are the general canning procedures for making jelly, jams and spreads.

All products should be filled hot into sterile half-pint or pint canning jars, leaving ¼-inch headspace. To sterilize empty jars, put them open side up on a rack in a boiling-water canner. Fill the canner and jars with hot (not boiling) water to 1 inch above top of jars. Boil jars 10 minutes. Remove and drain hot sterilized jars one at a time and fill with food. Food residue should be removed from the jar sealing edge with a clean, damp paper towel. New two-piece canning lids prepared according to manufacturer's directions should be added. After screwbands are tightened, jars should be processed in a boiling water canner.

Penn State Cooperative Extension has a pamphlet on "Let's Preserve Jelly, Jam, Spreads." It has a variety of recipes including Peach-Pineapple Spread, Pear-ap'ple Jam and Grape-Plum Jelly.

In addition most Penn State Cooperative Extension Offices will have a flyer on Low Calorie Jams & Jellies. The recipes are equally tempting and include Peach-Plum Jam, Blackberry Jam and assorted recipes for grape and apple jelly.

Contact your local county Penn State Cooperative Extension Office or request these from my office by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope with 52¢ affixed to: Jelly, Jam, Spreads, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, PO Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

4H HAPPENINGS

Equestrians 4-H

The 4-H Equestrians met on June 15 at the Lebanon Ag Center, with 12 people attending.

At the meeting, conducted by Jenny Hain, 4-H camp for the end of the month, in addition to the Equestrian Horse Show at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, were discussed.

The members were reminded that all horses must have their rabies shots by August 1.

The committee listed those who will help out for work detail and the people helping at the horse show.

Shannon Hoffman Reigns In Four Counties

SELINSGROVE (Snyder Co.) — Shannon Hoffman of Snyder County is the new SUN Area Dairy Princess. SUN Area includes Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour counties. Shannon is the daughter of Sid and Sue Hoffman from Mt. Pleasant Mills.

Shannon received her crown from Taryn Laidacker, Milton. Her Alternate Dairy Princess is Missy Ranck, daughter of Glen and Ileen Ranck, Watsontown, PA, Northumberland County.

The SUN Area Dairy Princess Pageant was held Saturday evening June 25, at the Susquehanna Valley Mall, Selinsgrove, at 7 p.m. The Boscov Store in the Susquehanna Valley Mall, sponsored the Dairy Days along with the help of the SUN Area Dairy Promotion Committee.

The 20th Annual Dairy Salute was filled with fun and excitement for all ages. On Thursday, June 23, The Country Twirlers, provided music and dancing on the Boscov Mall Stage. The North-Mont 4-H Club served milk shakes.

Friday evening, June 24, at 6 p.m., a seven-foot-tall Giant Ice Cream Sundae was built on the Mall Stage. Turkey Hill Dairies of Conestoga, PA, furnished 138 gallons of ice cream, 10 gallons of chocolate sauce, 25 pounds of pecans, and 5 gallons of strawberries. Contestants, Dairy Maids, Dairy Misses, and the SUN Area Promotion Committee dipped and served the public free ice cream sundaes. More than 2,000 sundaes were served.

Saturday, June 25, began with a "Dairy Petting Zoo" area in the front of the Boscov Store, under a tent. All dairy breeds were represented. The calves were provided by area 4-H Clubs. They were a striking contrast to the "Turkey Hill Giant Cow." Snyder County Holstein Club served popsicles on the sidewalk. At 3 p.m. a celebrity milking contest was held under the tent with 16 contestants competing against each other. The highlight was the competition of the Snyder and Union County Commissioners.

During the day the Snyder Co. Holstein Club had a "Dairy Bean Bag Toss" with the Dairy Misses helping. They also served seven different cheeses to the public. The Swineford National Bank, Selinsgrove, sponsored and served ice cream from their "Scooper Bowl" with proceeds going to the Beaver Fair 4-H Pavilion. Ice cream was donated by Kemps, Sunset, Breyers, Schwan's, and Rakestraw. The SUN Area Dairy Promotion Committee sold T-shirts, milk pitchers, cookbooks, and hats to help support the local Princess Program.

The 20th annual Dairy Princess Pageant began with Mike Daniels, Wiggle radio announcer serving as Master of Ceremonies. This year three dairy maids, Jolene Adam, Lisa Heimbach, and Lola Shanner, participated. Also for the first time nine Dairy Misses participated in the program. All girls took part in the Fashion Review, with commentary by Jane Hawn, public relations manager, at Boscovs, they also provided the clothing. Karen Auker, a singer from Drums, provided the music for the Pageant.

Phil Durst, dairy extension agent for SUN Area, announced the two winners of the Dairy of Distinction Award. They were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shaffer, Selinsgrove, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Dale Groff, Dalmatia.

Nationwide Insurance Company also gave away a color T.V. for a prize.

Also 12 former Dairy Princesses returned for this special anniversary Pageant.

They were recognized with a gift and flower.

Taryn Lairdacker straightens the crown on Sun Area Dairy Princess Shannon Hoffman. Alternate Missy Ranck is on the right.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

We've long had a love affair with the "beasts of the field."

Actually, we prefer that they be "beasts of the pasture," remaining on the inside of the grazing areas fences. Cows being cows, our bovine girls periodically become beasts of the field, in search of the proverbial greener grass on the wrong side of the fence.

This time of year, the greener grass is in the form of lush, succulent, young corn stalks, beloved by ornery heifers for munching on and flattening down as they split the pasture in pursuit of forbidden tastes of fresh field forage. Summertime thunderstorm showers and lightning strikes which short-out electric fences considerably add to the problem.

And, in recent years, we've developed a real affinity for the "birds of the air." One rather tame cardinal pair now hangs around the farm year-roung. The gorgeous, scarlet male has gotten about letting me know, loudly, when the sunflower seed stock has run out in the birdfeeder.

Even the "fish of the sea," - well, the pond, anyway - get regular attention, especially The Farmer's prized, finned "pets" that congregate near the pier for handouts. He wouldn't think of letting a worm-laced hook near these babies.

But what I've never gotten nearly as tolerant of, or find enjoyment from, are the "bugs of the season." They just . . . well, bug me.

And some worse than others. Like hornets and wasps, for instance.

Picking raspberries one day last week, by the time I realized what the buzzing near my left ear was, it was too late. The hornet vented its anger in defense of its nest, leaving the bite site on my ear with a searing, stinging sensation.

Wet mud is a wonderful antidote to insect stings. With no mud in sight, I quickly manufactured some. A little saliva and dry dirt rubbed together on the ear rendered the same effect as Mother Nature's own mud. Within a minute or two, the stinging disappeared and left only a faint amount of swelling as a lingering effect for a few hours.

It was my own careless fault. I had seen the papery, six-inch-or-so-diameter nest, hidden there near the end of the row of thorny stalks, during the prior picking of the patch. And forgotten about it.

Less painful but far more predominant are the continuing batches of common flies which hatch out in the hot, humidity of the season. Though we do almost daily battle with fly sprays, we only win a few squirmishes and expect a war of several months duration.

Japanese beetles have also begun putting in their chew-up-everything appearance, although they've never been a real serious problem here. Perhaps some of the feathered distant cousins of our sunflower-seed-feeders prefer the shiny, tough-bodied beetles for lunch.

Far more prominent are those ugly, prehistoric-looking bugs that suddenly arrive in early summer. Earwigs. With those wiry, wiggly bodies and nasty-looking rear-end pincers, their appearance is an repulsive as their behavior. Take down the laundry and there'll be earwigs crawling around in the washbasket and the clothespin bag. Leave the barn sneakers out on the back porch overnight and they'll camp out in them. They hide under dog dishes and flowerpots, porch rugs and lawn furniture cushions.

Where did these bugs come from? And when? Neither The Farmer nor I recall having earwigs around when we were kids. Are they imports? Hybrids? Or some mutation gone bad? A least they don't carry devastating diseases, like an even uglier and infinitely more dangerous bug, the tick.

Ultimate cure for all these critters is not spray, not sticky fly paper, not scent traps, not even bug-eating birds and bats. Ultimate cure will be a good, hard frost. Which we don't want now.

Wouldn't it be pleasant if the bugs of the season would just . . . bug off 'til then?

Enjoy Your Garden's Bounty

Leading health authorities agree that vegetables are an important part of a balanced diet. That's why they recommend eating five servings of fruits and vegetables every day.

Eating more vegetables is one of the most important choices you can make to help maintain your health. Vegetables can actually help to reduce your risk of cancer because they are low in fat and are excellent sources of many essential nutrients. They have almost no cholesterol and are naturally low in calories, fat, and sodium.

While all vegetables are good for you, be sure to include those that are high in vitamin A, vitamin C, and fiber every day, and eat several servings from the cabbage family weekly.

Remember, a serving is equivalent to one-half cup of cooked vegetables or 1 cup of leafy vegetables.

MARINATED VEGETABLE SALAD

1 cup broccoli florets, blanched
1 cup cauliflower florets, blanched
1 cup celery, sliced
1 cup carrots, sliced
½ cup chopped green bell peppers
½ cup thinly sliced red onion
4 ounces drained cooked kidney beans
4 ounces drained cooked chicken breasts
10 small green olives, pitted and sliced
10 small black olives, pitted and sliced
¼ cup reduced-calorie Italian salad dressing.

In large bowl, combine all ingredients, tossing well. Refrigerate at least three hours or overnight to develop flavor.

Grace Ikeler

PUMPKIN BUTTER

3½ cups cooked and mashed pumpkin
1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
1 package powdered fruit pectin
4½ cups sugar

In a large saucepan, combine pumpkin, spice, and pectin, mix well. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Quickly add the sugar, mixing well. Bring to a boil again and cook for one minute. Remove from heat and skim off any foam. Ladle into hot jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath for 10 minutes. Makes 3 pints.

GARDEN VEGETABLE QUICHE

1 cup flour
½ cup butter, softened
3-ounces cream cheese, softened
½ cup diced fresh mushrooms
½ cup diced green pepper
½ cup diced zucchini
1 small onion, diced
1 small carrot, scraped and diced
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup shredded mozzarella or Muenster cheese
3 eggs
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter

Combine flour, ½ cup butter, and cream cheese in a medium bowl, stirring until blended. Shape into a ball. Cover and chill 30 minutes.

Saute mushrooms and next five ingredients in 2 tablespoons melted butter in a large skillet until vegetables are crisp-tender. Remove from heat; stir in paprika, salt, and pepper. Set aside.

Press chilled pastry evenly on bottom and up sides of a 10-inch pie plate. Sprinkle cheese over bottom of pastry shell. Spoon reserved sauteed vegetables evenly over cheese. Combine eggs and milk in a medium bowl; beat with a wire whisk until blended. Pour egg mixture over vegetables.

Saute chopped onion in 1 tablespoon butter in a small skillet until tender; drain and sprinkle over quiche. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes or until set and lightly browned. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Yield: one 10-inch quiche.

ESCALLOPPED CABBAGE WITH CHEESE

3 cups cabbage, chopped
1 to 2 cups cheese
2 cups white sauce
1 cup buttered crumbs

Cook cabbage in salt water. Drain well. Put in buttered baking dish with chopped cheese. Prepare the white sauce and pour over cabbage and cheese mixture. Cover with crumbs and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

A quick meal using vegetables from your garden is a baked potato topped with broccoli, onions, and cheese with a tomato garnish.

CRISP PICKLES

25 medium cucumbers, sliced in ½ -inch chunks
6 cups vinegar
3 cups water
9 cups sugar
3 tablespoons salt
6 tablespoons celery seed
6 tablespoons mixed pickle spice

Combine vinegar, water, sugar, salt, celery seed and pickle spice. Heat until sugar melts.

Put 2 slices of onions in each jar, fill with cucumber chunks. Pour syrup over to fill jar. Seal jar and process to a rolling boil.

This recipe was given to me by a friend. I had never heard of canning raw cucumbers. I only made a few jars the first time that I used this recipe. We found it very hard to wait for the crop of cucumbers the next year. We all love pickled onions so I sometimes put more onions in the jars. The pickle and onions may be sliced thick or thin. Smaller cucumbers can be cut into fourths lengthwise. This makes very crisp good pickles.

Fitness and healthy eating is on the rise. Do not make the mistake of thinking you have to cut out dairy products to keep a low-fat diet. Here are some tipes on low-fat cooking from Huntingdon County Dairy Princess Kara Tussey.

TIPS FOR LOW-FAT COOKING

- Replace non-fat plain yogurt and low-fat cottage cheese for Ricotta cheese in lasagna.
- Substitute sour cream in dips and sauces with non-fat plain yogurt.
- Select low-fat varieties of cheese for recipes and snacking.
- Replace ice cream with non-fat frozen yogurt in prepared recipes.

CREAMY PINEAPPLE CHEESE MOUSSE

1 cup whipping cream
8-ounces cream cheese or Neufchatel, softened
¼ cup crumbled Blue cheese
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup water
2 cups yogurt with pineapple
2 tablespoons lemon juice
10 drops yellow food coloring

Whip cream until soft peaks form. Chill. Beat together cheeses until smooth. Soften gelatin in water; heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine dissolves. Gradually beat gelatin mixture into cheese mixture. Beat in yogurt and lemon juice. Fold in whipped cream. Add food coloring. Pour into oiled 5 cup mold. Chill until set. 145.5 calories per serving. Serves 16.

Tri-County Fashion Revue, Speak Out Held

MIRIAM WERT
Juniata Co. Correspondent

MIFFLINTOWN (Juniata Co.) — The Messiah Lutheran Church fellowship hall was a beehive of activity on June 28 as 4-H members of Juniata, Mifflin, and Perry counties demonstrated their sewing and public speaking talents.

The member of the senior division in public speaking who will go on to Penn State for regional competition is Darrell Miller, 13, McVeytown, in 4-H for five years in the sheep and baby beef clubs. His presentation of "What 4-H Has Taught Me" told how he learned to feed and care for his animals; that jobs need doing even if he doesn't like doing them: how to be able to speak in front of a crowd, as he gives project reports at meetings and shows his animals; how a business meeting should be held and that the majority rules even if he doesn't agree; patience such as seeing projects through to the end; winning is nice but isn't everything, and bragging may cause loss of friends; and that the experiences of his 4-H life will no doubt always be with him. Darrell also did a sample radio spot promoting 4-H.

Also receiving a blue ribbon in the public speaking event was Samantha Speicher, 12, Lewistown. Since she is in the junior division, she will not be eligible to go on to Penn State this year. Samantha is in her fifth year of 4-H and has an 11-week-old puppy, Orelle, in the Seeing Eye Puppy 4-H Club.

The fashion revue showed that there are many talented 4-H members who can sew very well. In the senior division (age 13-18) blue ribbons were won by Shari Book and Judy Geissinger of Juniata County, Donna Fisher and Kim McCalips of Mifflin County, and

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Nancy Kring, Johnstown, would like a recipe for Oriental muffins, a spicy muffin with a brown sugar bottom.

QUESTION — Ann Lincoln, Genesee, lost her Insterella Mozzarella Cheese recipe that she made from her sweet Jersey milk. Does anyone have the recipe?

QUESTION — A York County reader would like a recipe for poultry stuffing made from crackers instead of bread.

QUESTION — Phyllis Stauffer, Seven Valleys, is looking for a recipe for onion loaf, which can be sliced but is not a bread.

QUESTION — Sandy Bortner, Spring Grove, wants recipes for rolls with fillings such as nut, poppy seed, apricot, peanut butter, jelly, cinnamon and sugar, which uses frozen bread loaves.

QUESTION — John Oleyar, Bradenville, wants a recipe to make old-time cheese that uses junket tablets. His mom made it. She put the ingredients through a cheesecloth with a weight on it. It was a semi-hard cheese that tasted great.

QUESTION — Edna Mortimer, Conestoga, would like a no-knead bread recipe.

QUESTION — Nancy Mayer, Dalton, is looking for recipes to make large quantities of homemade cake mix, cookie mix, and quick bread mix that can be made ahead of time and kept on the shelf until ready to use.

ANSWER — Mrs. Donald Hill, Apalachin, N.Y., wanted recipes for strawberry-rhubarb French toast, rhubarb barbeque shortribs, and raspberry rhubarb mousse such as that served at Kling House Restaurant at Kitchen Kettle Village. Although these are not the recipes requested, here are several similar ones from the Kitchen Kettle Village, Route 340, Intercourse, PA 17534, Rhubarb Recipe Cookbook that can be purchased for $3 by mail.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Sauce

½ pound rhubarb, cut into ½ -inch pieces
½ pound sliced fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
Pinch salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch, dissolved in 2 tablespoons water

Cook rhubarb, strawberries, sugar, cinnamon, and salt until soft. Add cornstarch and cook until thickened. Use as is or on top of French toast.

Rhubarb-Honey Sauce

½ pound rhubarb, diced
¼ cup frozen apple juice concentrate
2 tablespoons honey
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon cornstarch

Cook rhubarb, apple concentrate, honey, and nutmeg until saucey. Combine cornstarch and water; add to rhubarb; simmer one minute.

Brush over shortribs last 15 minutes of baking and grill according to directions for spareribs.

Rhubarb Mousse

½ cup sugar
1 package unflavored gelatin
1 teaspoon orange peel
2 cups rhubarb, diced
¾ cup whipping cream, whipped until stiff

Combine sugar and gelatin. Stir in water and orange. Cook over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Add rhubarb; reduce heat; simmer until rhubarb is soft.

Puree mixture and cool until starting to set. Fold in whipped cream. Garnish with strips of orange peel.

Garden's Bounty

MUSHROOM CRUST QUICHE

¼ pound mushrooms, coarsely chopped
½ cup crushed saltine crackers
¼ cup green onions, chopped
5 tablespoons butter
2 cups shredded cheddar or Swiss cheese
3 eggs
1 cup cottage cheese
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika

Saute mushrooms in medium frying pan in 3 tablespoons butter until limp. Stir in crackers and turn into a well-buttered 9-inch pie pan. Press evenly. Saute the onions in remaining 2 tablespoons butter until limp. Spread over mushroom pie crust. Sprinkle with shredded cheese, eggs, and cayenne until smooth. Pour into crust and sprinkle with paprika.

Bake in a 350 degree oven until a knife comes out clean (20 to 25 minutes). Let stand 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

ASPARAGUS CASSEROLE

4 slices bread
3 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups Velveeta cheese
3 cups asparagus, chopped and cooked

In a square casserole, place the bread. Pour beaten eggs combined with milk and salt on top.

Bake at 300 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Remove from oven and put asparagus on top. Sprinkle cheese over it and put casserole into oven until cheese is melted.

This is a favorite casserole in our family. I am 11 years old and I love to help my mother bake. My parents' names are Amos and Lydia King. I have four brothers, Gideon, 8; Mervin, 6; Benjamin, 4; and Eli, 1. We have 44 cows; 3 have to be outside because we don't have a place for all the cows. We also have a dog, 3 cats, 3 mischievious kittens, 8 mules, 2 driving horses. My grandparents, 4 uncles live near to us.

ANSWER — Mary Martin, Annville, wanted a recipe for Moravian pie. Thanks to a Shippensburg reader for the following recipe.

Moravian Pie

½ cup granulated sugar
1 cup coconut
3 heaping tablespoons flour
1 cup molasses
2 cups milk

Mix together and put in unbaked pie shell. Bake at 350-375 degrees until set in center.

ANSWER — Deanna L. Cunfer, Lehighton, wanted recipes for wheat and rye breads to make in an automatic bread machine. Thanks to Beverly Hoover, Thomasville, for sending a recipe.

Buttermilk Wheat Bread

1½ cups buttermilk
1½ tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups bread flour
⅓ cup whole wheat flour
1 package active dry yeast

Place all ingredients in order given in bread machine pan. Select white bread setting. Bake according to machine directions.

1 head grated cabbage
1 teaspoon salt

Let set for one hour. Add:
1 grated carrot
1 green pepper
1 red pepper

Make dressing from following ingredients:
1 cup vinegar
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon celery seed
2 cups sugar

Boil one minute and cool. Add to cabbage mixture. Spoon into plastic containers and freeze until ready to use.

Pam Mummert
Glen Rock

CABBAGE CASSEROLE

1 large head cabbage, shredded
1 onion, chopped
6 tablespoons butter, divided
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
8 ounces yellow American or cheddar cheese, shredded
Salt and pepper, to taste
¼ cup dry bread crumbs

Cook cabbage in boiling salted water until tender; drain thoroughly. In a large skillet, saute onion in 5 tablespoons butter until tender. Add soup and mix well. Add cheese; heat and stir. Remove from the heat. Stir in cabbage, salt, and pepper. Transfer to an ungreased 2-quart baking dish. In a small skillet, melt remaining butter. Cook and stir crumbs in butter until lightly browned. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

COPPER PENNY SALAD

2 pounds sliced carrots
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup cider vinegar
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 medium onion, chopped fine
1 pound mushrooms, sliced or 2 small cans sliced
1 large green pepper, chopped
2 ribs celery chopped
1 can tomato soup
1 cup oil
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Cook carrots until tender. Drain and cool. Mix soup, sugar, oil, vinegar, mustard, pepper, and salt in large bowl. Mix until all is blended smooth.

Place carrots, green peppers, onions, mushrooms, and celery in soup mixture.

Refrigerate. Better if made the day before serving. Keeps about two weeks in refrigerator or may be frozen.

HERBED VEGETABLE COMBO

2 tablespoons water
1 cup zucchini squash, thinly sliced
1¼ cups yellow squash, thinly sliced
½ cup green pepper, cut into 2-inch strips
½ cup celery, cut into 2-inch strips
¼ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon caraway seed
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 medium tomato, cut into 8 wedges

Heat water in a large skillet. Add squash, green pepper, celery, and onion. Cover and cook over moderate heat until vegetables are tender-crisp (about 4 minutes). Sprinkle seasonings over vegetables. Top with tomato wedges. Cover and cook over low heat until tomato wedges are just heated (about 2 minutes). Makes 4 servings.

Tri-County Fashion Revue

Jaclyn and Judith Mains of Perry County.

Shari Book, in her third year of sewing, made an unlined suit of polyester rayon. Judy Geissinger, in her sixth year of sewing, made a suit of shorts and jacket, and she top-stitched her blouse. Donna Fisher, in her 7th year of sewing, made a short version of an evening dress, especially exciting in its brilliant royal blue velour. Kim McCalips, in her 7th year of sewing, made a fashionable and comfortable-looking cotton dress. Jaclyn Mains, in her 8th year of sewing, made a two-piece suit of cotton-polyester blend, and the neckline of her blouse featured a hand-stitched scarf. Judith Mains, in her 10th year of sewing, produced a most challenging outfit of velour pants, lined and insulated corduroy coat with hood, and a vest that she wove after seeing it in Sew News Magazine, from where she obtained a video of instructions.

These contestants will attend the Central Regional Fashion Revue Show at Penn State on July 11.

Also receiving blue ribbons were those in the junior division (8-12). They were Kathryn Clark, Elizabeth Diven, Larry Diven, Jessica Spade, Diane Stouffer and Angie Zimmerman of Juniata County; Nicole Albright, Kristen Aurand, Elizabeth Fisher, Kayla Kauffman, Natalie Fuller, Corene Rhodes, Christen Sheaffer, Samantha Speicher and Jennifer Stundon of Mifflin County.

York 4-H'ers Practice Dairy Exhibitor Skills

JOYCE BUPP
York County Correspondent

DELTA (York Co.) — With long, sweeping strokes, Susan Richardson moved the buzzing clippers up and down the side of a dairy heifer, standing patiently amid a lineup of calves and clusters of 4-H members.

"I'm learning to body clip," said an 11-year-old from Fawn Grove, preparing for her second year of 4-H dairy project showing. "I need to know how to do this so I can clip my two Holstein heifers."

Nearly 30 York County 4-H dairy members turned out recently for the annual fitting-showmanship workshop, held at the Delta farm of Dan and Patti Hushon.

Separated by age into groups of four or five members, each group was led by an experienced adult or senior 4-H leader who demonstrated and explained proper clipping techniques.

"I'm learning to use a smaller clipper on the neck and a big clipper to do the other parts," said 8-year-old Nicole Marks, Airville. Nicole, a first-year or Cloverbud dairy exhibitor, said she had clipped one heifer at home in the past.

Dan Hushon explains to his fitting-practice group the difference between various types of cattle clippers.

"Not too much off the top," this Brown Swiss heifer may be telling Heather Crowl as she trims the calf's head.

Following a morning of clipping practice, members moved to a show-ring setting for demonstrations and hands-on practice of showmanship techniques. Older, more experienced 4-H members were paired with beginners, who learned how to walk, stand and set up their animals to best display the heifers' type qualities.

"We've been doing this for several years, but this is the first year we have ever had more than one person to demonstrate, so that we could break down into smaller groups like this," said dairy extension agent Jerry Myers.

"The purpose is to teach the 4-H'ers different skills in fitting and showmanship and also some of the basics in evaluating and selecting dairy animals," he said. "As a dairyman, a person must be able to evaluate animals in a herd. It also helps teach animal care and comfort."

The focus of the workshop, said Myers, was not on winning but on participation and learning. At the completion of the workshop, each 4-H participant received a rope halter, donated by sponsors of the event.

Workshop group leaders were adults Jamie Hartman, Dan Hushon, Scott Cooper, Don Avery, George Knight, and senior 4-H'er Brad Walker.

Participants included Shane and James Kitner; Lisa Jones; Joseph, Jacob and Josh Hushon; Marshall Heaps; Nicole and Erin Marks; Angie Beshore; and Kimberly, Stephanie, and Jessica Pomraning. Also, Brian and Sara Greek, Kyle Bitzer, Jacob and Ben Smith, Jason Arnold, Michelle and Greg Walker, Katie Shoemaker, Jesse and Jason Stambaugh, Curt Calp, Heather Crowl, Susan Richardson, and Dixie and Daphne Doll.

Team leader George Knight Jr. shows senior 4-H'er Dixie Doll some of the finer points of shoulder clipping during the York County 4-H fitting and showmanship workshop.

Susan Richardson makes long strokes down a heifer's side as she body clips during the workshop fitting practice session.

Capitol Region Chooses Fashion Revue Winners

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Seven gold winners emerged from stiff competition at the Capitol Region 4-H Fashion Revue on July 11.

These winners were chosen from 74 contestants from seven counties, Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Cumberland, York, Adams, and Franklin. The contestants had competed at their respective county levels before being chosen to compete at the regional level.

The seven winners will advance to state competition held at State 4-H Achievement Days, University Park, on August 2-4.

Senior gold ribbon winners are Lee Brandt, Lebanon Co.; Erin Frey, Lebanon; Charity Irvine, Lancaster Co.; Kristin Johnston, Adams Co.; Cara Ann Regitz, Lancaster Co.; Maggie Strausbaugh, Lancaster Co.; and Julie Zepp, Adams County.

Descriptions of the winning outfits are as follows:

• Lee Brandt wore a buttoned vest in a Navajo print made of acrylic. The lining and belt are made of silk essence. The button front tuxedo shirt features six tucks on each side, a wing collar, and long sleeves pleated to the cuffs. The poly rayon pants have pleats on the front, side pockets, a back welt pocket and belt loops. A pleated western tie complete the outfit.

• Erin Frey stitched a fully-lined cherry red halter top dress with princess seaming. The double-breasted jacket is also fully lined and silver buttons help to coordinate the outfit.

• Kristin Johnston was inspired

The Making Of A Dairy Princess

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Being a dairy princess requires much more than wearing a crown and handing out ribbons at dairy shows. It means keeping abreast of dairy industry news, nutrition facts, and incorporating effective teaching methods in the hundreds of public appearances made throughout the year.

Thirty-one county dairy princesses and their alternates attended a three-day training seminar at Lycoming College on July 5 to 8.

It was a cram course in learning how to become effective promoters for the dairy industry.

Jan Harding, program director for the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Promotion Services, assigns industry spokespersons, past dairy princesses, and university professors to teach dairy princesses about issues and concerns that they may face when promoting milk products.

Milk and milk products are often maligned by consumers who are misinformed. When they are handing out samples of milk, they will no doubt hear comments such as "I don't drink milk — it's too fattening or I'm lactose intolerant or I don't use dairy products."

Depending how a dairy princess responds to such comments may gain a customer or leave a lingering negative impression forever on the dairy industry.

Dairy princesses need to be informed so they know that contrary to popular opinion butter and margarine contain the same number of calories; vegetable shortening actually has more calories than butter; one tablespoon of sour cream has only 29 calories while the same amount of mayonnaise has 100 calories; most imitation dairy products have the same amount of calories as the food they imitate; half and half contains 7 calories per teaspoon while the non-dairy substitute has about 11½ calories.

Many consumers believe that imitation products are better to eat because they have fewer calories. In actuality, imitation products generally have little nutrition and about as many calories. Dairy products are nutrient dense and taste superior.

Ideas, displays, and materials were given so that dairy princesses can use these in presentations that they give in schools, stores, and meetings.

For example, osteoporosis is a bone disease that affects older women. It is a disease that can be prevented through a calcium-rich diet and exercise. To demonstrate the amount of calcium in the body at various ages, a display can be created to show the relationship between bone development and the body's need for calcium. Because calcium in the body looks like flour, a measure of flour is placed in resealable plastic bags with signs: A newborn skeleton has about ¼ cups; a 10-year old has about 3½ cups; a 15-year-old has about 7 cups; an adult has about 11 cups; and a woman with osteoporosis has about 6½ cups.

Sessions on make-up, hair styling, and social do's and don'ts were also held. While some might regard these sessions as frivolous, the input is extremely relevant to dairy princesses' roles in promoting the state's number one industry.

The audience judges the message of a person 55 percent by visual appearance and only seven percent by the actual words spoken.

This means that dress, appearance, and mannerisms must be

Dairy Princesses and alternates from across the state gather for a four-day training seminar at Lycoming College. From left: Rebecca Klejka, Westmoreland County; Jaymie Smith, Crawford Alternate; Rachael Tanis, Centre County; Janie Burke, Bradford County; Rebecca Klejka, Westmoreland Alternate; and Haley Sankey, Clearfield County.

Because visual appearance plays a significant role in promotional results, dairy princesses learn how to use makeup to enhance their appearances. In fact, surveys show that an audience is influenced by only seven percent of what is said and 55 percent by appearance.

Before and after look for Heather Sleeman of Warren County. Jeff Lloyd explains how style and cut of hair should be determined by the shape of the face.

Participants review the study materials to learn how to make effective speeches when promoting milk in the classroom.

Cheryl Leisher, Central Maryland; Tanya Stambaugh, Carroll County; and Stephanie Goodheart of Armstrong County, experiment with a new look.

Sullivan County Dairy Princess

DUSHORE (Sullivan Co.) — Despite a few rumbles of thunder in the distance, the Sullivan County Dairy Festival Parade started ion time in Dushore.

This year's parade theme, "Milk, 200 Years of Goodness," brought out many floats made by the youth of the county as well as adult floats.

The Sullivan County band was on hand to play a few songs and there were several marching units. Convertibles carrying the county's royality drove down the main street of Dushore, while crowds lined the street.

The 1994 dairy maids Carrie Hottenstein, Jessica Lambert, Sylvia Pardow, Kristina Pardoe, and Jill Broschart waved to the crowds as they passed. The 1994 Dairy Princess candidate, Susan Pardoe and 1993 Dairy Princess Amy Warburton and Daisy, the cow, delighted the crowd.

Also present was Sullivan County Fair Queen Tanya Lewis. Floats were judged and prizes awarded.

After the parade, each dairy maid introduced herself and her parents and told where in the county her farm was located. She then received her dairy maid banner from 1993 Princess, Amy Warburton.

Susan answered a few questions from the emcee, Fred Fiester, and Amy gave her farewell speech. She thanked everyone who had made her year a huge success and wished Susan the best in 1994.

She then crowned Susan the 1994 Sullivan County Dairy Princess. The dairy maids and princess then made a huge ice cream sundae for the crowd to enjoy. There was a cow milking contest for the adults and a goat milking contest for the kids.

attractive to translate a favorable impression for the dairy industry. Participants at the seminar were taught how to use flattering colors, make-up, and hairstyles.

"The better you feel about yourself, the better you will do," instructor Mim Kauffman said in regards to the public speaking appearances.

"You must first sell yourself in order to sell something else," said Melinda Johnson, who taught the dairy princesses how to apply make-up to help them look their best. She also met with each one individually to help them choose the colors that are most attractive for their skin tones.

Jeff Lloyd, hair stylist, spent time with each one to determine the most flattering hairstyles for the shape of each one's face. If the participant desired, he cut the hair and styled it. While he worked with each participant, he offered hints on hair care and suggested proper ph balances for hair textures.

Teachings sessions on public speaking and working with the media were held during the day that began with breakfast at 7 a.m. and sessions held throughout the day until 10 p.m.

Each dairy princess was required to present both a speech and a skit, which was individually critiqued.

Skits and speeches are made numerous times in dairy princess appearances but must be adapted to fit the audience. Senior cititzens have different interests than young families with children.

Sessions were also held on industry concerns and how dairy promotion agencies can help provide information and resources to promote the dairy industry.

Although the sessions were packed with information and free time was not available during the three-day seminar, dairy princesses found the seminar enjoyable and reported that they were excited and eager to promote Pennsylvania's dairy industry that is the state's number one agricultural industry.

to design her outfit when she was given a silk scarf from Paris. Here royal blue jacke is made from wool she won last year participating in the Make It With Wool competition. The jacket features slanted welt pockets, an asymmetrical closing, five bound button holes and is fully lined. Her fully-lined skirt has two pleats to the side. She also made the blouse to coordinate with the suit.

• Cara Regitz chose a melon-colored semi-fitted, slightly tapered lined line dress. The mid-calf length dress has a mock neckband, covered shoulder pads, side front and back seams, a back zipper above the elbow sleeves, and nine gold buttons.

• Maggie Strausbaugh stitched a princess-style dress make with polyester flowered fabric. Her dress is semi-fitted with a flared skirt, short sleeves and a back zipper. To accessorize her outfit, she chose a pink chiffon scarf that she wove through the buttonholes at the neckline.

• Juli Zepp created a reversible coat, complete with a corduroy collar, patch pockets, contrasting cuffs of olive and cream and top stitching. Her casual olive pants include a back yoke and side and back pockets. Julie designed her own vest pattern with 48 marching elephants in dessert colors. Each elephant is hand embroidered with contrasting thread.

Clearfield County Dairy Princess

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

BRISBIN (Clearfield Co.) — Clearfield County Dairy Princess Haley Sankey served as a dairy maid in 1987. She enjoyed promoting the dairy industry, so this year she returned as a contestant for the county dairy princess title on June 25.

Haley said that her aunt influenced her to become active in the dairy industry.

A senior at Moshannon Valley High School, Haley participates in the ecology club, student council, Tri-M, and is a drum major. She is a lay leader at her church.

After graduation, Haley plans to attend college to study environmental engineering.

Haley is the daughter of Barbara and Ricky Sankey.

Alternate Kimberly Ann Turik will assist Haley in promotional duties. Kim is a junior at Lock Haven College where she is majoring in animal science.

Kim is a 4-H leader volunteer, a Bible School teacher. She works part time at a fast food restaurant and milks cows on a friend's farm.

Kim's parents are Patricia and David Turik of Drifting.

Yvonne Remick
Elk Co. Dairy Princess

Elk County Dairy Princess

ST. MARY'S (Elk Co.) — Yvonne Remick wears the Elk County Dairy Princess crown. The 17-year-old is the daughter of Marvin and Bethann Remick.

Although Yvonne doesn't live on a farm, she spends many hours at her aunt and uncle's V-Bell Farm.

Yvonne is a recent graduate of St. Mary's High School, where she was active in band, chorus, and prom committee. She works as an office worker and candy striper, but plans to enter Edinboro College in the fall to pursue degrees in special education and psychology.

She is active in sewing, cooking, and wildlife 4-H clubs and is a member of the 4-H County Council and a state award winner.

Crawford County Dairy Princess

COCHRANTON (Crawford Co.) — Seventeen-year-old Jamie Rynd wears the Crawford County Dairy Princess crown.

She helps her dad, James Rynd, on his 350-acre farm that has been in the family for more than 200 years.

It's her responsibility to help milk 80 Holsteins every Sunday and whenever needed on other days.

A senior at Cochranton High School, Jamie is captain of the football cheerleading squad and a member of student council. She is secretary of her 4-H club. After high school graduation, Jamie has her sights set on becoming a

PIT BOSS™
Pit and Lagoon Treatment

The guaranteed solution to your toughest pit problems.

Less odor Faster, easier pump-out More value from every pound of waste your hogs and pigs produce
Too good to be true? Not if you add Pit-Boss™ pit and lagoon treatment to the containment reservoirs in your operation In fact we guarantee it

Not an enzyme or bacteria.
Pit-Boss pit and lagoon treatment is a unique, environmentally safe pH-controlled product—not an enzyme or bacteria like most competitive products Here's how it works
Waste digestion involves three distinct bacteria types aerobic bacteria which break solids down into fatty and amino acids, anaerobic bacteria, which convert those acids into nuisance gases such as ammonia, hydrogen sulfide, and methane, and facultative bacteria capable of performing either role
Pit-Boss interacts chemically with waste constituents to boost the aerobic manure digestion process The result? Accelerated solids breakdown and relatively lower gas production

Virtually eliminates odor.
Relatively less gas and faster suspension of solids means dramatically reduced odor

The first application of Pit-Boss, for example, typically lowers combined gas levels 20 - 25%. With some confinement buildings recording levels as high as 55 ppm, that's a considerable reduction Subsequent applications achieve similar results In most cases, odor measures just 3 - 4 ppm after the third application, so your facility is safer for people, better for stock, and less likely to be targeted as a nuisance

Speeds the suspension of solids for faster, easier, more complete pump out.
Highly liquified waste not only emits less odor, it also saves you time and money by making quick, efficient pump-out possible
Pit-Boss pit and lagoon treatment breaks down solids fast In fact, the first application of Pit-Boss typically reduces the sludge blanket on a holding pit by 4" - 6", the second by another 12" After the third application, most pits and lagoons are entirely free of solids
What's more, digesting the top crust on your pits or lagoons destroys egg-laying habitat for flies With Pit-Boss, you can count on less odor, easier pump-out, and fewer flies

Enhances the fertilizer value of waste by reducing nitrogen loss.
Up to 90% of the nitrogen in untreated slurry is lost as ammonia What's left at pump-out generally contains about 25 Lb of N, 19 Lb of P, and 20 LB of K per 1000 Lb of waste

Guidelines for effective application
1. Start with an empty pit whenever possible.
2. For pits that are partially or completely full, the pH must be adjusted to 6.5 before applying Pit-Boss This can be accomplished using Chem-A-Co's Adjusta-Boss ph balancer according to the instructions on the label
3. Apply one gallon of Pit-Boss pit and lagoon treatment for each 60,000 gallons of usable pit volume (pit length x width x depth x 7.5). Premix each gallon of Pit Boss with 3-4 gallons of water and empty into the pit at several locations.
4. Do not agitate the pit or use lime or ammonia in or near the pit.

GRAIN HULLS A PROBLEM? Ask Chem-A-Co how to suspend hulls so they're pumped out of your pits right along with the waste.

CRANESVILLE (Erie Co.) — Jill Shepegi wears the Erie County Dairy Princess crown. She helps her parents, Larry and Susan Shepegi on their 100-acre farm. They have a herd of 70 Holsteins and Jerseys.

"All the Jerseys are mine," she said. She received her first one for her sixth birthday and has been building her own herd of Jerseys since then.

A senior at General McClain High School, Jill is a member of the National Honor Society, marching band, concert band, and an advisor to ninth graders.

Jill is president of her 4-H club. After high school, she plans to study business management at college.

Alternate Melissa Rose helps with dairy promotional duties. The 16-year-old daughter of Dave and Lynn Rose of Union City has an 18-year-old brother, Chris.

Melissa helps her aunt on her farm. She beds cows, feed calves, and has her own calf.

A junior at Union City High School, Melissa keeps wrestling statistics and is a member of chorus. She plans to attend college.

Butler County Dairy Princess

BUTLER (Butler Co.) — Jennifer Blair reigns as Butler County Dairy Princess.

Her parents, Wendell and Marilyn Blair sold their dairy herd when Jennifer was 11 years old. Now 21 years old, Jennifer never lost her love for the cows and she helps milk 79 Brown Swiss cows for dairy farmer James Kennedy.

Jennifer also works as a doctor's assistant and receptionist in a doctor's office, but she likes her dairy farm job the best.

Jennifer shows Arabian horses, which she raises on her parents' 700-acre farm in Butler.

Coleen Mowrey
Jefferson Co. Dairy Princess

Helping Jennifer with dairy promotional duties is Audra Marie Knauf of Evans City.

With her parents, Roy and Audrey Knauf, and two brothers and a sister, Jennifer helps with milking, feeding, shoveling manure, and crop farming on the family's 245-acres in Evans City.

Sixteen-year-old Audra Knauf is a junior at Seneca Valley.

Westmoreland County Dairy Princess

BOLIVAR (Westmoreland Co.) — Jennifer Lynn Lenhart represents Westmoreland County as the dairy princess. The 17-year-old daughter of Donna and Lonnie Lenhart works on her grandparents' 205-acre farm. Jennifer helps with haymaking and milking.

She is a senior at Laurel Valley High School and is a member of SADD and CODE. Four-H activities occupy most of her time as she is active in the horse and the dairy clubs. She is also a 4-H ambassador. Her sister Jill, 14, is a dairy maid. She has another sister, Jodi, 4.

Alternate Rebecca Klejka of Derry is the county dairy princess alternate.

Rebecca is the 17-year-old daughter of Debra and Thomas. They farm 200 acres and milk 80 dairy cows.

A senior at Derry Area High School, Rebecca is active in FFA, OCEAN, and two heritage associations. She is also active in 4-H.

Rebecca has started her own greenhouse business. She hopes to continue it and also attend a community college to study business management.

She has two brothers, Jeremy, 18, and David, 15.

Warren County Dairy Princess

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Warren County Dairy Princess Heather Sleeman is accustomed to doing whatever job needs to be done. On the family's 200-acre farm, she fills in with milking, feeding, or whatever needs to be done. Now, she is the dairy industry in her county.

Heather was the recipient of the heifer awarded her by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

Heather is a 4-H ambassador for Warren County, president of the 4-H Horse Club, and secretary of the 4-H Exchange Club.

The 17-year-old daughter of Robert and Dianna Sleeman, has her sights set on studying veterinary medicine at Oklahoma University. "I love it out there," she said of the West, which she has visited several times.

Armstrong County Dairy Princess

DAYTON (Armstrong Co.) — Stephanie Goodheart likes accompanying her grandfather on his milk truck route and DHIA duties in Armstrong County. His love for farming influenced Stephanie to run for the dairy princess title in her county.

The 16-year-old is the daughter of Randy and Mary Goodheart and has a brother and three sisters. A senior at Dayton High School, Stephanie plays volleyball, is band manager, and a member of the chorus. She is active in her church youth group.

Carroll County Has New Dairy Princess

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Mary Ellen Seraydian, the 1993 Carroll County Dairy Princess, handed over her title to Tanya Stambaugh recently at a ceremony held at the Carroll County Agricultural Center.

Tanya is a member of the Carroll County 4-H Dairy Club and a junior member of the county and state Holstein Association. She is president of the Union Bridge 4-H Club and secretary of the Francis Scott Key Future Farmers of America.

Last year was her first time to show at the Carroll County 4-H & FFA Fair. But being a beginner didn't hold Tanya back. She won first place in the senior division of the dairy judging contest as well as reserve grand champion in fitting and showing with one of her Holsteins.

Although she says her dad, Barney, and her mom, Debbie, have been working on farms for as long as she can remember, the family just began operating their own farm near Uniontown about three years ago.

Tanya helps her mom and dad, and her four younger siblings, work the 165-acre dairy farm near Uniontown. They have almost 100 Holsteins and currently milk about 40.

"I take turns helping my dad milk along with my 15-year-old sister, Crystal," Tanya said.

Up at 4 a.m. on the days she helps milk, Tanya says she gets the dairy ready while her dad brings the cows in. "Then, I milk while he feeds." On the second group Tanya feeds and her dad milks.

"It has always been Daddy's dream to run his own farm," Tanya said with green eyes dancing. Like her father, Tanya says dairy farming is her dream, too.

As she goes from feeding the calves to working in the milk room, Tanya jokes about her future. "I'm going to have to marry a rich dairy farmer!"

Rachel Tanis Promotes Centre Co. Dairy Industry

Rachel Tanis
Centre Co. Dairy Princess

GAIL STROCK
Centre Co. Correspondent

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — "It's a good way to round out my last year in 4-H," Rachel Tanis says of her decision to be Centre County's Dairy Princess. And it's a good way to continue to do something she loves to do — promote cows and their wholesome products.

At nineteen, Rachel's experience with cows goes far beyond the 4-H arena. She has been showing dairy cows for 10 years, involved with dairy bowl for seven, and dairy judging off and on since she was nine years old. She has shown at the fall, central, and state championship shows, the district and state 4-H shows, the Eastern National in Harrisburg, and has represented Pennsylvania at the Grand National Junior Show in Louisville with the Junior State herd. She now serves as vice president of the State Junior Holstein Association.

The Tanis family moved to Centre County six years ago from

You Ask ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? You Answer

In response to readers' questions, this column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for the answers. In the past, many readers sent non-cooking requests to Cook's Question Corner, a cooking column on page B 8.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. The concept is the same: When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — A. Nolt of New Holland would like to know the words to the complete poem that was recited in the 1920s when her father-in-law went to school. The poem contains these lines: The carpenter's house is falling down. The preacher's kids are the worse in town.... Since this request appeared, Theresa Litecky, Eastampton, N.J., and several others have written to say they remember parts of this poem and can hardly wait to see the complete poem. Since no one has answered this request for several weeks, we assume readers do not know the answer and will drop the request unless we receive the complete poem immediately.

QUESTION — Romaine B. Answell, Sumerdale, would like to know who manufactured the Webalco electric skillet.

QUESTION — Charles E. Wright, Duncannon, purchased a 13-inch parlor stove made of iron with the following marks: On the front spark inside is written Gray Iron Casting Co., Mt. Joy, Pa. On the inside top door 75-11; on the poker 7517. The doors, drafts, etc., would look a full-sized stove. Is this company still in business?

QUESTION — A reader would like to know if someone has a grain scale that can be bought to weigh saffron or gunpowder.

QUESTION — Walter Hertzog, King of Prussia, asks how to get rid of bamboo in his yard that is running shoots everywhere. He also asks where to purchase clump bamboo that doesn't run.

QUESTION — Mary Sasscer, Upper Mailboro, Md., would like to know where to purchase a used treadle scroll saw for use in demonstrating at craft shows.

JOHN DEERE ROUND BALERS

Simplicity, productivity, and quality... all rolled into one

Simplicity: The mechanical bale monitoring system on John Deere 335, 375, and 385 Round Balers gives you consistent, uniform bales. You know at a glance how the bale is forming – so you can make quick adjustments and turn out picture-perfect bales every time.

Productivity: Mounted just in front of the baler wheels, the pickup provides excellent ground hugging. Diamond-tread belts start bales fast, without slipping. And they cover more than 90 percent of the bale – keeping material inside the baler, so more protein-rich leaves stay inside the bale.

Hydraulic bale tensioning maintains maximum pressure at all times – so these solid, stand-up bales shed water quickly, keeping hay quality high... and dry.

Quality: You'll find it throughout the family of solid-built John Deere round balers, including the 335 (4x4-ft., 750-lb. bales), 375 (5x4-ft., 1,000-lb. bales), and 385 (4x5-ft., 1,050-lb. bales) – and you'll find it in the bales they make.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Summer is the time for traveling and vacations. Thus several grandchildren have come to the farm with their families.

One Georgia family started off their week's visit with an ice cream party at our home for some friends. Our freezer had not been used for ages. The first ice cream was hand-cranked but the next two batches were made the easy way in an electric freezer loaned by our son.

You can look at and play with calves, cats, and a puppy just so long and then other entertainment is necessary. I had the opportunity to go along with them to two local museums. The Heritage Center of Lancaster County is located in a building on Lancaster Square while Landis Valley Museum is in the country and consists of many buildings where various trades are demonstrated. We saw the raw flax plants transformed into thread and then woven into materials for clothing and bedspreads just as they did long ago.

The Conestoga wagon was used to convey flour, whiskey, butter, cheese, fur, corn and bacon to Philadelphia. On the return trip it brought gunpowder, spices, salt, tea, coffee, tools, sugar, and molasses to Lancaster County.

One day we traveled to New Jersey to visit another daughter. They have a large swimming pool, which was a big attraction for the adults and the children. The water was too warm as this was a very hot week. On the way home the children slept on their grandmother's lap.

No trip would be complete without a visit to Hershey's Chocolate World. They told me this too was a hot trip but ice cream cones helped them cool off a little bit.

On their way from Georgia, they bought a basket of peaches for us and now I had better can them before they become too ripe.

Branchville, New Jersey. Her parents, Jake and Sally Tanis, own Ideal Holsteins, a 200-cow and replacement herd which includes the full capacity milking herd of 85. Rachel's older brothers Jacob, 23, and Adam, 22, farm the Ideal herd also.

"When I was real little I didn't want to have anything to do with animals," Rachel says. But that certainly has changed. She has experience showing 4-H beef and pigs, but her dairy ribbons, plaques, and trophies steal the show — the 1993 PA Farm Show Grand Champion of the Junior Division, Junior Champion fitter awards, Junior Champion showman awards, county Milk, Fat, Protein Awards, Junior All Pennsylvania Awards, Breeder of Excellent Cow award, and Junior Progressive Breeder Award.

"I don't like doing things half way," Tanis says. Since her May 26th coronation, Tanis has visited Altoona's Lakemont Park on Dairy Day, visited preschools, spent two days at the Special Olympics, promoted dairy products at Burkholder's Market, visited the Logan Grange, and the Boalsburg Memorial celebration.

"I hope to see and meet a lot of people," says this part-time Penn State student. "I want kids to know they grow on it (milk). And I've learned a lot."

Tanis may be learning a lot, but she's also giving a lot. She's out at the barn at 5:30 every morning to milk and feed calves. Her dairy princess activities are usually scheduled for mid-day, and her spare time is spent helping young 4-H'ers with their calf projects because, says Tanis, she doesn't want them to lose interest.

Tanis expects a very busy year combining her dairy princess schedule with her showing schedule. But when her year is finished, Tanis plans to continue to be a spokesperson for the dairy industry and it's wholesome products — as a full-time dairy and animal science major at Penn State with a minor in communications.

QUESTION — Anna Newswanger, 185 S. Pool Forge Rd., Narvon, PA 17555, would like to purchase the book "Ada and the Wild Duck," by Edith Brecht. Please state price when answering.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., would like to know where to find kegs for Saint Bernards to wear around their necks. He needs real kegs, not miniature knick-knacks, that live Saint Bernards wear.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., would like to buy an Aladdin Lamp that is either electric or oil or kerosene, but not the Aladdin mantle type. He wants the shape, the kind rubbed for a wish in the story of the Magic Lamp.

QUESTION — D.Newsom, R. 2, Box 530 Copperstown, N.Y. 13326-9606, would like to purchase soft fake fur or plush large pieces in 6 to 8 yard lengths. Can be new or used. Send source and price.

QUESTION — A subscriber from Lehighton would like to know where to purchase plastic lids for soft plastic quart containers for freezing produce. If lids cannot be purchased separately, where can she purchase wholesale a case of plastic quart containers.

QUESTION — Nancy Cummings, Bolivar, would like to know why celery plants go to seed. She has grown celery all her life and the last two years, some of the plants go to seed instead of developing a nice stalk.

QUESTION — M. Carver writes: What a surprise in our garden when we discovered the local nursery supplied us with cabbage plants instead of brussel sprouts. We would like to know how they are handled while fresh and also a pepper slaw recipe for canning or other recipes for cabbage. Please check pages B 6 and B 8 this week for recipes.

ANSWER — A reader from Thorton wrote that families of Canadian geese have taken residence in their pond. How can the geese be encouraged to leave the pond? Thanks to E.L. Cehula of Phoenixville for suggesting the following: First you must love dogs. Get a border collie, which is born with an instinct to herd. With a little training and your time, the dog can be taught to patrol the pond by herding the geese into the water and keeping them there. In order to dry off, the geese will fly up and if they return, the dog will once again chase them into the water. When they find out they cannot get out to dry off or graze, the geese will leave. Make sure all goslings are ready to fly before using the dog as a guard. Always praise your dog and reward him with a treat. A border collie is always eager to please and will reward you with much devotion and tireless work.

ANSWER — Barb Gayman wanted more explicit instructions for a question she had asked previously. She asked what to do about food sticking to the plastic trays of her food dehydrator, Thanks to Eva Brubaker, Myerstown, who said that Original Pam No-Stick Cooking Spray, no substitutions, works.

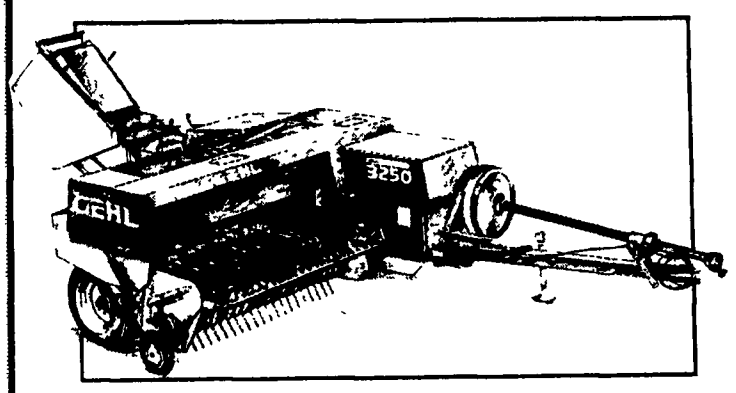
GEHL®

SQUARE DEAL



Gehl's introduced two new square balers to complement our great line of round balers and other Gehl haytools Both balers make standard 14x18 inch bales and offer these proven features

- Dependable knotter – Has fewer parts for more reliability and stronger knots, tie after tie
- Wide pickups – With close spaced tines, flared side sheets and standard gauge wheel, the pickup brings in all of the crop
- Plunger system – Self-aligning for reduced wear
- Bale tension – Easily adjusted with two handles
- Hydraulic bale thrower – Has a self-contained hydraulic system and electric controls on the tractor (optional)
- Big twine storage – Holds 6 balls of twine

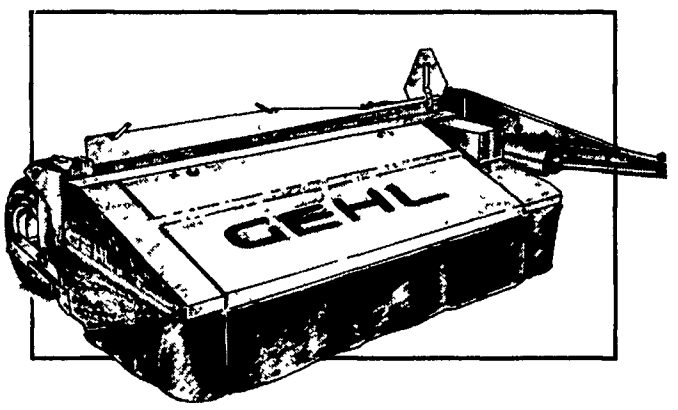
CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width.

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat

REAL ESTATE

10.63 acres of land. Approx 3 acres in lawn. The balance is woodland. Improved with a historic two-story brick Mansion House which dates to just after 1800 and was part of the buildings of one William Sechrist, and included 250 acres and a Grist Mill. The Mansion House, having 3266 sq. ft. was lovingly updated, restored and added-to by "Lou" and "Tammy" Schroder, beginning in 1982, preserving much of the original woodwork and trim. Dwelling contains a center hall with open stairway. Hall opens onto the kitchen, laundry room/office, living room with stone fireplace, formal dining room and spa/workout room with in-ground spa and dry and steam saunas on first floor. Second floor has 3 bedrooms and bath, plus a master suite with large sitting room, bedroom, clothes room and bath with bidet, and adjacent deck. Additions include a large two-story wing, plus a satellite dish which is controlled from the master suite. The added two-story wing has a three car garage with automatic openers on the first floor. The second floor contains a 1241 sq. ft. apartment with two bedrooms, bath, kitchen, dining area and living room. Separate heat and electricity, which are paid by the tenant. The apartment currently brings in $4,800.00 annually.

Use Flourescent Lighting For Energy Savings

U-TUBE LAMP & SUPPLIES

"...the biggest advantage of these lamps is the economic savings over the life of the bulb. Once the initial investment is paid back, which will be done in less than six months, the increased electrical economy make such bulbs the most logical way to light..." MICHAEL J Dorre - PhD Animal Science University of Connecticut

PHILIPS EARTH LIGHT

ENERGY EFFICIENCY AND LONGER LIFE

Earth Light Collection lamps pay for themselves many times over by providing significant savings on energy, maintenance and replacement. Compared to ordinary incandescent lamps, Earth Light Collection lamps save up to 76 percent on energy. The SLS23, for example will save $67* over the life of each lamp. What's more, these energy savings are compounded by savings on maintenance and replacement. With an average life of 10,000 hours, Earth Light Collection lamps last up to 13 times longer than ordinary incandescents.

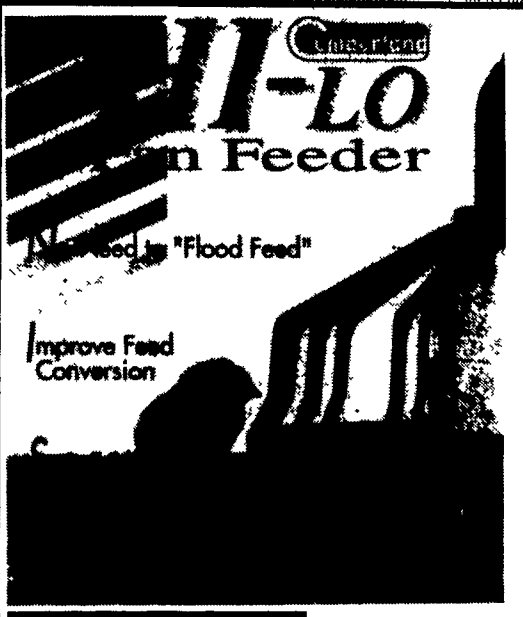
- Long Life



A TWO-STAGE PAN

The first 7-10 days of a broiler's life are critical. The eating habits they develop then establish their growth pattern for life

For those very young birds the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder, resting on the house floor, presents a lip height of 2.1" (the average height of traditional "chick lids") Because they can easily and safely get in and out of the pan, they're eating out of the pan from day one

And because the pan needn't be "Flooded," they're getting only fresh feed and only as much as they need

Then as the birds grow, and the feed line is raised, the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder E-X-P-A-N-D-S into a 3 5" deep adult bird pan!

The higher wall and feed saver lip prevent waste from raking and billout and cause the birds to eat nearer the outside edge of the pan, assuring a more even "first in, first out" utilization of feed (which also saves feed and maintains freshness).

DO BROILERS NEED 23 HOURS OF LIGHT PER DAY FOR OPTIMUM PERFORMANCE?

Dr. Magdi Mashaly
Dr. Abdulrahman Atta*
Magda Galal*
Rowland Bynum
Dept. Of
Poultry Science

It is a well-known fact that light is important in affecting different biological processes in the body. In many instances, these effects are hormonal and are the result of increased activity of the pituitary gland, located at the base of the brain. The length of the daily light period is important in stimulating the reproductive cycles of chickens; however, in growing broilers, the amount of light needed is only that amount necessary to enable the bird to move around and to see to eat and drink. In meat-type birds, there is always an attempt to reduce activity to improve efficiency. In the poultry industry, the most commonly used light regime for broilers is 23 hours of light and 1 hour of darkness per day.

In our laboratory, we have conducted several studies using different photoperiodic regimes to find a lighting schedule that results in optimum performance. The regimes used were 23 hour light/1 hour dark (23 L/1 D); 12 hour light/12 hour dark (12 L/12 D); 2 hour light/2 hour dark (2 L/2 D); and 1 hour light/3 hour dark (1 L/3 D).

One-day old broiler chicks were used. Birds were weighed weekly and feed consumption was calculated. Percentage mortality was also recorded. (Immune parameters were measured every two weeks to assess differences in immune status and will be presented in a future article.)

At all ages measured, body weights of birds receiving 12 L/12 D were less than those of the other three groups. Body weights in the 23 L/1 D group were slightly higher than in either 2 L/2 D or 1 L/3 D groups. This difference was especially apparent at six and seven weeks of age. The birds in the 1 L/3 D group consumed less feed and had slightly better feed efficiency than the other three groups. Percentage of mortality was less in the 1 L/3 D group than in the 23 L/1 D group (2 percent vs. 3 percent).

It could be concluded from our results as well as results from other researchers that raising broiler chicks on intermittent lighting programs (1 L/3 D) could be more advantageous when compared to continuous or 23 L/1 D systems for the following four reasons:

1. With feed constituting the major cost of production, saving feed through reduction in consumption and consequently an improvement in conversion would be important.
2. An improvement in livability.
3. Reduction in the incidence of leg abnormalities.
4. Reduction in the cost of electricity, since the light will be on only six hours versus a possible 23 or 24 hours per day.

Poultry Litter Becomes Friendly Fertilizer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Alum, an item found in household medicine cabinets, could be put to a new use — as a prescription for turning the litter in poultry houses into fertilizer that's kind to the environment.

As an astringent, alum is the main ingredient of styptic pencils used to stop bleeding, such as from shaving nicks. U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist Philip A. Moore Jr. has put alum to work in commercial poultry houses to cut the loss of nitrogen in chicken litter.

Fresh poultry litter is loaded with nitrogen, phosphorus and other essential plant nutrients, making it a seemingly ideal "natural" fertilizer, Moore said.

But nitrogen in the litter tends to vaporize into ammonia while still in the poultry house. When that happens, the litter's ratio of nitrogen to phosphorus is thrown off balance, leaving a heavy load of phosphorus.

Litter is applied to land as fertilizer based on its nitrogen content, said Moore. Spreading enough litter to provide sufficient nitrogen can result in serious phosphorus overloads that can wash off farm fields — bad news for nearby waterways. Phosphorus accelerates the growth of algae in streams and rivers.

Adding alum to the litter while it's still on the poultry house floor changes that. Moore said research showed that alum ties up the phosphorus into a form that won't dissolve in water and doesn't move in soil.

Moore and co-researchers found in other tests at an ARS poultry laboratory in Fayetteville, Ark., that adding alum to poultry litter at the rate of 200 grams per kilogram of litter reduced nitrogen evaporation by 99 percent.

"Chicken litter is one of the best fertilizers in the world, as long as it's used wisely," Moore said.

Operator Friendly. You'll find the 7753 offers easy operator entry/exit into a roomy cab.
Dependable drive chains that NEVER need adjusting. The "bow tie" design uses prestressed, heavy-duty drive chains in two short continuous loops per side. That means long-life in the most rugged use and NO periodic, time-consuming drive chain adjustments.
Easy-to-use foot pedals control loader hydraulic functions, while two steering levers allow precise maneuverability.
Durable axles! Bobcat 7753 axles are solidly built then specially heat treated. Axle Bearings NEVER need greasing because a sealed oil bath keeps them lubricated. New axle hub design protects axle seal from damage from wire or twine. Hub is easily removed if service is required.

Experience America's Best.
Melroe company has over 30 years of skid-steer loader experience – longer than anyone else. That's one of the reasons Fortune Magazine has twice recognized the Bobcat loader as one of the 100 products "America Builds Best."

Reliable Components.
Other than a few daily checks and fills, you can rely on the PERFORMANCE of the 7753 Bobcat. It has been designed and built with durability and low maintenance in mind.

Great Serviceability!
The Bobcat 7753 has been designed to be serviced quickly. For example, there's single-side access to the transversely-mounted engine, a lift-out oil cooler for easy cleaning and a tip-up cab to expose hydraulic and hydrostatic components for easy inspection. For repairs, the exclusive BOSS® System can help quickly diagnose system problems. These features, along with a factory-trained service technicians and "top-shelf" parts availability, mean your loader can be back on the job in no time.

TOTAL HAND CONTROL!
Dealer-Installed Option!
- Easy Wrist-Action Control.
- Push-Button Auxiliary Hydraulics For Total Hand Control. (Available only on 50 Series loaders. 40 Series loaders utilize foot pedal to activate auxiliary hydraulics.)
- Easy-Grip Handle.

Cumberland County Holds 4-H Fashion Revue

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Correspondent

CARISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The theme of Cumberland County's 1994 4-H Fashion Revue was "Western Winds" and it drew nearly 30 youngsters to show off their sewing talents.

All the county's 4-H sewing clubs — the Carlisle Springs, Centerville Cut Outs, East End Explorers, Fifth H, Flying Fingers, Funky Fingers, Lower Frankford, Newville Creators and Newburgh No-Name clubs — were represented at the event at the county agricultural extension office.

The projects the 4-H'ers submitted were judged on not only the design and construction, but also on how well the girls appeared in the clothes they made and if the fashion of the clothes complimented the girl.

The winners picked in the senior and junior divisions have won the right to go to the regional competition.

Winners in the senior division included Tanya Zelger, who made a white chiffon gown; Cassie Knerr, whose project was a matching floral skirt and jacket; and Natasha Zelger, who presented a wool plaid jacket and wool pants.

Danielle Sanderson, who was another senior division winner, showed off a fitted wool vest with wool pants; Jennifer Beaston's project was an off-the-shoulder satin gown; Kandi Baum showed off a blue floral rayon dress; Michelle Straitiff presented a quilted front jumper; and Sandra Anderson showed her talent with a fitted black knit dress with a plaid jacket. The alternates chosen in the senior division were Michelle Cornman, Jennifer Lerew, and Kim Orris.

NFU Commends Administration For Ethanol Rule

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) lauded the Clinton Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for their commitment to ethanol as a component of the Reformulated Gasoline (RFG) program.

EPA Administrator Carol Browner announced the final rule, which includes a requirement that 30 percent of the fuel in the program must be derived from renewable resources, such as ethanol or ETBE following a 12-month phase-in period, starting January 1, 1995.

EPA and U.S. Department of Agriculture analyses earlier this year estimated that the 30 percent level would boost demand for ethanol or ethanol-based ethers by about 500 to 630 million gallons annually. This translates into an additional demand for 200 to 250 million bushels of corn.

"When we have the capacity to produce fuel from a completely renewable source, we would be foolish not to seize the opportunity to lessen our nation's dependence on imported oil. The announced is a real plus for the environment while at the same time providing an economic boost to some of our nation's hard-working rural communities," said NFU President Leland Swenson.

JAMESWAY DIRECT XPRESS SYSTEM
NEW BELT FEEDERS & CONVEYORS

Big Capacity Delivery...
With All The Advantages Of Dependable, Efficient, Low Profile Direct Drive Design!
That's what farmers really appreciate about the new Jamesway family of Direct XPress Feeders and Conveyors All models feature a dependable and efficient heavy duty industrial drive, with enclosed oil bath and standard 1, 2 or 3 H P C faced motors Our direct drive design eliminates pulleys, jackshafts, sprockets, chains V belts and shields The low profile motor and drive can be mounted on either side for added installation versatility
The Direct XPress family includes
• DXF 1400 - Single or Divided Lot 14" - Wide Belt Feeder 180' Maximum Length
• DXC 1400 - 14" - Wide Belt Conveyor 180' Maximum Length
• DXC 1800 - 18" - Wide Belt Conveyor 180' Maximum Length
• DXC 2400 - 24" - Wide Belt Conveyor 124' Maximum Length
"X" Sides Are Standard
All Direct XPress System models feature heavy 16-gauge weather resistant galvanized steel sides in 2-1/2', 5' and 10' sections We call them "X" sides because they are "X-tra" strong and will span 20' between supports And they are built to last and will stay looking good "X tra" long!
Do It Your Way!
Match your feeding layout and requirements with reversible elevating conveyors, inclines and declines without sacrificing capacity speed and uniform delivery All inclines and declines are infinitely adjustable up to 30 degrees elevation for textured belt and up to 15 degrees elevation for smooth belt.
Tough 1/8" thick polyester belt with PVC covering and dependable stainless steel industrial splice is a year round performer and flexes in sub-zero weather Choice of smooth or textured belt for conveyors in 14" 18" and 24" widths Belt speed is 230 feet per minute

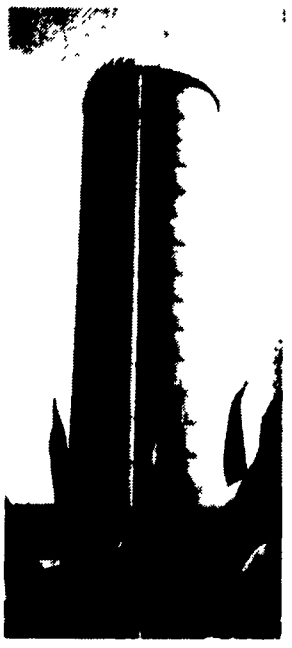
"IT IS TIME TO ONCE AGAIN GET SERIOUS ABOUT STORING YOUR VALUABLE FEEDS!!!"

The recent "innovations" and temporary methods of storing your grains and forages are just not protecting your feeds like they should, nor are they really efficient.

Research and practical experience has shown that "the tower silo has never been equalled in its ability to protect your forage quality." And remember..." on most dairy farms, forage quality is the single most important factor affecting profit."

Contact us soon to be sure you get on our schedule to have your poured concrete tower silo constructed in time!

No used silos!
No rebuilt silos!
No-pre-owned silos!
All New For You!



"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

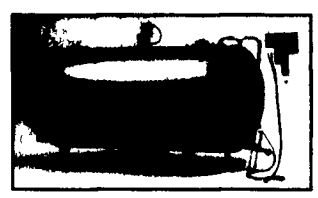
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

Contact your Mueller distributor for further comparisons.

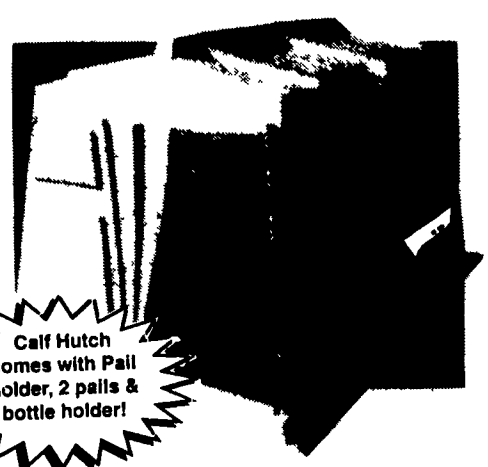
SUPREME CALF HUTCH

J&D MOLDED HIGH DENSITY-POLYETHYLENE CALF HUTCH

J&D Calf Hutches will keep calves drier in the winter, they will stay warmer and start eating at an earlier age. During the warm summer months you can use the standard, adjustable air vent to control the climate in the Calf Hutch. Your calves will be healthier and will grow faster. You may add an out door fence area to the hut.



Calf Hutch comes with Pail holder, 2 pails & bottle holder!

PERMANENT FENCE SYSTEM

"With Gallagher Power Fences Insul Timber, I never have to worry about using or replacing insulators."

Dave Thompson
Delta, PA

Compared to woven and barbed wire, Gallagher Permanent Power Fence Systems are:

- Safe and more effective in controlling any livestock.
- Less material and labor required.
- Substantially lower cost to install and maintain.

For more information on the Gallagher Permanent Power Fence System contact your nearest Gallagher dealer listed or call 1-800-531-5908.

INTRODUCING...

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy
- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef
- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf
- A higher percentage of early births
- A higher percentage of cows breeding back
- Bulls which are in better condition to cover your cows

- AVAILABLE IN 250 LB. SIZE -

Registered Highland Cattle

- Discover the breed that still retains special traits acquired from its ancestors of Scotland.
- Great foragers, clearing most pest plants common to poor pastures
- Thrive in cold, damp climates
- Produce excellent lean beef in adverse conditions where other cattle would fail
- Docile and Hearty
- Calve easily due to small birth weights—something of interest to dairy people for servicing first-calf heifers
- Brucellosis, TB, BVD free herd and inoculated against rabies

LLAMAS LLAMAS LLAMAS

If you've been considering starting in llamas, or having a llama for a pet, why not stop in to see our herd.

Our young males start at $500, our weanling females at $2,500, our pregnant females at $3,500. A deposit will hold any of our crias (baby llamas) for you.

We prefer selling off the farm, rather than subjecting our animals to the stress of auctions.

All of our llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry. Some of the finest wool and blood lines can be found in our herd, including Otter Creek Harold.

All llamas can be halter led, and are gently trained by teenagers.

A LOAD OF MIRACLE BREWERS WET GRAINS . . .LOADS MORE MILK

Have you considered brewers wet grains to give your herd's production a boost? Brewers wet grains from Miracle Feeds are an excellent protein and energy source. They can readily make up to 20-30% of the ration's dry matter. Combined with McNess vitamin and minerals they can provide a very efficient rumen bypass way to feed.

Researchers estimate that between 45-55% of brewers wet grains' protein escapes rumen degradation compared to only 25-30% for soybean meal. This bypass protein is more efficiently digested and absorbed in the cow's small intestine.

For more information on the use of brewers wet grains and other by-products, plus McNess premixes, call toll-free 800-888-0230.

Have you tried toasted grains?

Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods:
- ◆ Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels.
- ◆ Improved energy density of your rations.
- ◆ Excellent quality control.
- ◆ Exchange programs with feed mills
- ◆ Economical storage, rolling and grinding available
- ◆ We also buy corn and soybeans

Anything Less Isn't Good Enough

If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:

- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axles, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Whatever kind of livestock you transport, you can rely on EBY products to do the job right.

Eby custom-builds bodies and trailers for all types of livestock, grain and farm commodities.

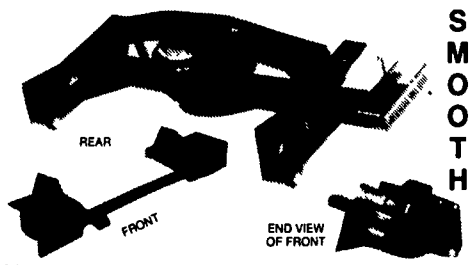
SMOOTH



SMOOTH

Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy, and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

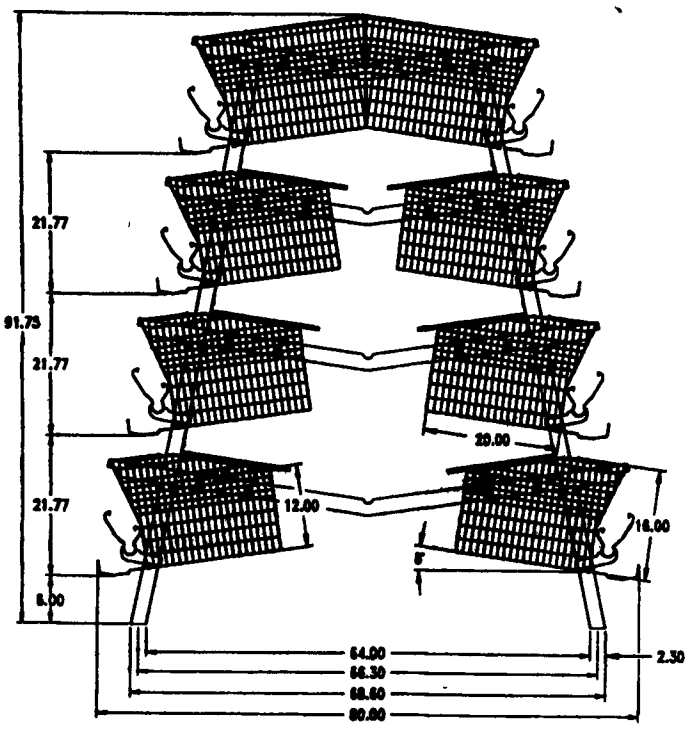
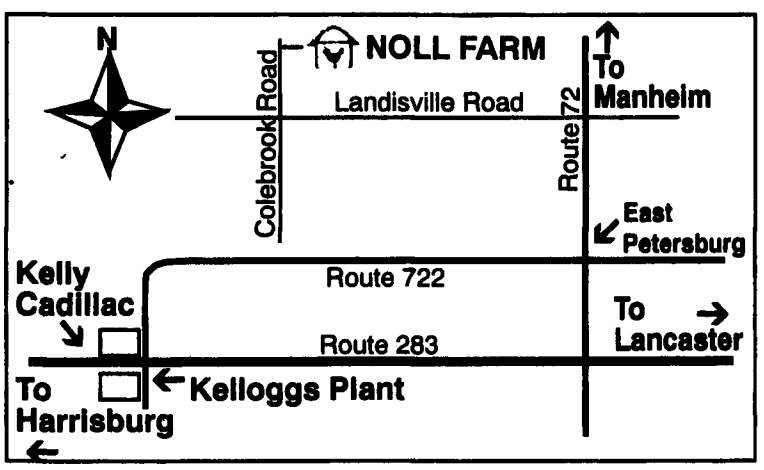
Wednesday, July 20th 1994 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM

See Chore-Time's Turbo Ventilation System and Chore-Time's New Dropping Board Cage System - Durako



DURAKO DBS
4 - HIGH (UNI-BACK)



From Lancaster take Rt. 283 West to Rt. 722 East towards East Petersburg turn left on North Colebrook Road Go approx. 3 miles to farm on right.

These houses were designed by the Nolls, R.W. Sauder, King Construction, and Northeast Agri Systems with the following priorities:

Highest quality eggs
Maximum achievable flock performance
Lowest maintenance
Reliability and Longevity

Based upon these goals the Nolls selected these 10 special features:

1. Chore-Time's New Durako dropping board cage layer system.
2. 16" wide by 20" deep - 6 bird cage for optimal performance.
3. Chore-Time's New two piece cage - over 10% heavier.
4. New Diamond 100 case per hour farmpackers with flats stackers.
5. Chore-Time Turbo air inletting installed over each cage row.
6. Chore-Time's Next Generation feed bin with safety cage.
7. Chore-Time's reliable Weighmatic electronic bin scale system.
8. Fancom computerized ventilation control system.
9. Lubing Combi nipples installed on stands with New sealed float tanks.
10. Chore-Time's Ultraflo II high speed computerized feeding system.

It's another ULTRAFLO® by CHORE-TIME®

Don't miss this opportunity to see 2 New high rise layer houses, 1 completed and 1 under construction, containing many new features.

Representatives will be on hand to answer your questions.

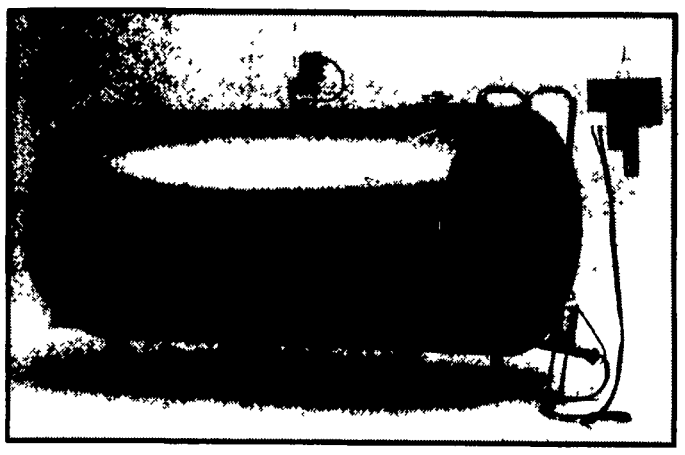
Scroll-Compressor Technology

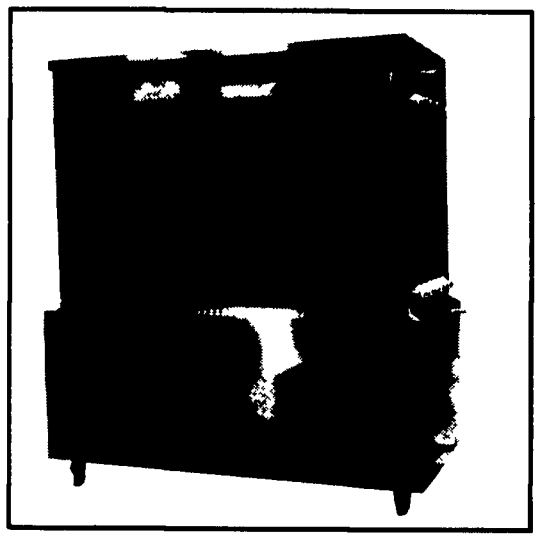
New in 1994

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!



In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-priced" milk-cooling equipment.

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk.



Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$ 17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for 10 years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Mueller scroll compressors have higher energy-efficiency ratings (EER), and are highly durable with only two major components, compared to our competitors' reciprocating compressors requiring 12 parts.

Consider This Alternative For Engine Breakdowns

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — There's never a good time for engine problems. But when facing a complete engine overhaul, many farmers don't consider the alternative — a replacement engine. Replacing old, worn-out tractor engines with brand new ones is becoming a more viable option for farmers.

"For many agricultural equipment owners, facing the probability of downtime during the busy season due to engine failure means pushing the panic button," said Harvey Gagnon, parts analyst, BSD Engines, Ford New Holland. "While being out of the field is bad enough, not knowing exactly what the problem might be, how much repairs will cost or when the machine will be rolling again often creates a stressful, frustrating situation.

"Farmers should consider several factors when faced with the question of whether to rebuild or go with a replacement engine," said Gagnon. "Besides cost, the amount of downtime, risk factor of mixing old parts with new ones, possibility of future breakdowns, and limited warranty must all weigh on the decision."

If a farmer starts to see his "old work horse" is consuming more oil than normal or blowing excessive smoke out the breather pipe, a compression check is recommended. This simple test will show if major repairs are needed.

Determining exactly what is causing low compression involves tearing everything down and examining all pieces for wear and tear. The repair effort then may involve installing numerous new parts. If the block needs to be rebored or the crankshaft needs regrinding, the servicing dealer usually must find an outside labor source to complete this precise work. This extra step can keep the machine out of service even longer.

Gagnon also points out that manufacturers such as Ford New Holland generally have replacement engines available which can be shipped immediately to local equipment dealers. They can then install a factory-fresh engine in a lot less time than it takes to overhaul one. Manufacturers carry a variety of replacement engines. For example, Ford New Holland carries replacements for nearly every tractor model dating to 1965, Gagnon said. Not all manufacturers can match this service.

Rebuilding can also involve lengthy negotiations and may bring unanswered questions, such as how long will the job take, how good is the work and what is the total cost? As time drags on, the relationship between customers and dealers may become increasingly strained.

"To avoid numerous pitfalls associated with an overhaul job, a farmer needs to consider the advantages of putting in a brand new replacement engine," said Gagnon. "In most cases, purchasing a new factory diesel is comparable to the total expense of a complete overhaul.

"Using one of our BSD (Basildon Series Diesel) Engines as an example, when you include a figure representing downtime before the rebuilt engine is back in the field, the purchase cost of a BSD engine is usually only 5-10 percent above the cost of an overhaul," he said.

Durability and improved technology are other solid reasons for purchasing a replacement engine. All engines feature the latest design components, are hot tested, and run up to power before leaving the assembly line.

"Warranty is another budget parameter that can influence your decision. With our new Ford New Holland BSD Engine, there's a one-year warranty. However, an overhaul is usually limited to just 90 days."

Gagnon also points out that manufacturers such as Ford New Holland generally have replacement engines available which can be shipped immediately to local equipment dealers. They can then install a factory-fresh engine in a lot less time than it takes to overhaul one. Manufacturers carry a variety of replacement engines. For example, Ford New Holland carries replacements for nearly every tractor model dating to 1965, Gagnon said. Not all manufacturers can match this service.

Sollenberger Recognizes Dealers

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Sollenberger Silos Corp., headquartered here, recently honored several dealers for tower silo sales.

Somerset Barn Equipment, Somerset, was recognized for selling more than $1 million of tower silos and for being in the top three dealers three out of the last four years.

Graham Dairy Supply, Greensburg, was honored as top-three dealer for being in the top three in silo sales for 1993.

McMillen Brothers, Loysville, was recognized for being in the top three in silo sales two out of the last four years and number one in tower silo sales in 1992.

Hoover Equipment, Tyrone, was recognized for being in the top three in silo sales two years out of four and the number one dealer in 1991.

Sollenberger Silos Corp. has been constructing poured concrete silos since 1908 and sells in about 12 states in the Mid-Atlantic region.

White Oak Mills Has Dairy Specialist

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — White Oak Mills has announced the addition of Ron Gumpf, of Carlisle, to its dairy specialist team.

With more than five-and-a-half years of dairy and livestock feed sales experience and participation in numerous sales training programs and a ration balancing workshop, Gumpf completes ration balancing for White Oak Mills' dairy nutrition department in addition to serving Cumberland, Franklin, and surrounding counties as a dairy sales and service representative. He is promoting White Oak Mills' customized dairy nutritional programs.

Gumpf, a graduate of West Virginia University, received a bachelor's degree in animal and veterinary science. Most recently, he was employed with Manna Pro Corporation, for which he served as a territory sales manager in eastern Pennsylvania for four-and-a-half years.

Case Begins Trading

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Shares of Case Corporation began trading on the New York Stock Exchange recently under the symbol CSE at $19 per share, marking the first time shares of the 150-year-old company have been publicly traded since it was wholly acquired by Tenneco Inc. (NYSE:TGT) in 1970.

"Case has earned its return to public company status," said Jean-Pierre Rosso, Case president and chief executive officer. "The management team has achieved a significant turnaround and has positioned Case for a bright future.

'We are proud to be among those companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange," Rosso said. "This listing provides investors the opportunity to share in Case's ongoing success."

Case is the largest company to list on the Exchange in an initial public offering to date, based on 1993 company revenues of approximately $4 billion. Case has 70 million shares outstanding. Tenneco, which agreed to sell 17.5 million shares in an underwritten public offering, will retain 75 percent, or 52.5 million shares, of Case.

Farm Credit Promotes Wagner

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Mary Wagner has been promoted to the position of senior loan officer at Keystone Farm Credit. The announcement was made by Quarryville branch manager John Mylin.

Wagner grew up in Peach Bottom (Lancaster County) and was graduated from Solanco High School. She was active in various 4-H programs, where she served as an officer and junior leader. After high school she attended Shippensburg University.

Wagner has been employed with Farm Credit for 8½ years. She previously worked for Herr's Motor Express as an accounts receivable/billing supervisor and assisted her father (a DHIA supervisor) during farm visits.

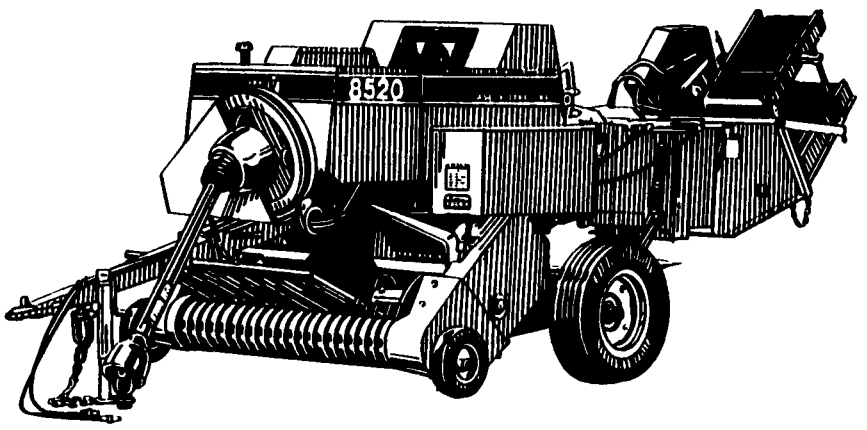
OUTSTANDING BALER PERFORMANCE MEANS GREATER NUTRITION AT AN ECONOMICAL PRICE



Case International 8520/8530 Rectangular Balers

These two balers both feature the Case IH center line design. Eliminates turning corners with the crop to get it into the bale chamber, as is common with conventional designs. This saves valuable protein-rich leaves. Also saves time because you don't have to change from field to road position for transport.

Other outstanding features are:

- Low-profile baler design provides excellent visibility to the rear of the baler.
- Low-profile pickup... reduces crop lifting height, saving nutritious leaves
- Hay goes straight into the unique prepacker chamber... regardless of windrow size... for uniform flake and bale density

Come in soon for the rest of the story!

Extension Honors Cooperators, Volunteers

NEWARK, Del. — The Delaware chapter of Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary society for cooperative extension professionals, recognized outstanding cooperators, volunteers, and colleagues during a recent ceremony.

The awards were presented at a special luncheon concluding the 1994 extension development conference in Dover.

The Keith and Richard Carlisle families of Greenwood received the Friends of Extension Award for their generous support over more than 20 years. The families routinely make their farms available to University of Delaware specialists and researchers for test plots, tours, and winter educational meetings. Both brothers are active in numerous farm organizations and have served on advisory committees, providing Delaware extension with valuable insight on issues related to state agricultural needs. Their wives, Carol and Kathryn, volunteer as 4-H leaders and their children are active 4-H'ers.

David Woodward, Middletown, assistant extension director for agriculture and natural resources, received the Distinguished Service Award for his many achievements, first as a Kent County agent and later as an extension administrator. Among the programs he initiated were a highly popular Farm and Fin Tour for area producers and agribusiness representatives, and monthly Friends of Agriculture breakfast meetings to improve communication within the farm community and with government agencies that impact agriculture.

Bob Mulrooney, Newark, extension plant pathologist, received the Mid-Career Service Award for conducting educational programs that have led to improved disease control in soybeans, small grains, potatoes, pickling cucumbers, and other important Delaware crops.

The New Professional Award was given to Jo Mercer, Joppa, Md. As New Castle County horticultural agent, she has created a program that involves more than 100 volunteers and reaches thousands of people.

The Team Award went to Dr. Sue Snider, New Castle, food and nutrition specialist, and county home economics agents Maria Pippidis, Media, Pa., Roxane Whittaker, Dover, and Mary Wilcoxon, Georgetown, for their successful Keep Food Safe educational program. This program has increased the use of recommended food-handling practices by food service workers in Delaware.

Bonnie Lanzet, New Castle, volunteer organizational leader of the Guiding Paws 4-H Club in New Castle County, received the Outstanding Volunteer Award. Under her leadership, the club has become one of the largest 4-H clubs that raises Seeing Eye dogs. Lanzet, who is visually impaired, accepted the award accompanied by her own guide dog, Zabrina.

The Outstanding Youth Volunteer Award was given to Heather Gooden, Wyoming, a 10-year member of the Westville 4-H Club in Wyoming. Besides numerous personal achievements, she serves as a 4-H junior leader in Kent County, is a day camp counselor, and teaches project skills to younger club members.

The Westville 4-H Club, Wyoming, itself received a Volunteer Group Award. A total of 37 members donated 1,056 hours to 16 community service projects in 1993, ranging from creation of a Hospice Tree and a canned goods collection for Hurricane Andrew victims to Adopt-A-Highway, pet therapy, and Stream Watch. Club members also planted beach grass, and provided decorations for residents of the Silver Lake Nursing Home on numerous holidays throughout the year.

Judy Twardus, Newark, a secretary in the New Castle County extension office for nearly eight years, received the Outstanding Extension Support Staff Award.

EPA Rules In Favor Of Ethanol

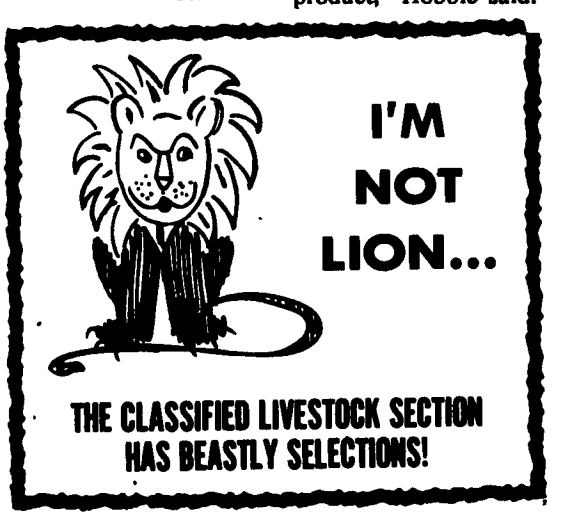
WASHINGTON, D.C. — The "decision by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to require ethanol in reformulated gasoline is good for U.S. corn exports," said Kenneth Hobbie, president and CEO of the U.S. Feed Grains Council. "We are encouraged by the potential growth in the use of alternative fuels in the world market and have market expansion programs in place to increase the export of U.S. feed grains and their co-products."

The council has been working with the Korean fuel and corn processing industries on the advantages of using ethanol produced from corn as an alternative fuel source. Korea has regulations in place to reduce automobile emissions and improve the environment, and they are looking to the United States as a source of information on how to decrease dependency on imported, petroleum-based fuel and improve air quality.

"Ethanol demand in Korea is estimated at 20-25 million galloons, equivalent to 250,000 metric tons (9.84 million bushels) of corn, valued at $25 million. Currently, Korea is not purchasing U.S corn for production of ethanol, but has indicated that they prefer corn as an ethanol source since the major corn-producing nation in the world is a reliable supplier and politically stable," Hobbie said.

The council recently sent a biofuels team to Japan to assess the market and offer concrete recommendations on the development of the ethanol industry. The team noted that a 10 percent market penetration by the United States into the Japanese market would equal 1.25 billion gallons of ethanol or 12.7 million metric tons (nearly 500 million bushels) of corn.

"Feed grains exports remain a vital and constant market for U.S production. Countries around the world look to the United States as a leader in the development of biofuels. The EPA's announcement requiring ethanol as an oxygenate in fuels helps solidify the United States' position as a leader, and provides the signal to our overseas customers that we are the most consistent and reliable source of feed grains for the production of ethanol or can provide the finished product," Hobbie said.



Teens Attend 4-H Ambassador Conference

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Amy Amon, Stoneboro; Marsha Chess, Fredonia; Colleen Jones, Transfer; Jackie Reis, Greenville recently participated in the sixth annual Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference held at the University Park Campus where they attended workshops on interviewing skills, public speaking and marketing.

These ambassadors will serve as spokespersons for the 120,000 4-H members of Pennsylvania.

In addition to the workshops, the conference delegates visited with a number of Penn State faculty and administrators during a reception sponsored with William Asbury, vice president for student affairs.

State 4-H Ambassadors promote the 4-H youth program and the land-grant university system and are available to speak to groups about Penn State Cooperative Extension and 4-H.

The 1994 Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference was sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences, the Office of the Vice President for Student Services and Pennsylvania Friends of 4-H, which provides scholarships assisting county delegates attending the conference.

For more information about the program, contact Elizabeth Lair, 4-H Agent, Mercer County Cooperative Extension Office, P.O. Box 530, Mercer, PA 16137, (412) 662-3141 or (412) 962-5711, ext. 343.

State Cost-Share Applications

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Lewis R. Riley announced that the Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share (MACS) Program is accepting funding applications for winter cover crops to be planted this fall to tie-up residual nitrogen in the soil.

Cover crops are an agricultural "best management practice" used by farmers to protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

"This program is an excellent tool for the farmer to preserve nitrogen and phosphorus and reduce nutrients from entering the Bay waters," said Riley.

Rye, rye/legume, barley and wheat planted during the fall of 1994 are eligible to receive cost-share funding for $10.00 per acre. Following are some cost-share guidelines for farmers to consider.

- MACS assistance is limited to acreage where corn or soybean is the immediate preceding crop
- Cover crops must be planted before certain deadlines
- Grant payments will be awarded in the spring of 1995, after the cover crop has been destroyed
- Cover crops being produced for commodity purposes are not eligible for funding
- MACS assistance for cover crop is limited to 1000 acres per farm.

Farmers should submit a cost-share application to MDA through their local soil conservation district between July 5 and August 5 for the 1994 growing season. Both tenants and landowners may apply for assistance.

The Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share Program provides farmers with up to 87.5 percent of the cost to install selected best management practices (BMPs) to protect water quality and control nutrient movement. Grassed waterways, spring developments, and animal waste storage structures are among more than 25 BMPs eligible for MACS funding. During its 11-year history, the MACS program has helped Maryland farmers install more than 8,000 BMPs throughout the state.

For more information on Maryland's Agricultural Cost-Share Program, farmers should contact their local soil conservation district or call MDA at (410) 841-5864.

Pa., N.Y. Grange Seek GATT Analysis

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange and the New York State Grange have joined forces to oppose the agricultural provisions on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The Granges belileve the agricultural provisions concerning the dairy industry, if passed in their present form, will have a devastating effect on United States dairy farmers. The Granges are asking Congress to analyze the dairy situation before implementing the dairy provisions.

"At a time when the domestic producer is struggling, it is appalling to hear that the GATT will reward foreign countries with significant additional quantities of dairy products," Gordon Hiller, Pennsylvania State Grange president, said. "Conservative estimates show that dairy farmer income would be a loss of 55 cents per hundredweight."

GATT requires the U.S. to allow minimum dairy imports equal to 3 percent of domestic consumption beginning the first year of the agreement. The minimum access expands to 5 percent of domestic consumption by the sixth year of the agreement.

"GATT would severely lower the total income of the agricultural industry in the United States," Bert Morse, New York State Grange legislative director, said. "For every one dollar received by the dairy industry, it is turned around five times with all that a farmer has to buy. In its present form, GATT will have a far-reaching impact on every sector of agriculture. It will cost $5 billion on the New York State economy alone."

Other reasons why the two Granges oppose the dairy provisions are:

- The agreement allows the import of 68 million pounds of cheese when there is already a surplus in the United States
- The failure to meet American standards in health and safety regulations
- The agreement fails to provide a "level-playing field" for the United States because the European ag industry is highly subsidized
- To fulfill lost income from tariffs, additional contributions will be required from producers.

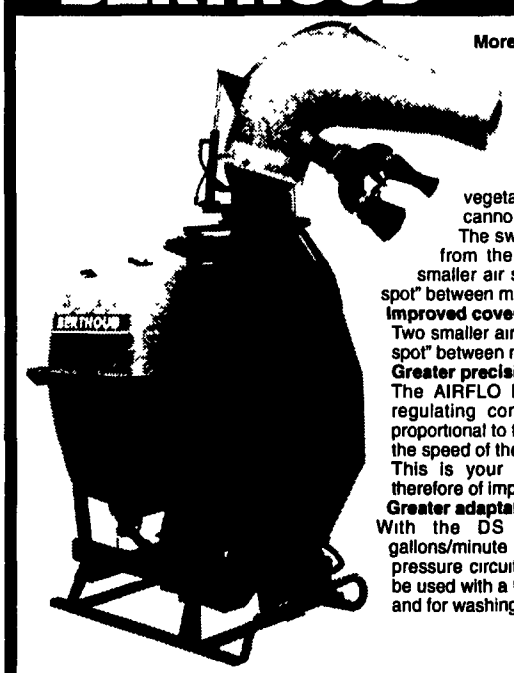
BERTHOUD super airflo



More air
Its exceptionally powerful 39 inches fan delivers an air speed of 280 MPH and is recommended for use with a tractor of 60 or more horsepower
More penetration
The AIRFLO LONG RANGE CANNON ensures excellent coverage for vegetables, row crops and trellised plants The cannon sprays up to 130 feet with each pass The swivel head can be moved in any direction from the tractor seat Improved coverage Two smaller air spouts to ensure coverage of the "blind spot" between motor unit and the cannon
Improved coverage
Two smaller air spouts to ensure coverage of the "blind spot" between motor unit and the cannon
Greater precision
The AIRFLO LONG RANGE CANNON has a self-regulating control system. The fluid flow rate is proportional to the R P M.s of the P T O and therefore to the speed of the tractor (for a given tractor gear speed) This is your guarantee of improved dosage and therefore of improved treatment.
Greater adaptability
With the DS 401 piston-diaphragm pump (12 gallons/minute at 284 P S.I.), the double high and low pressure circuits, and the declutchable fan, it can also be used with a hand gun (for winter treatments, weeding and for washing down the tractor) the airflo long range cannon total perfection for more effective treatment.

Invites You To Attend The Following Events And See The Monosem Precision Planter

Field Day Set for July 20

As announced in last month's newsletter, the biannual Pennsylvania Vegetable and Small Fruit Field Day will be held on Wednesday, July 20, 1994 at the Horticulture Research Farm located at the Russell E. Larson Research Center at Rock Springs. The Horticulture Farm is located on Route 45, west of Pine Grove Mills and east of Spruce Creek. The Field Day will begin at 8:00 am with registration and refreshments followed by tours of vegetable and small fruit research plots from 9:15 am until 12:15 pm. Lunch will be served from 12:15 to 1:30. The afternoon will feature machinery and field demonstrations and for those wishing, revisting of field plots for closer observations. The field day will end at 5:00 pm.

In addition, there will be 12 to 18 exhibitors from industry and extension near the main office complex open all day.

Best Buys in Used Equipment

Now is the best time to buy a Hoober Reconditioned Axial Flow Combine!

Don Carper Says,

Five Reasons Why To Buy Now!

1. Hoober Reconditioned Combines go to the field and work because they have been repaired by Hoober's Combine Service Specialists.
2. All Hoober Reconditioned Combines carry a Hoober Warranty for the 1994 combine year.
3. There is a large selection of late model Axial Flow Combines from which to choose - many with LOW HOURS.
4. Axial Flow Combines put higher quality grain in the tank than conventional combines.
5. Hoober's Parts Department stocks combine parts - so if you need parts, we have 'em.

Level your fields without leveling your combine.

The brilliantly simple Dynamic Hillside Compensation System, optional on MF 8400 conventional combines, gives you "flat land" performance on slopes up to 20 degrees. All automatically. And all at a surprisingly low cost. Stop in today for all the details.

Without Hillside System, crops overload the lower side of the sieve, causing high losses and low sample quality.

PLOW BIG SAVINGS ON GENUINE GARRETT TURBOS

Don't miss this opportunity to plow some big savings on Genuine Garrett Factory Remanufactured turbochargers. Your Authorized Garrett Distributor Penn Diesel Service should have a turbocharger or cartridge that fits your tractor, combine, or other farm equipment. If it's a turbocharged Ag engine, there's most likely a Garrett turbo on it. Look at the following list of OE's. There's a reason why they specify Garrett turbochargers for their engines

- Allis Chalmers
- Deutz Allis
- Fiat Allis
- Ford
- International Harvester
- J I. Case
- John Deere
- Massey Ferguson
- Navistar
- Perkins

For those same reasons, when it's time for a replacement trubo, it's time for Genuine Garrett. All Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured to original equipment specifications at the Garrett factory. It's your assurance of original equipment quality and performance with a warranty that matches the new turbo. Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured with this same high quality parts as new and reengineered for the most recent upgrades and refinements to maintain the exact performance characteristics into the original turbo. For more information on Genuine Garrett Factory Reman Turbos, see your local Garrett Distributor or call or write:

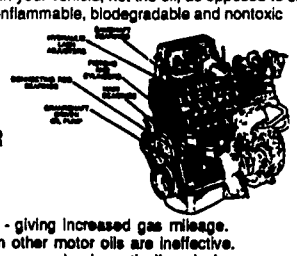
Efficiency Is Our Newest Resource

IXL Technology Is New, Different & Better

IXL is the result of years of research and development in chemistry and metallurgy This terrific new formulation was used to create IXL, allowing it to enhance regular oil, high grade oil, and even synthetic oil, to create a remarkable breakthrough in lubrication Unlike other additives and lubricants, IXL treats the metal in your vehicle, not the oil, as opposed to coating the surface with particulates (Teflon) IXL does NOT contain graphite, moly or Teflon, it is nonflammable, biodegradable and nontoxic

CRITICAL LUBRICATION POINTS WHERE METAL-TO-METAL CONTACT CAN OCCUR



ENGINE:
IXL effectively eliminates Friction - giving increased gas mileage.
• Protects during cold starts when other motor oils are ineffective.
• Increases the drive-train life of your car - by dramatically reducing wear and tear on the moving components.
• Environmentally friendly.

AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION:
IXL protects seals. Reduces Friction in bearings and gears resulting in extended transmission life.

MANUAL TRANSMISSION:
IXL reduces Friction between gears and synchronizers resulting in smoother operating, better shifting with overall protection.

POWER STEERING:
IXL reduces Friction in pump, gearbox and rack. Resulting in smoother operating with less energy expired. Also protects rack and pinion from developing hard spots.

REAR END & DIFFERENTIAL:
By introducing IXL to the Rear End and Differential you protect the ring and pinion plus all gears and bearings that normally fail due to wear. One also has the addition of fuel economy because less Friction means greater gas mileage.

AIR-CONDITIONING:
By adding 1 ounce of IXL to the air-conditioning unit results in smoother operating, less energy expired and eliminates noise and chattering.

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

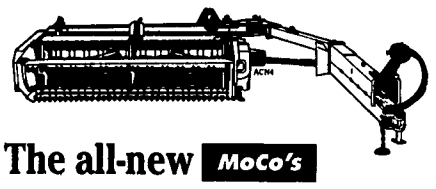
NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER



The all-new MoCo's

- An all new three-point suspension system provides unmatched flotation
- Redesigned guards and a 5-bar reel help the all-new sicklebar machine cut better – and six inches wider – than anything in it's class
- Two new rotary disk models feature the all-new, John Deere-built modular cutterbar. It's stronger than anything else on the market.
- An exclusive Power-Cushion helps prevent the driveline from bottoming out during tight turns.

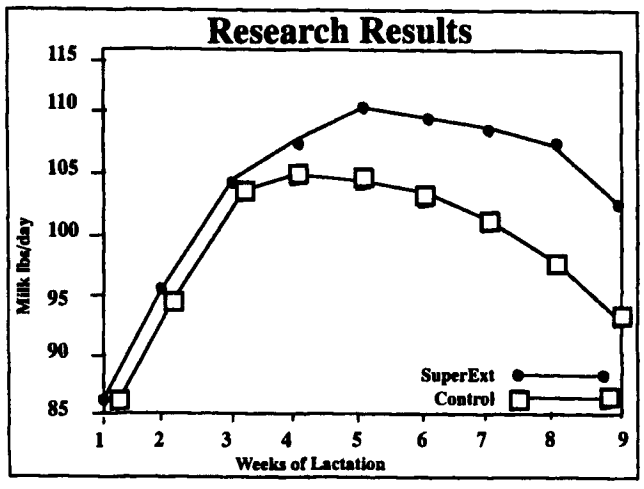
PURINA

SUPER-EXT

A dairy feed that could make your cows more productive, while also improving their feed conversion and breeding efficiency.

SUPER-EXT is a blend of high fat nuggets and pellets specially designed and manufactured by Purina to deliver feed quality, nutrient density and super palatability. The nutrient-rich blend is placed with complete nutrition and is highly palatable.

In field trials, cows fed SUPER-EXT produced an average of 6.7 pounds more milk per cow per day, while improving or maintaining milk composition. And while porduction increased, the cows that were fed SUPER-EXT maintained or improved their body-condition scores after freshening and were more-feed efficient.



Research Results
	Milk	Milk lbs/day	Milk Protein lbs/day
Control Average Production	100	3.24	2.83
Super-Ext Average Production	107	3.47	2.86
Average Improvement Per Cow	+7	+.23	+.03

Consider All The Benefits Of SUPER-EXT

- Increased milk production
- Good milk composition
- Good body condition
- Improved feed efficiency
- Improved breeding efficiency
- More income opportunity!
